Talks Before World Chamber.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The surest and quickest way to restore prosperity to a financially stricken world, in the opinion of President Hoover, would be to lighten the burden of national defense which is now costing the nations more than five billions of dollars a year.

The President made this suggestion today in welcoming the 1,000 delegates of 46 nations to the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce. To achieve the end he held up to view, he urged the business men of the five continents to mobilize their influence upon their respective governments to join in the reduction of armament at the international conference to be held next year under the auspices of the league of nations.

"Of all proposals for the economic rehabilitation of the world," said Mr. Hoover, "I know of none which compares in necessity or importance with the successful result of that conference."

Ignores Other Remedies.

The President ignored all the other suggested panaceas for the world-wide economic depression, such as the reduction of tariffs, cancellation or reduction of German reparations, and allied war debts, the redistribution of gold and the stabilization of silver. He began by asserting that the present depression is such as has always followed war.

"This," he went on, "is not an occasion for review of the action and inaction of such a multitude of items, but I do wish to give emphasis to one of these war inheritances in which international coöperation can effect a major accomplishment in reducing the tax burdens of the world, removing a primary cause of unrest and establishing greater confidence for the long future. That is the limitation and reduction of armament.

"The world expenditure on all arms is now nearly five billions of dollars yearly, an increase of about 70 per cent over that previous to the great war. We stand today with near 4,500,000 men actively under arms and 20,000,000 more in reserves. These vast forces, greatly exceeding those of the pre-war period, still are to be demobilized, even though twelve years have passed since the armistice was signed, because of fear and of inability of nations to coöperate in mutual reductions. Yet we are all signatories to the Kellogg-Briand pact, by which we have renounced war as an instrument of national policy and agreed to settle all controversies by pacific means.

Expensive and Discouraging.

"Surely with this understanding the armaments of nations could be assured with proportionately far less military forces than these. This vast armament continues not only a burden upon the economic recuperation of the world, but of even more consequence, the constant threats and fears which arise from it are a serious contribution to all forms of instability, whether social, political or economic.

"Endeavor as we must in support of every proposal of international economic coöperation that is just to our respective peoples, yet we must recognize that reduction of this gigantic waste of competition in military establishments is in the ultimate of an importance transcendent over all forms of such economic effort.

"International confidence cannot be builded upon fear—it must be builded upon good will. The whole history of the world is filled with chapter after chapter of the failure to secure peace through either competitive arms or armaments.

"I am not unaware of the difficulties of this question. No one would suggest that either national defense should be abandoned or that so great a task as reasonable limitation and reduction of arms can be accomplished overnight.

Cites Progress Made.

"We have made considerable progress in the limitation and reduction of naval arms. We have laid the foundations for still further progress in the future. These agreements have contributed greatly to reduce the burden of taxes and to establish confidence and good will among the nations that have been signatory to them.

"Within a short time the principal nations of the world will meet to discuss the broad questions of reduction in land armament. The very calling of this conference is in itself not only proof of need but it an emphatic evi-

CERMAK INSISTS ON CLEANUP FOR SCHOOL SYSTEM

Will Get Control, He Tells Advisers.

Mayor Cermak told his advisory commission yesterday that he will insist on a housecleaning for the public school system. He said he would use the full power and influence of his office to oust from control of the school board the holdover members who represent the old city hall régime.

The mayor met with the members of his commission in his office and discussed measures for carrying out the reorganization of all branches of the city government in accordance with his platform pledges. He asked the commission to appoint a subcommittee to call upon the members of the school board and demand that they join in the new administration's economy measures or else resign and make way for trustees who will.

Tells of Responsibility.

"I am charged with responsibility for the actions of the school board, and as things stand now I have nothing to say about how its affairs are to be run," Mayor Cermak said. "If it is necessary to go to the legislature to have the personnel either increased or reduced to give the present administration control we will do so.

"If the trustees had any manhood they would resign. They are not wanted. The people at the last election ordered a change. All the roots and branches of the old administration should be dug up, cut off, and thrown out."

The mayor said that if his fight for control of the school board is successful he will call on the advisory commission to make a survey in the educational system similar to that which will be made in the city hall. He then went on to discuss waste in other departments.

Tells of City Waste."

"In the street department," he said, "there are appropriations for men with no duties and who have offices outside of the city hall which are furnished with oriental rugs in which you sink up to your ankles and who never see the streets unless they ride over them.

"In some departments they seem to have used the same benching process that they had in the police department with captains and other officers. Some of the employés are getting $4,000 or more a year and they have no duties because the old administration benched them to make room for henchmen.

"The people said they wanted the city hall turned upside down. We will start the task."

Commission Is Organized.

The meeting of the advisory commission yesterday was for the purpose of organizing. The members chose Sewell Avery as chairman and D. F. Kelly and B. M. Winston as vice chairmen. A secretary and subcommittees are to be appointed later, and it is probable that an executive secretary will be named. The completed organization is expected to be announced at the next session, which is set for next Monday.

Yesterday's meeting was attended by all the members except William R. Dawes, Burt A. Massee, and Barney Balaban. Those present were:

Elmer T. Stevens	Oscar Mayer
D. F. Kelly	Victor Olander
John McKinlay	Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank
Julius F. Smietanka	Newton C. Farr
Theodore W. Robertson	Joseph Triner
	Sewell Avery
Jacob M. Loeb	Patrick H. Joyce
Dr. Chas. E. Merriam	Otto Kasper
Henry H. Porter	Gordon Strong
Joshua d'Esposito	B. M. Winston
Mrs. G. V. McIntyre

Other Economies Listed.

J. Louis Jacobs, efficiency expert, told the advisory commission that a number of jobs in the city departments could be eliminated without loss to the service. It is understood that Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, Controller Szymczak, and Corporation Counsel Busch made further suggestions for economies.

Previously Mr. Busch had announced the appointment of Irvin Rooks as special assessment attorney for the city to succeed Goothart Hahlberg. Rooks is president of the Iroquois club and was an assistant in the law department of the Dever administration.

Mayor Cermak yesterday gave out more than 100 city jobs and it was reported that about 200 more would be filled under the mayor's order. Some of the Democratic committeemen received four or five jobs each for distribution yesterday and some got even eight or nine.

It was reported that Edward N. Hurley, former member of the United States shipping board, had consented to become a member of the new civil service commission. Mr. Hurley was urged to accept as a civic duty.

Teacher and 2 Pupils Killed on a Trestle

Genesee, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Miss Helen Scott, a rural school teacher, lost her life in a futile attempt to rescue two small pupils from a trestle over Spring creek several miles east of here today when the trio were struck by a Rock Island passenger train shortly before noon. The two pupils who were killed are Beula Peterson, 7, and June Mason, 8. Mason, 8.

Edith Peterson, 8, a sister of Beula, was injured when she was thrown from the track by Miss Scott.

The tragedy interrupted plans for the celebration of the opening of summer vacation. The teacher in a score of pupils had gone to the railway bridge to cut willow wands for roasting wieners at a picnic set for this evening. Miss Scott was celebrating her 26th birthday anniversary today, besides planning for the school picnic.

Children Confused.

The children became frightened as they were crossing the trestle and the train bore down upon them. They were confused with fright and the teacher rushed to help them off. She succeeded in throwing Edith clear, but could not reach the others. The train tossed the bodies of all three high into the air. Other children saw the tragedy, and several became hysterical.

The engineer saw the group but thought at first it was a section crew. As the train bore down upon them, it whistled continuously and farmers in fields nearby stated that its brakes were set. After the tragedy, the train continued into Atkinson with the bodies. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Edith Peterson was taken to a hospital in Annawan, where physicians stated that her injuries were not serious.

Brother Sees Tragedy.

Children who witnessed the accident were called to testify at the inquest by Phineas Morrow, deputy coroner for Henry county.

A brother, Lester Peterson, 11, stood beneath the trestle and yelled to Edith and Beulah to jump from the span, but they failed to heed his cries. He was to tell his story to the coroner's jury.

The Peterson children are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Peterson. Miss Scott is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. George F. Scott. June Mason is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mason. All reside in Atkinson.

SAVE TWO BOYS TIED ON TRACKS AND LEFT TO DIE

Mt. Clemens, Mich., May 4.—(AP)—Two boys, trussed with wire, were rescued from a railroad track near here tonight, and deputy sheriffs started a search for a man they said tied them and then stood by to watch them die. A sister's screams, officers were told, caused the man to flee.

The boys, Charles Spoutz, 14, and his brother, Edward, 13, gave a description of the man.

They said that he came upon them as they were picking clover, threatened them with a revolver, and tied them hand and foot. He then carried them to the nearby Grand Trunk railway tracks.

The mother of the boys, alarmed by their long absence, sent their sister, Dorothy, 12, to search for them. She said she saw them on the track and the man standing nearby. She screamed, and the man fled.

U. S. Bars 35 Fokker Planes to Passengers

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aviation, today issued an order barring between thirty five and forty Fokker tri-motored planes from the passenger carrying service on established airways until further notice. The planes affected are of the F-10-A and F-10 types, built in 1929, one of which figured in the fatal airplane crash which caused the death of Knute Rockne, famout football coach.

The order grew out of the investigation of the crash which killed Rockne and seven other persons. Just how long the suspension order will run has not been divulged. It was intimated that possibly some of the planes would not be allowed to return to service until after they had been sent back to the Fokker factories for overhauling and inspection.

"No Reflection," He Says.

"The department of commerce has requested certain air transport operators, who are now using a particular series of tri-motor Fokker airplanes, to temporarily suspend the use of them for passenger transport purposes until such time as the department and experts from the Fokker company may inspect them for present condition of maintenance," Mr. Young said. "There is no reflection of any kind upon Fokker aircraft or its basic design and original construction.

"The only point involved is the actual maintenance of the particular ships. This phase of it will be determined as quickly as possible and the ships restored to full service."

Hits Three Big Lines.

The order does not absolutely "ground" the planes, Col. Young explained, and they can continue to fly with mail and freight cargo.

Service on these divisions of three of the largest operators in the country, Pan-American Airways, Western Air Express, and American Airways, the latter a subsidiary of Aviation corporation, will be virtually at a standstill until the order is revoked or the planes pass a rigid inspection.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffet, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, today denied that the Fokker-Byrd controversy had anything to do with the navy's recent refusal to accept a Fokker plane without further modification.

Kane County Poor Farm's Funds Stolen

Warrants charging embezzlement and forgery were issued at Aurora yesterday for Fred A. Butke, 38 years old, auditor of Kane county for the last eleven years, who is accused of converting more than $50,000 of the county funds to his own use.

GEO. D. CARBARY.

The exact amount of the shortage in the county accounts is uncertain, but State's Attorney George D. Carbary last night estimated, on the basis of the present imperfect information, that it would exceed $75,000.

Last night the police all over northern Illinois had been asked to search for Butke, who disappeared from his expensive home at 255 Lawndale avenue, Aurora, yesterday while members of the county board of supervisors were waiting for him at Geneva, the county seat, to confer with him. He had been asked to appear and explain why certain sums that should have been turned over to the county treasurer had disappeared after getting into his hands.

Tells of Poor Farm Checks.

These particular items were in the accounts of the county poor farm, which produces crops that are sold for cash. Frank Averill, superintendent of the farm, recalled to State's Attorney Carbary that he had given the auditor checks made out to cash for a total of about $49,000 in the last five years. He believed, he said, that there was another of $10,000 early in 1925 that was not included in this reckoning.

The supervisors so far have been unable to find records showing the amounts that have been turned in by justices of the peace for the county treasurer in recent years. It was pointed out that it was the duty of Butke to examine their books and to see that returns were made in accordance with his findings.

Says She Didn't Indorse Check.

A specific charge on which the warrants for Butke were issued was based on the latest check for the sale of produce at the poor farm. Averill made this out to Miss Urania Kenyon, deputy county treasurer. This check had been held by Butke for some time and then cleared through an Aurora bank. The deputy treasurer denied she had ever indorsed it, adding that Butke had access to her office and to the rubber stamp that she used in indorsing checks.

When the auditor failed to appear at the supervisors' meeting the members, who had recently been criticized by Butke for unbusinesslike methods, waited for some two hours and then went to his home. The auditor's wife said that he had driven away in one of his two large automobiles and was believed to have gone to Chicago.

Draws Money from Bank.

At the First National bank in Aurora it was learned that the missing auditor had drawn $1,300 from his personal account, the one through which the last check, for $4,056, had been cleared, on Saturday. Yesterday he again drew $700 and opened his safety deposit box. It is the state's attorney's belief that Butke kept a large sum in cash in the box.

After officials had learned of the withdrawals, the warrant charging embezzlement was obtained from Justice of the Peace W. S. Peck at Aurora.

Suspicion was first advanced against Butke by Averill. He was asked at the end of last week why about $17,000 which was due the county from the poor farm sales had not been

Throngs to Witness Loop Pageantry.

State Street Carnival

A complete program of the State street carnival events on the night of May 13 will be found on page 2. Six o'clock tonight is the deadline for entries in the May 13 parade. No entrants will be permitted to join the procession without an official assignment card from the Jubilee committee in the Association of Commerce offices at 1 North La Salle street.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

A great city out for a grand time.

That, in a line, is the meaning of the community festivities which begin next Monday evening and continue through the week.

MAJ. GEN. PARKER

Chicago has earned this play time.

The electorate has washed the civic countenance. The new officials are bending zealously to problems, the solution of which will put the city's house in order, pay its debts, and restore to it the world's good opinion and good will.

The spirit of the Chicago Jubilee is spontaneous and its spacious program is being worked out with cheerful zeal by State street merchants, by industrialists, by choral societies, by neighborhood, and city wide organizations, and by the press.

The multitude of diversions will be of the neighborly kind—the kind in which thousands can play a part and millions can enjoy.

Parade to Show City Spirit.

Next Monday evening's parade under the command of Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, the world war veteran who did not do his fighting in a château five miles back of the lines, will illustrate the new born and heartening community spirit animating the whole Jubilee.

The big problem of the grand marshal and his aids in these closing days of preparation is not how to drum up a parade but how to hold Monday evening's pageantry within bounds.

Organizations are begging to join it. Already it is calculated that the parade will take four hours in passing the reviewing stands on Michigan avenue between 7th and 8th streets. It will begin to move at 7:30 o'clock, at Ohio street and the avenue, and will disband at the avenue and 22d street. With Maj. Gen. Parker will ride his old companion in arms, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former chief of staff, U. S. A.

Lights to Play on Parade.

A battery of anti-aircraft searchlights will lead the parade and, just as the long twilight of daylight saving time begins to fade, the crews operating the huge lamps will reverse them and flood the miles of marchers with light.

Behind the searchlight crews will come bands comprising five hundred musicians recruited by James C. Petrillo, president of the Musicians' federation.

Then begin the four hours unfolding Chicago's civic, military and industrial power and glimpses of the city's brave origins.

Loyola university, for example, contributes floats picturing Father Marquette's pioneering and preaching in these parts in the seventeenth century. Other floats will show life in and around old Fort Dearborn of the memories gallant and tragic.

Then more historical tableaux, illustrating wedding ceremonies from Indian tribal times to the present.

Will Represent Industries.

The industries of Chicago and Chicagoland will make contributions at once spectacular and instructive to the parade. Henry Ford has entered a car manufactured when he was making his first three hundred, and another bearing a number which shows that his output has passed the twenty million mark.

There will be incessant variety.

Members of the Salvation Army will march through the glare of searchlights and floodlights under fifty of their blood red banners.

A Byzantine choir will sing from a float emblematic of the civic spirit and cultural achievement of 65,000 Greeks who now are citizens of Chicago.

The Illinois Central and North

Western railroads will be represented by models of their pioneer trains.

The Black Horse troop will appear.

Schools and societies will move down the avenue in singing masses.

Schools to Take Part.

Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, R. O. T. C. detachments and naval reserves will be in line.

In addition to the massed band of 500 musicians recruited by Mr. Petrillo there will be more than one hundred bands and drum and bugle corps in the parade.

Yesterday's estimates at the Association of Commerce were that there will be 25,000 marchers and a million people watching them.

So numerous are the entries of historical and industrial floats that one of yesterday's decisions by the association was that these tableaux will have to move down the avenue four abreast.

Golden Gloves Fights Tuesday.

Tuesday evening brings the international Golden Gloves contest on Soldiers' field under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It will be great as sport and heroic as a spectacle. The best amateur boxers of France and America will appear. Twenty-one thousand reserved seats—all there are—have been sold. More than one hundred thousand at 50 cents each, will be available for those who buy at the gates on the evening of the contests.

Golden Gloves is an accepted classic in American sporting annals and has been for four years. This, however, is the first year it has taken on an international significance. Its plane is lofty. It is sport for sport's sake. Its profits go to such good good causes as the work of the Boy Scouts, the Forty and Eight's funds for disabled veterans, and the campaigns of the Amateur Athletic union to keep boxing out of the mire.

French Fighters On Way.

Eight French champions, two substitutes, one coach and one representative of the French Boxing federation are now approaching American shores on the S. S. France. They will arrive in New York tomorrow morning and will leave the same day for Chicago. On Thursday they will be welcomed by Mayor Cermak at the city hall.

The program for the great night on Soldiers' field will include eight international contests and six preliminary bouts, and they will be fought out on a scene majestic in itself, but on this occasion to be further enriched by a lavish scheme of decoration and lighting. Special programs of French and American music will be given before and between the contests.

The State Street Festival.

Wednesday the thirteenth brings festivities which will turn acres upon acres of State street into a vast ballroom and concert hall.

From stages erected in front of key structures of Chicago's merchandising world choirs will sing and bands will play. As Leon Mandel II. puts it, "In the late afternoon State street will be transformed from a highway of homegoers into carnival land."

The scene will present a Mardi Gras for the first time in a northern city. Clowns will cavort. There will be Punch and Judy shows. On platforms at six street intersections there will be music for dancers—thousands of them—for State street, roped off and waxed, will be the ballroom. The dance music will be provided by the orchestras of Ben Bernie of the College Inn, Wayne King of the Aragon ballroom, Ted Weems of the Trianon, Arthur Kassell of the Hotel Bismarck, Daniel Russo of the Canton Tea garden and Ted Fiorito, who is just back from a nation-wide tour.

Loop to Be Playground.

This party will be the premier neighborly event of the Jubilee. For years the loop at night has been a cemetery. Next week it will be a playground at night.

On Thursday evening the area of light, color, and melody will be extended to include Grant park. On that night THE TRIBUNE'S program of fireworks and music will be presented on the lake front.

Twenty-five of the leading choral societies of Chicago—some of them numbering 150 voices each—will move from point to point in the loop, singing as they go and when they pause. Their programs will be given from the tops of buses loaned by the Chicago Motor Bus company, and you will hear everything from Handel choruses to Negro spirituals. In all there will be 1,500 singers and as a finale they will form in a circle on Wacker drive for the mass singing of "America," and other patriotic anthems.

Among the societies will be the celebrated Marshall Field chorus, 150 strong, and the various choirs of colored singers who at the Chicagoland music festival of last August made a city-wide fame in a night.

The choral cavalcade will be escorted through the loop by motorcycle police and its program will be broadcast over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station.

Folk dances on Soldiers' field by twenty racial groups of Chicago on Saturday night will, like Golden Gloves night, sound the international note of the Jubilee and help to make natives and aliens better neighbors. And the fostering of the spirit of neighborliness in a big city is the prime purpose of this seven day party which next Sunday will be given the blessing of the church in Jubilee services to be conducted under the auspices of the Chicago Federation of Churches and the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago.

The Jubilee will also express a spiritual note on Sunday, May 17, when regional services will be held at the Civic Opera house under the auspices of the Salvation Army. Samuel Insull will be one of the speakers. The Sunday Evening club will offer a festival program at Orchestra hall on the same date.

WIFE OF GOVERNOR ACCEPTS INVITATION TO JUBILEE LUNCHEON

Rapid progress was made yesterday in the arrangements for the Women's day celebration to be held on May 18 as part of the Chicago Jubilee. Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson, wife of the governor, accepted invitations to attend the luncheon at the Hotel Sherman on that day. Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, also will attend.

Presidents of more than seventy women's clubs gathered yesterday at a meeting under Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, general chairman of the activities. Invitations were sent out to women representatives of various professions and businesses. Among those invited are Judge Mary Bartelme, law; Mrs. Maude Phelps Hutchins, sculpture; Pauline Palmer, painting; Dr. Maud Slye, research; Miss Cyrena Van Gordon, music; Miss Jane Magan, business; Miss Julia Lathrop, welfare work; Mrs. Margaret Ayer Barnes, literature; and Dr. Frances Dickinson, medicine.

JUBILEE NOTES

Five parades will be staged during the Jubilee, headed by the mammoth one in the loop next Monday night. Those announced thus far are: Grand parade, loop district, Monday, May 11; north side parade, Uptown Chicago district, Tuesday night, May 12; Woodlawn district and South Chicago district parades, Wednesday night, May 13, and west side parade, south of Madison street, Friday night, May 15.

A program of education has been outlined for the Jubilee by William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. The program follows: May 11, lessons, pageants and plays treating Chicago's history; Tuesday, discussions by teachers on the city's growth; Wednesday, industrial and commercial development of Chicago emphasized in lessons; Thursday, glories of the 1933 World fair to be emphasized; Friday, annual review and marching competition of the R. O. T. C. units.

The Evanston city council last night authorized Mayor Bartlett to congratulate Mayor Cermak on the Chicago Jubilee. In his resolution, Ald. Albert Smith, 8th ward, said Chicago's Jubilee was Evanston's Jubilee.

James V. Lanigan, passenger traffic manager of the Illinois Central railroad, predicted a great rush of tourists into Chicago for the festival. Hundreds of reservations have already been made for that period, he said last night, and thousands of inquiries have been received. The railroad has established an excursion for the event.

HERE'S PROGRAM OF REVELRY FOR STATE ST. NIGHT

Carnival Will Excel All Others, Mandel Says.

The program for the State Street carnival to be held on the night of May 13 as a principal feature of the Chicago Jubilee was announced yesterday by Leon Mandel II., chairman of the celebration committee of the State Street council. Included will be stage and radio stars, among them staff members of W-G-N, the radio station of THE TRIBUNE, vaudeville and circus favorites, and other professional talent.

State street will be transformed into an amusement lane for the night. The carnival, according to Mr. Mandel, will excel in pageantry and high jinks the famous Mardi Gras of New Orleans and the Veiled Prophet pageant of St. Louis. From Lake street to Van Buren street the thoroughfare will be roped off and given over to merry making. The sidewalks and pavements will be used for dancing. More than 250,000 persons are expected to crowd State street.

Bands to Play Along Street.

Stages will be erected at six points along State street—Randolph, Washington, Madison, Monroe, Adams, and Jackson streets. An orchestra will be placed at each of these intersections.

The program arrangement as now planned does not show the roster of radio, motion picture, and stage celebrities who will participate in the carnival. These will be announced later. The present schedule follows:

Precedent in Carnivals.

"It is the intention of the store owners to make State Street night a precedent in public carnivals," said Mr. Mandel. "All are coöperating in the Jubilee to make the night a mighty circus of gala entertainment."

At a meeting last night in the Jubilee headquarters of the Chicago Association of Commerce, plans were formulated for the holding of International day in the Chicago Jubilee. The event will be staged in Soldiers' field on the night of May 16 or May 19. Thirty groups were represented at last night's gathering. Edward M. Love, vice chairman of the committee arranging for the day, and Frederick J. Ashley, chairman of the coördinating committee operating the Jubilee, presided.

National Groups Represented.

The groups represented and their programs include: Czechoslovaks, calesthenics by 400 people in costume; Swiss, four yodelers, and 30 in costume; Japanese, sword or lion dance; Chinese, play with racial music; Hungarians, folk dance; Lithuanians, dancing and chorus; Ukrainians, folk songs; Rumanians, dance by young folk and chorus; Germans, folk dance, exercises, and choral group of 400 voices; Belgians, a band; Italians, orchestra of 50 pieces, famous Italian opera tenor, and dance by 50 children under 10; Croatians, folk dances and stringed instrumental music.

Other nationalities represented, but whose programs are not completed, are the French, Norwegian, Polish, Greek, Syrians, and Finns. The Irish were not present, and a group of them is wanted. The American Indian will be included, with tom toms and dances, and singing, led by Chief Silver Tongue.

MORTICIAN HEARS SHOT OVER PHONE AS FRIEND CALLS

"This is your friend, Greer Galloway," came the voice over the wire. "Come over and get me."

Then the sound of a shot came over the phone. Hodkinson telephoned police, and hurried to the Galloway home at 3243 Flournoy street. He arrived in time to hear a second shot. He found Galloway on the floor, two bullet wounds in his head. Galloway died soon afterward in the Robert Burns hospital. Galloway was 38 years old.

Gifts by Salesmen Barred by New Law in New York

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—The salesman who offers any gift or gratuity to close an order for goods, without the knowledge of and consent of his employer, will face rigid prosecution under the law amending the anti-tipping section of the penal code, which is expected to help materially in the elimination of commercial bribery, members of the Allied Salesmen's association of the garment industry were warned tonight at a dinner here. H. J. Kenner, business manager of the Better Business bureau, held that legitimate entertainment between business men would continue, but that the acceptance of entertainment or gifts without employers' consent, as explained in the law, could no longer be termed legitimate entertainment, but rather commercial bribery.

turned in. He told the supervisors that he had made out checks for this amount to cash and turned them over to Butke because it seemed a convenient way to get the funds to the treasurer.

Among other accounts that will be investigated are those of the county tuberculosis sanitarium, from which it is suspected that the auditor may have taken money.

The dates and the amounts of the Averill checks, believed to have disappeared between the signer and the treasurer, are: Nov. 30, 1925, $10,000; Nov. 30, 1926, $7,500; Nov. 30, 1927, $10,759; May 31, 1928, $10,793, and the $4,056 check on Oct. 30, 1930.

As auditor, Butke had no authority to handle county funds. His duties were confined to the examination of books. Because of this the auditor's bond was fixed at only $5,000. His salary was $3,500 a year.

The missing auditor's home, a stone turreted structure reported to be valued at $25,000, is located in the exclusive Riddle Highlands section of Aurora.

Mrs. Butke was taken to the office of Chief of Police A. J. Wirz of Aurora yesterday afternoon for questioning.

"I don't know what he could have done with the money," she insisted. "We just live on his salary."

ASSISTANTS FOR SUPREME COURT LOSING SUPPORT

Favor Speeding Up Work of Justices.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Some of the legislative leaders who have been quietly canvassing the legal fraternity reported tonight a growing opposition against the bill for two Supreme court commissioners among members of the high tribunal itself and of the bar. They report some of the Supreme justices do not fancy the commissionerships, deeming their presence a confession that the court is unable to keep up with its work due to invalidism, while among lawyers protests are raised against cases being turned over to men not members of the bench.

The two commissioners do not hear oral arguments, but make a study of briefs the basis of their opinions. The judges, who have heard the oral arguments, make the decisions, but in cases where the judges adopt the opinion of a commissioner, lawyers on the losing side are said often to exhibit feeling because the finding was written by some one who did not hear the argument.

Would Retire Invalid Justices.

Some of the senators tonight, after saying the subject is one to be treated with the utmost delicacy, held that if the commissionerships were abolished the court would then have to clear up its docket itself, and any member of the court in continued ill health and behind in his work, might, if meeting the age and service pension requirements, be constrained to retire on a yearly pension of $7,500.

Some of the legislators have been looking up the situation in other states. In Illinois no other judge but on the Supreme justice is eligible to sit on the Supreme bench. It is unlike the status of the Circuit and Superior courts in Cook county, where judges are brought from downstate to take care of overlarge dockets.

In New York, Virginia, and Ohio, constitutional provisions are made for a special court to be called when the high tribunal is clogged with work. In New York's Court of Appeals, which is the court of last resort in that state and is rated by the Harvard law faculty as the strongest state court in the land, the seven judges are elected for 14 years and no judge can hold office after he is 70 years old.

Temporary Appointments.

In the case of temporary absence or disability of any judge the court may designate a justice of the Supreme court—this is not the final tribunal in New York—to act in his place. Whenever the court certifies to the governor that it is unable by virtue of accumulated work to dispose of its cases with reasonable speed, the governor is empowered to designate not more than four Supreme judges to sit on the Court of Appeals.

In Virginia, the constitution provides for a special Court of Appeals to try any cases on the docket of the Supreme Court of Appeals which cannot be disposed of with convenient dispatch. The special court is composed of 3 to 5 judges of lower courts, together with one or more Supreme judges. A report by the legislative reference bureau here some ten years back said this was rarely, if ever, used in Virginia.

In Ohio the general assembly, on application of the Supreme court, may provide for the appointment of a commission of five members to dismay be assigned to it. The commission, appointed by the governor, has pose of such part of the docket as a term not to exceed two years, and the commission cannot be created oftener than once in ten years.

Opinions of Lower Standing.

The reference bureau here, after a study of Ohio in 1920, said the commission provision was not often used, and said:

"There is a tendency among the Ohio bar not to give the opinions of these commissioners quite the standing of the opinion of the Supreme court. In citing them lawyers are careful to call attention to the fact that it is the commission, not the Supreme court, speaking."

Some states have provisions for the appointment of judges ad litem (for the particular suit or action) in the highest court, in case of inability of one or more judges to sit. The analysis of the reference bureau says such appointments are made from trial courts in Georgia, Arizona, Idaho, New Mexico, Montana, North Dakota, and Vermont and from the Court of Appeals in California. In Missouri and Mississippi the parties may decide the appointment, but if they cannot agree the court appoints the ad litem judge in Missouri and the governor in Mississippi.

The bureau's analysis says that in some particular cases, the parties may agree upon an attorney to sit as pro tempore judge in California, Florida, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Utah, and Washington.

Provisions for Retirement.

Under the statutes in Indiana and Louisiana, the regular judge may in certain cases designate a lawyer to serve and in South Carolina the governor may commission a lawyer for that purpose. The bureau's study led it to remark, "Little use, however, has been made of ad litem judges."

Some of the states provide for commissioners, among them South Dakota, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Florida, Kentucky, and Texas. Roscoe Pound, dean of Harvard Law school, got his start as a commissioner of appeals of the Supreme court of Nebraska, back in 1901.

Some states, among them Connecticut, New Hampshire, New York, and Maryland, have constitutional provisions relating to retirement of judges on reaching a certain age. In Connecticut and New Hampshire, a judge is ineligible to serve after 70; in New York a judge must retire on the last day of December after reaching 70; in Maryland a judge must retire at 70 unless the legislature sees fit to continue him for the rest of his term.

Chicago Justice Burdened.

Some senators point out that the two present Supreme court commissioners do not render any more aid to the metropolitan district around Chicago, where most of the litigation comes from, than to other districts. Justice Frederic R. De Young of Chicago, in the 7th, has 57 per cent of the state's population in his district and about 65 per cent of the Supreme court cases come from Cook county. Justice De Young is said to hear more motions than the other six judges combined. He has 10,000 lawyers in his district. He works 12 hours a day six days a week, and in seven years has had ten days' vacation and two holidays in hospitals at Springfield and Rochester, Minn.

"But," says Senator James J. Barbour [Rep., Chicago], "despite the mass of litigation from Cook county and the heavy load on Judge De Young, he derives no more aid from the two commissioners than do the other judges. For several years the court has been handicapped by the illness of two judges."

TRAVELS FROM EUROPE ALONE

Candy Quiets Tears

Passengers, policemen, porters, and Wabash railway officials crowded around weeping Terezie Darovcova, 4 years old, from Podkylava, Czecho-Slovakia, in the Dearborn Street station yesterday after she alighted from a westbound Wabash train. Terezie thrust them all aside. They couldn't understand her.

Then Fred Spicka of the Skala State bank of Chicago spoke to her in her language. They talked at length and her tears stopped flowing. "She wants some candy," he explained as he dashed away after some.

Terezie traveled here alone from Czecho-Slovakia, sailing from Hamburg on April 23 on the S. S. George Washington. Members of the Travelers' Aid society put her on a train bound for Salt Lake City last night. There she will be met by her mother, Mrs. Terezie Hayda, and her stepfather, Frank Hayda, and her two half brothers, whom she has never seen—Frank, 2 years old, and Vaclav, 1 year old. Her family lives at Magna, Utah.

Kidnaper Escapes Shots by Diving Into Park Shrubbery

A gunman, foiled in an attempted holdup last night, evaded police bullets by diving into a clump of bushes in Jackson park. The robber had kidnaped Henry Dien, 2849 Burling street, and Miss Emma Huebelsmeier, 1706 East 56th street, in their car, and had ordered them to drive into the park. Dien suddenly brought his machine to a stop in front of South Park Policeman Bernard Ziel and called for aid. The bandit jumped and ran. Ziel fired several shots at the fugitive as he escaped in the shrubbery.

Makes Mistake of Trying to Rob Cops in Squad Car

Louis Klozik, 21 years old, 4714 Laflin street, made a mistake last night when he attempted to hold up a flivver squad riding in the regulation yellow police car. The policemen were Martin Gavin and Matthew Moran. At 45th street and Gross avenue Klozik stepped in front of their car and, threatening them with a pistol, commanded them to halt. They did so, and Klozik saw his mistake. He snapped the trigger of his weapon twice, but it failed to discharge, and the policemen seized him. He was found to have a police record for larceny.

Trio Hold Up Garage Patron, Taking $2,388

Edward O. Tudor, 7015 East End avenue, manager of the rental department of the Cook County Trust company, was robbed of money and checks totaling $2,388 by three men who seized him early yesterday in the Cornell garage at 1703 East 71st street. He had gone to the garage for his automobile. The robbers drove into the place in an automobile. Six mechanics were at work at the building, but all were unaware that the holdup was in progress.

U. S. HIGH COURT GRANTS N. Y. CITY WATER DIVERSION

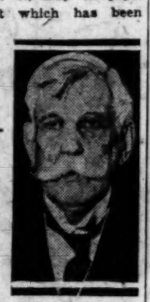
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—In a suit which has been watched with particular interest because of its possible bearing on any future litigation over the Chicago sanitary district diversion, the United States Supreme court today granted the state and city of New York permission to divert 440 million gallons of water a day from Delaware river tributaries in order to augment New York City's water supply.



JUSTICE HOLMES. [C] Harris & Ewing.

Especial notice is attached to the decision because in it the court consented to a removal of water from one watershed to another—a point which was passed over in the recent Chicago decision.

For Sanitary Purposes.

Furthermore, the court countenanced a diversion for health and sanitary purposes in the case of New York, the Delaware diversion not having been submitted to the war department's jurisdiction; whereas in the Chicago case, in which the war department had issued a diversion permit, the court held that the secretary of war had a right to permit a diversion for navigational purposes only and not for the purposes of health.

In the New York case the court upheld the report of the special master, Charles N. Burch, in almost every particular. In the Chicago case the court disagreed with the more liberal report of the then special master, Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice of the Supreme court, and decreed that within a period of a few years the santitary district diversion must be radically reduced.

New York state, which joined with New York City in urging the diversion in the Delaware river suit, had previously joined with Wisconsin in arguing against diversion in the Chicago sanitary district suit.

600 Million Cubic Feet.

The case decided today arose when the state of New Jersey appealed to the Supreme court for an injunction to prevent the impounding and diversion of five Delaware river tributaries within the boundaries of New York state. New York City's original plan contemplated a diversion of 600 million cubic feet daily. New Jersey produced testimony to show that the navigational, commercial, recreational, and sanitary facilities of the Delaware would be curtailed by such a diversion.

In his findings Special Master Burch held that by cutting the diversion to 440 million cubic feet daily, by requiring that impounded water be released at low stages of the river, and by stipulating that New York City must erect adequate sewage treatment works, New Jersey would not suffer more injury than it should reasonably bear.

Rules River Is a Treasure.

The court's decision, which was handed down by Justice Holmes and which will shortly be embodied in a formal decree, stated:

"A river is more than an amenity—it is a treasure. It offers a necessity of life that must be rationed among those who have power over it. New York has the physical power to cut off all the water within its jurisdiction. But clearly the exercise of such a power to the destruction of the interest of lower states could not be tolerated. And, on the other hand, equally little could New Jersey be permitted to require New York to give up its power altogether in order that the river might come down to it undiminished.

"Both states have real and substantial interests in the river that must be reconciled as best they may be."

ALDERMANIC GROUP BACKS MAYOR; HOLDS UP APPROPRIATIONS

At the first meeting yesterday under the new city administration members of the council finance committee indicated that they will help Mayor Cermak to carry out his economy plans. Several requests for expenditures from departments were held up until they can be investigated to establish their necessity.

The committee approved proposed legislation at Springfield which would authorize the city to lease property for a period of 20 years instead of five without advertising for four weeks as the law now requires. Because of the five year lease provision in the old law, aircraft companies, the aldermen said, are holding back on improvements at the airport.

The transfer of the traffic control bureau from the department of gas and electricity to the department of public works was ordered. When Richard W. Wolfe was commissioner of public works the aldermen, because of signal light contract difficulties, placed the bureau under the former department. Commissioner of Public Works Sprague requested that the bureau be returned to his department.

POLICE WITHOUT CLEW IN HACKETT KIDNAPING QUIZ

Don't Know Where to Start Search.

County officials were uncertain as to their course yesterday concerning the story of James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, that he was kidnaped last Friday and released Sunday morning, after his wife paid the kidnapers $150,000 ransom. Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office and Chief William Collins of the highway police said they didn't know where to begin seeking a clew to the kidnapers.

CHIEF WILLIAM COLLINS.

"Hackett tells us that with the exception of a glance at one or two of the kidnapers as they put guns on him he didn't see any of them and would be unable to identify them," said Chief Collins. "He told us he had been to New York many times and was familiar with the language of the New Yorkers and he believed one of the men spoke with a New York twang.

Wife Story Is Verified.

"We investigated the statements regarding the payment of the money to the kidnapers and it appears to be true that Hackett's wife took what money she could get from a safety deposit box, sold some securities, and agreed to have Hackett sign a mortgage after he was released. Jimmy Blouin, formerly world's champion bowler, tell us he accompanied Mrs. Hackett when the ransom was paid.

"The question was raised: why should Hackett tell the newspapers about his kidnaping and not notify the police? Hackett told us he had learned there were three gangs seeking to kidnap him and, one having accomplished its purpose and secured $150,000 from him, he wanted the other two gangs to know he was no longer a good prospect for ransom."

Roche Visits Hackett.

Chief Investigator Roche and Assistant State's Attorney Robert L. Donigan were assigned to investigate the kidnaping report. They visited Hackett at his Blue Island home and upon their return said they had met with little success.

The detective bureau was asked to examine Hackett's automobile for finger prints. Hackett stated that before releasing him the kidnapers carefully rubbed with a handkerchief every article they touched, including his note book and papers, to be sure no finger prints remained. The Chicago police questioned Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, south side racketeer, about the Hackett kidnaping, but released him when unable to attach any suspicion to him.

POLICE TO ARREST MOTORISTS WITH IMPROPER LIGHTS

Parks and County Aid in Campaign.

The arrest of motorists who drive their automobiles with only one front light, or none, was ordered yesterday by the chiefs of the county and the three major park board police forces. The law requires motor vehicles to carry two front lights at night.

Although improper lighting of vehicles has been listed by the National Safety council as one of the major causes of accidents at night, a survey of city boulevards Sunday night showed one out of every ten or twelve vehicles without the required illumination.

Alcock Looks Up Law.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock said he has never seen any automobiles on city streets with only one light. He instructed his secretary, however, to look up the law. The comment of the other police chiefs was as follows:

Chief William Collins of the county police: "I have instructed my men to give every motorist driving without two lights a summons. Driving with only one light is as bad or worse than with no lights. We are also watching the tail lights."

Capt. William Schramm of the west parks police: "We have been watching for light violations all the time. However, I called in the sergeants and told them to issue orders again for the men to stop all violators and give them tickets."

After One Light Drivers.

Capt. Timothy Howard of the south park police: "The south park police are after the one light motorists all the time. A number of them were brought into the station Sunday night."

Capt. James Sammis of the Lincoln park police: "We have standing instructions to arrest all light violators and I have emphasized them. It is a job for motorcycle men, as the patrolman hasn't a chance to stop the violators. Seven violators were arrested Sunday night by my men."

Find Autos Defective.

The first tests of automobiles made in the newly established safety lanes in Chicago Heights yesterday demonstrated that a large majority of the cars were unfit, from the standpoint of strict safety, for use on the highways.

Of fifty-one cars that were run through, only two were given a perfect rating.

Governor Pressed to Build Elevated Highway in City

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson is being pressed by the Chicago Motor club for a definite reply to the question of whether his administration will build an elevated highway in Chicago if the legislature does not disturb the present sources of road revenue. George Barton, engineer for the club, arrived here tonight and will interview the governor tomorrow or Wednesday.

CHARLES M. HAYES.

The question has become pertinent since Mayor Cermak a few days ago announced that he will build a superhighway from the loop through the west side providing the legislature modified the fuel tax act so as to give municipalities a third of the revenue from the gasoline excise. A bill is pending in the house, sponsored by the Illinois Municipalities league, which would give cities 1 cent, counties 1 cent, and the state 1 cent. The state now gets 2 cents and the counties 1 cent.

Governor Is Noncommittal.

Gov. Emmerson heretofore has refused to give a definite answer as to whether he'll construct a superhighway in Chicago. Without committing himself he has succeeded in having the administration road appropriation bill passed in the house, but the bill still faces the senate. It provides $7,000,000 for municipal construction out of a total appropriation of $107,500,000 for the next biennium.

It is estimated that out of the $7,000,000 for municipal construction during the next two years, Chicago, which pays almost half the state's total road bill, cannot hope to receive more than $3,000,000. This is not enough to cover two years' construction on an elevated highway.

Under the 1-1-1 bill, Chicago would receive between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 from the gasoline tax during the next two years. This would be more than enough for two years' work on an elevated boulevard.

"With this gasoline tax," Mayor Cermak said a few days ago, "Chicago could build a superhighway for the west side without boosting real estate taxes."

Motor Club Supports Plan.

Before Cermak was elected mayor, the Chicago Motor club gave active support to the administration's highway legislative program. The motor club for years has been active in promoting an elevated boulevard for Chicago. With Mayor Cermak's pledge and Gov. Emmerson's silence, the club has been placed in a peculiar position which it hopes to clear by a statement from the governor.

"With your permission," Charles M. Hayes, president of the motorists' organization wrote to the governor, "I am asking our engineer, Mr. Barton, to call on you and present a plan for the construction of an elevated highway running in a westerly direction from the loop. We are convinced that congestion can be relieved and the traffic needs of Chicago well served by such a greatly needed improvement.

Will Cost $22,000,000.

"The most competent engineers in this city have prepared exhaustive plans, specifications, and estimates of cost which prove that such a project is both practical and economical. Constructive estimates of cost of building one such highway—the least expensive one—show that the entire project, including the right of way, can be completed for $22,000,000.

"We have spent considerable time endeavoring to promote this highway. I believe it would be a lasting monument to you and your administration, and would stand as an example of the most efficient and popular type of metropolitan highway."

Six Injured by Wild Auto on Broadway in New York

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—Six persons were injured this afternoon when an automobile got out of control at Broadway and Fulton street, plunged onto the crowded sidewalk, and crashed against the iron fence surrounding the yard of old St. Paul's chapel.

Four of the injured were pedestrians. The others were passengers in the automobile. Five of those hurt were taken to Beekman Street hospital.

The car, a heavy sedan, was owned and driven by Angelo Stagneto of Brooklyn. Stagneto, who escaped unhurt, was held pending an investigation.

A. D. Farwell Takes Oath as Lake Forest Mayor

Albert D. Farwell was inducted into office as mayor of Lake Forest last night before a gathering of prominent residents of the suburb. Gottlieb Luedke, who succeeded Farwell as alderman of the 3d ward, and other officials, were also sworn in. A. B. Dick Jr., the retiring mayor, presided. Mayor Farwell reappointed James F. King as city clerk, an office the latter has held continuously since 1897.

Seek to Shorten Highway from Rockford to Chicago

Rockford, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—By constructing a concrete pavement between Belvidere and Algonquin, 25 miles, and utilizing the concrete between this city and Belvidere and Chicago and Algonquin, a new high speed highway of 72 miles between Rockford and the Chicago loop would be available, as against the present Grant highway of 92 miles. A campaign has been launched in behalf of the new route by motorists of Winnebago, Boone and McHenry counties.

Let $1,491,235 Contract for Outer Drive Bridge

The Ketler-Elliott Construction company was awarded a contract yesterday for the construction of the new outer drive bridge which will span the mouth of the Chicago river. The award was made to this company at a joint meeting of the south parks and Lincoln park boards. The company's bid of $1,491,235 was the lowest of twelve submitted. According to Hugh E. Young, engineer for the Chicago plan commission, the entire bridge project, which will cost a total of $10,000,000, will be completed by October, 1932.

DEMAND BRITAIN PAY JOBLESS DOLE WITH INCOME TAX

Unions Oppose Forcing Workers to Aid.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 4.—A revolutionary change in the British unemployment insurance, converting the scheme into an outright dole for all unemployed and to be paid by the national treasury, was demanded today before the royal commission for unemployment insurance by the trades union congress.

ARTHUR HAYDAY.

The organization, the British counterpart of the American Federation of Labor, justified its demand with the assertion that the unemployment insurance fund is bankrupt and that the present scheme is impractical, unfair and does not constitute, in the unions' view, adequate recognition of public responsibility for the welfare of the unemployed.

Urges New Income Tax.

Arthur Hayday, member of parliament, chairman of the general council of the congress, declared that the jobless should be cared for by the nation. Thereupon he urged the abolition of the present weekly contribution by workers to the insurance fund, from which the workless receive doles as well as the weekly levy imposed on employers. Mr. Hayday declared that funds thus collected would be replaced by a new income tax imposed for the sole purpose of amassing a national unemployment dole fund.

Mr. Hayday next suggested the cancellation of the huge indebtedness of the jobless insurance fund, which at present owes the exchequer $384,700,000, insisting that the fund will never be solvent again, and that any new scheme on similar lines will never be able to pay its way.

Would Increase Dole.

The new income tax, according to Mr. Hayday, should not exceed one per cent on small incomes, but the rate would be increased steeply thereafter, particularly on unearned incomes. Additional classes would be permitted to collect the dole, which is now withheld from farm laborers, domestics, and civil service workers.

The final demand is for a general increase in dole payments based on the claim that they are too low to provide the necessities of life.

Land Value Tax Plan Bared.

The Labor government's campaign for taxation of land values was launched in the house of commons tonight by Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden in an exhaustive outline. As forecast farms, allotments, small holdings and market gardens will be exempt from the annual tax levy of one penny per pound [two cents per $4.86].

Where the tax does not exceed $2.50 per year—equal to land of a capital value below $583—the tax is not payable. This provision, the chancellor explained, "will relieve practically the whole working classes," as it affects all plots on which the working class cottages are built.

The tax will be chargeable to the financial year ending March 31, 1934.

"Land for the People."

"We mean to deal effectively with a great social wrong," Mr. Snowden said. "We are asking the landowner to render unto Caesar things that are Caesar's. The land was given by the Creator not for the use of dukes, but for the equal use of all people. A restriction in the freedom to use the land is a restriction of human liberty and freedom."

The chancellor did not estimate the yield of the tax.

"It is impossible to give even an approximate estimate," he explained. "Land values are skyrocketing everywhere, but rates are levied on the old values. Fabulous prices are being obtained for land in the suburbs of great cities. Millions of public money are being spent on roads for the use of motor buses that are rapidly destroying the distinction between rural and urban. Why should there be one value for taxing and five times that value for purchase? The landlord sleeps and grows fat."

140 HONDURANS SLAIN BY REBELS; CITY IS CAPTURED

City Officials Shot Down by Insurgents.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, May 4.—(AP)—Rebel forces captured the town of Santa Rosa last week and killed all of the 140 government troops at the garrison there during a severe five hour battle, reports reaching here today said.

Incomplete details of the battle were received from those reaching Tegucigalpa. However, it was said that more than 200 persons were slain on both sides, including Col. Garcia, defender of the town, and all the soldiers of his command, who had promised to fight the invaders to the last man.

Civil government officials also were said to have been shot by the insurgents. Stores and other buildings were looted and much damage was done. Several prominent civilians were reported killed and others were being held as hostages.

Government troops have been sent to recover the town from the rebels, who are led by Gen. Gregorio Fierrera. It is feared he may voluntarily evacuate Santa Rosa and proceed against other towns in the vicinity.

The loss of Santa Rosa came as a blow to the government, which had sent reinforcements there under Gen. Reinas. It had been hoped these troops would arrive in time to prevent the defeat.

CHARGES BROKER WITH YULETIDE CRUELTY IN BILL

Mrs. Marjorie Savage Pape, 32 years old, of the Ambassador East hotel, filed suit for separate maintenance in the Circuit court yesterday against Charles C. Pape, New York investment broker. Mrs. Pape's attorney said his client followed her husband here from New York after he had fled the jurisdiction of the court when a similar suit was filed there. Pape has been living at the University club.

The bill charges cruelty and alleges that Pape frequently "pinched, pushed, and struck his wife." The couple were married in Chicago in November of 1929. On the following Christmas day, according to the bill, Pape told his wife that he was sorry he married her.

Mrs. Pape says she left her husband at once but returned to him on his promise to treat her more kindly. Last February, Mrs. Pape avers, her husband offered her $5,000 if she would divorce him. She says she left him again and filed suit for separate maintenance.

Pape is head of Taylor, Pape & Co., investment bankers of New York, and has an annual income of $40,000, according to the bill. Mrs. Pape is a writer of short stories.

Charles Logsdon, 72 years old, sacrificed his life yesterday in an effort to rescue his young grandson, Joseph Logsdon, 6 years old, from a fire in their home at 7205 South Hoyne avenue.

The aged man had been resting on the rear porch when fire broke out in the basement where Joseph was playing. Despite the fact that he was almost a helpless cripple from paralysis, the grandfather made his way down to the cellar, but was overcome by smoke. He was dead when firemen found him lying near the boy, who was unconscious. Joseph was taken to the Holy Cross hospital and revived, but his condition was said to be critical.

The child's father is a policeman attached to the Woodlawn station. His mother had left home to do her shopping, leaving the grandfather to look after Joseph and his younger brother Philip, who was playing on the porch with the grandfather. In some manner, Joseph apparently set fire to the basement and neighbors said they heard an explosion shortly after the flames broke out.

INDICT BANK ROBBER FOR THE MURDER OF SECOND POLICEMAN

A second indictment charging murder was returned by the grand jury yesterday against Frank Jordan, confessed bank robber, following an inquest into the death of Patrick Durkin, the second policeman to die from wounds received in a gun battle last Thursday at Michigan avenue and Randolph street, in which Jordan was captured. Jordan is also under indictment for the murder of Policeman Anthony Ruthy, who also was fatally wounded in the battle.

The coroner's inquest yesterday was halted dramatically by Thomas Durkin, brother of the slain policeman, who leaped upon Jordan and beat him. He disappeared in the crowd when police ran to the rescue of the prisoner. A verdict of murder was returned by the coroner's jury in the case of Policeman Durkin.

Funeral services for Policeman Ruthy were held yesterday at Our Lady of Good Counsel church. One hundred policemen, under the command of Capt. Joseph J. O'Connell of the traffic division, and accompanied by Mayor Cermak and other city officials, attended the ceremony. Services for Policeman Durkin will be held tomorrow morning at St. Columbanus church, 315 East 71st street. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Jack Munson, named by Jordan as an accomplice in several robberies, is being held by the police to be viewed by witnesses of downstate bank robberies. He was captured on Sunday.

PRINCESS ILEANA IS BETROTHED TO AUSTRIAN DUKE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 4.—The engagement of Princess Ileana, King Carol's sister, to former Archduke Anton von Hapsburg of Austria was announced tonight from Breisgau castle, at Freiburg, Germany. The former archduke, who is well known as an airman, is 30. He is a son of the late Archduke Leopold Salvator. His brother, former Archduke Leopold, was concerned in a court suit in New York last year over the famous diamond necklace belonging to the Archduchess Maria Theresa.

Anton, who is a distant relative of King Alfonso of Spain, lives in Barcelona and it is understood it was in Spain where Ileana first met him while touring the country last summer with the dowager queen Marie. According to court gossip, the engagement was dictated by affections rather than by reasons of state.

The wedding will be celebrated in Bucharest in June, the consent of King Carol already having been telegraphed. Breisgau castle, from which the engagement was announced, belongs to one of Ileana's Hohenzollern cousins.

Alcock Picks 3 Garages to Hold Stolen Autos

Acting Commissioner of Police Alcock last night ordered that all stolen automobiles recovered be taken to three specified garages, depending on the part of the city in which they are found. The three are the Stadium garage, 1101 South State street; the Buresch garage, 4040 Ogden avenue, and the Fair Oaks garage, 925 Fair Oaks street. Three weeks ago Commissioner Alcock ordered that all automobiles be taken to the Hoskins garage, 56 West Illinois street, regardless of where they were found.

Ballistic Expert Will Conduct Tests.

Coroner Bundesen yesterday announced the finding of a .45 caliber bullet in the body, supposed to be that of "Mike de Pike" Heitler, found last week partially burned in an abandoned icehouse near Barrington, Ill. Two bullet wounds were found in the back of the charred body.

The bullet taken from the body was given to Col. Calvin Goddard, ballistics expert of the Northwestern university school of crime detection. It will be compared with test bullets fired from a number of guns seized last week when nine members of the Capone gang were seized as suspects of the supposed Heitler murder.

Identification Not Positive.

Coroner Bundesen said it was not yet established scientifically that Heitler was the victim. Caburned portions of the underclothing of the slain man were matched with underwear found in the home of Emily Melchen, 3640 Wesley avenue, Berwyn, one of the women known as Heitler's wife.

The burned condition of the body made identification almost impossible and the coroner said his hopes were in an identification of the dental bridgework of the slain man. A description of it was broadcast to all dentists.

Roche Wants Evidence.

The coroner requested that dentists search their records to see if this description tallies with any that may have been made. Pat Roche, chief investigator of the state's attorney's office, stressed the importance of this in court yesterday morning when he said he could not charge any one with the murder until the corpus delicti is established—that is to prove the identity of the corpse as that of Heitler or some one else who was murdered. He made the announcement in connection with a refusal to give any evidence against any of the suspects under arrest.

He said he didn't believe the bombing yesterday morning at 413-17 South Halsted street had anything to do with the supposed murder of Heitler.

Son of Slain Government Witness Also Shot Down

East St. Louis, Ill., May 4.—(AP)—Nicholas Clementi, 18, of Collinsville, Ill., is in a critical condition in a hospital here as a result of a gunshot wound suffered early today. The youth is a son of Angelo Clementi, Collinsville distiller, who was found dead shortly before he was to testify as a government witness in federal court at Danville in March, 1930. Clementi told police he was returning from a party early today when a small sedan pulled up beside him on the street. He said he heard two shots fired, but could give no further details. The identities of the persons who killed the elder Clementi have never been discovered. He was under indictment at the time he was slain on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

ALBERT B. FALL SOON MAY BE IN PRISON CELL

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—Albert B. Fall may go to prison soon if he adheres to his announced intention of not appealing to the Supreme court from his conviction on a charge of taking a bribe.

Fall, a former secretary of the interior, today telegraphed his attorneys here that he was "writing fully." His lawyers took the brief message to mean that his letter would explain his reasons for not carrying the case further. He announced at his home in New Mexico he would not appeal.

If Fall's attorneys withdraw their motion for a stay of the sentence, pending the appeal to the Supreme court, the execution of the sentence is expected to follow immediately. Fall was fined $100,000 and sentenced to a year in jail on a charge of taking a bribe from Edward Doheny, oil operator.

The former cabinet officer, however, may escape prison, either through a presidential pardon or through suspension of the sentence.

SWEDISH FLYER TO SCAN ICE CAP FOR BRITON TODAY

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, May 4.—(AP)—Hope was expressed here tonight that before another 24 hours has passed Augustine Courtald, missing British explorer, may have been found on Greenland's ice cap, where he has been marooned for a number of weeks.

Reports from Angmagsalik on the border of the ice barrier said Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish flyer, was completing attachment of skiis to his rescue plane here late today. With favorable weather he will start for the ice cap tomorrow.

On his way Ahrenberg will watch for Courtauld's three friends, who started on foot with dog teams a fortnight ago to look for the missing man. They have not been heard from since, but it is believed the aviator should have no difficulty in locating them. If the flyer sights Courtauld he will drop food and a note asking if a safe landing is possible.

Ahrenberg will land his plane, if possible, and will bring the explorer back to Angmagsalik. Otherwise he would have to return and give directions to a land party.

MECHANIC HANGS SELF IN JUNGLE AS FLYER IS SAVED

SAO PAULO, Brazil, May 4.—(AP)—Desperately ill, and despairing of ever reaching civilization from the jungle, Quaranta, mechanic companion of Count de Robiliant, rescued Italian flyer, apparently committed suicide, hanging himself from the limb of a tree, the Italian consul said he learned tonight.

Earlier reports of the rescue of the count and his mechanic after a 13 day trek with little food through the wilderness said Quaranta had died after reaching the Parana river. De Robiliant, though ill, tonight told the story of the 13 days he spent in the jungle to the consul.

After a forced landing in the jungle, De Robiliant and Quaranta took their provisions, marmalade and hardtack, and began the hike to civilization. Mosquitoes bit them severly. In one night ants devoured their hardtack. They then subsisted on fish and wild fruit. Quaranta became feverish. On the tenth day the mechanic insisted he wanted to die. On the eleventh day De Robiliant left Quaranta. Two days later he reached the Parana river and an Indian took the flyer to San José. He started back the next day and found the mechanic's body hanging on the limb of a tree.

GERMAN VETS DINNER GUESTS OF AMERICANS

New York, May 4.—(AP)—German and American veterans of the world war met at a dinner here tonight at which Edward E. Spafford, former commander of the American Legion, was among the speakers recommending revision of war treaties for the elimination of war hatreds. The Germans, about 160 in number, were the guests of Lexington post, No. 108, of the American Legion. Some of the veterans were in uniform and all wore their decorations, among which were many iron crosses.

Jailed "Inventor" Vanishes as Guard Is Found Slain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SCHWERIN, Germany, May 4.—Dr. Friedrich Jonas, alias Count Hohenau, who claims to be the inventor of a machine for deriving hydrogen from water, escaped from jail here today. Jonas, a former resident of the United States, convinced authorities that his invention was genuine and they allowed him to carry out experiments in a special laboratory. The guard who was placed to watch Jonas was found slain, and the "inventor" had disappeared.

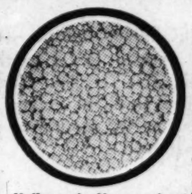
Women Who Know Men Best are changing to this mayonnaise!

WHAT! YOU WANT A SECOND HELPING OF SALAD? WHY, GEORGE, IT MUST BE THE HELLMANN'S MAYONNAISE THAT HAS CHANGED YOU!
YES, HELEN, THIS MAYONNAISE IS CERTAINLY VERY DIFFERENT. I NEVER TASTED ANYTHING QUITE SO GOOD.

Even those husbands who rarely eat salads are enthusiastic about this creamy, double whipped brand...And everywhere knowing wives are discovering this fact by the thousands.

YOUR HUSBAND needs salads in his diet. If he does not eat enough of them, it may be because the mayonnaise you are serving does not suit his taste.



Hellmann's Mayonnaise Magnified 1350 Times

Millions of wives have discovered this to be true... and by the thousands they are changing to Hellmann's, the creamy, piquant mayonnaise known from coast to coast for its extraordinary appeal to men.

HELLMANN'S FLAVOR EXPLAINED. Such a mayonnaise, clearly, has to be made from an unusual recipe and with superb ingredients. Specially selected salad oils... thrice strained vinegar... breakfast eggs... a secret blend of Far East Spices... all mixed to the exact proportions demanded by its famous old French recipe.

But good ingredients alone could never give such flavor. You know this if you've ever made mayonnaise at home. Sure success lies in the care and thoroughness with which each separate ingredient is blended into a harmony of perfection. And that is why every batch of Hellmann's Mayonnaise is double whipped.

Note the tiny globules of oil, regular in size. Each ingredient blended harmoniously, completely. Each contributing its full share to the delicate, piquant flavor... the flavor that most men like so well.

GUARANTEED TRIAL OFFER. Now to prove our faith in Hellmann's power to win you we make this offer: Order a trial jar today... then, if you and your husband do not agree that it is the most exquisitely flavored mayonnaise you ever tasted, take back the jar and get your money.

Ask distinctly for Hellmann's Mayonnaise. This is the famous mayonnaise which always has been identified by the Blue Ribbon on the label. Your grocer has other Hellmann Products, too: Sandwich Spread, Horse Radish, etc. Why not try them?

HUSBANDS CAN'T RESIST IT! Wives! Look at the happy smile of this typical young husband above! He has just tasted Hellmann's Double Whipped Mayonnaise for the first time. And from now on there will be no trouble about getting him to eat the salads that he needs. This little scene has been repeated in literally millions of homes. Why not in yours?

COMPLETES NEW TRIAL PLEA FOR LEO BROTHERS

Expect Judge to Rule on Motion Tomorrow.

Attorney James C. O'Brien, who established a reputation as the "hanging prosecutor" when he was an assistant state's attorney because of the many death verdicts he obtained against murderers, completed his argument yesterday for a new trial for Leo Brothers, convicted slayer of Alfred Lingle.

JUDGE SABATH. [Bu Bois Photo.]

Assistant State's Attorneys C. Wayland Brooks and John Holman will reply to the arguments of the defense attorneys this morning. It is expected that a ruling on the new trial motion will be made by tomorrow afternoon. Judge Joseph Sabath sidetracked another case so that he might finish the Brothers hearing.

Attacks Calling of Ruthy.

One of the points urged yesterday by Attorney O'Brien was that the state made a serious mistake by urging Judge Sabath to call Policeman Anthony Ruthy as a court's witness when the prosecutors admitted the policeman to be mentally irresponsible. Ruthy was shot to death recently by a robbery suspect.

A "grave mistake" was made by Brothers' original attorneys in not having him take the witness stand, the attorney said, and he pledged that if a new trial is granted that the defendant would testify. Attorney O'Brien argued that the verdict is against the weight of the evidence and that if Brothers murdered Lingle the punishment of only 14 years is a "travesty on justice."

Claims Only Two Saw Crime.

The attorney declared that if Brothers were guilty he would be glad to escape with the light penalty and would not be asking for a new trial.

The defense attorney said that so far as the evidence is concerned there were only two eye-witnesses, Louis McCann, who has made an affidavit for the defense, and Mrs. Mary Applegate, wife of the race horse owner, and that neither of them testified in the trial.

AUCTIONEER KILLED IN CRASH.

St. Joseph, Ill., Mar 4.—(AP)—Col. M. C. Dickon, 50, an auctioneer, was killed near his home yesterday when his automobile crashed over a bridge.

BODY FOUND

CHARLES HEYDEN.

The body of Charles Heyden, 43 years old, a stableman wanted for the murder of his wife and a man, was removed yesterday from the drainage canal at Lockport. Heyden has been missing since April 17 when he shot and killed his wife, Lillian, from whom he was estranged, in the presence of their two children in the back yard of their home at 1223 South Harvey avenue, Berwyn. He then shot and killed David Schectman, 3823 Grenshaw street, at the corner of Springfield avenue and Roosevelt road.

2 CAPONE AIDS BEFORE JURY IN INCOME INQUIRY

Gangsters Appear in Several Courts.

Tony [Mops] Volpe and "Dago" Lawrence Mangano, well known Capone hoodlums, were taken before the federal grand jury yesterday afternoon by Assistant United States Attorneys Dwight H. Green and Samuel Clawson, who handle income tax cases. This gave rise to reports that the government is continuing its investigation into the income tax affairs of Al Capone.

LAWRENCE MANGANO.

The jurors before whom the hoodlums were taken have been sitting since the first of April, investigating income tax matters, and Pete Penovitch, who has operated gambling houses for Capone in Cicero, has been before them numerous times.

Volpe was served with a summons when he appeared before Federal Judge Wilkerson on a petition for a habeas corpus writ to prevent his deportation on a warrant issued by Secretary of Labor Doak. The case was continued until May 18 on motion of Defense Attorney John Elliott Byrne, who asked for a month.

The vagrancy case against Frank McErlane, belligerent south side beer dispenser, was continued one week by Judge Frank M. Padden of the Felony court on request of Attorney Joseph R. Roach of the defense.

McErlane, who was arrested on the vagrancy warrant Saturday, was less surly than usual when he appeared in court. He denied any knowledge of the recent killing of Edward Fitzgerald, whose death was ascribed to hostilities between the McErlane and Edward [Spike] O'Donnell forces, and of attempts on the life of O'Donnell.

The vagrancy cases against Sam Kaplan, Sammy [The Greener] Jacobson, John J. [West Side] Barry, and Anthony [Red] Kissane, were continued to June 4 by Judge Justin F. McCarthy, who indicated he would then nolle pross them.

Hearing on a motion for a new trial for William [Three Fingered Jack] White, under sentence of 14 years for the murder of Policeman Edward Pflaume, was continued until tomorrow by Judge Joseph Sabath.

Dry law charges against West Side Frankie Pope, his brother, Willie, and a cousin, Freddie, were set for trial on June 2 by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Louis Campagna, who was arraigned before Judge Padden on a vagrancy charge, demanded a jury trial and the case was sent back to Chief Justice Sonsteby.

A charge of gun toting against Danny Stanton, Capone henchman, was continued indefinitely yesterday by Judge Peter Schwaba in the criminal court. The case was continued, it was announced, to await the outcome of Stanton's appeal now in the Supreme court on the efforts to extradite him to Wisconsin for the murder of Jack Zuta, former west side vice king.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Fred Denarek, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory; Elman Fox, assault, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Charles A. Williams.

Tony Marazas and William Balter, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Husband Deported; Mother of 2 Children Hangs Self

Several weeks ago Mrs. Domenica Carli's husband, John, was deported to his native country, Itzly, as a public ward. Yesterday Mrs. Carli was found dead, hanging from a pipe in her home in Lockport. The deportation of her husband was believed to have preyed on her mind. Carli had been an inmate of the state asylum at Kankakee. At the time of Mrs. Carli's suicide her two young children were playing in front of the house.

COMPLETE PLEAS IN SUIT TESTING TRANSIT PROGRAM

Lawyer Assails Action of Carlstrom, Swanson.

Attorney Stephen A. Foster, representing two taxpayers, and Attorney Walter L. Fisher, special counsel for the city, yesterday completed their arguments in the suit attacking the validity of the consolidated transportation program. Superior Judge William J. Lindsay took the case under advisement, announcing that he would make his decision known in a few days.

This suit, which alleges that the acts passed by the 1929 legislature to enable Chicago to grant a terminable permit to a consolidated company are null and void, was brought by Mrs. George Bass and Augustus Olson, taxpayers. An injunction is asked to restrain the city from spending any of the transit fund until the legality of the franchise is established.

Assails "Identical Suit."

In his closing arguments Attorney Foster assailed Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom and State's Attorney John A. Swanson for bringing "an identical suit," one which, Foster said, contains the same charges made in his bill.

The action started by the attorney general and state's attorney was in the nature of a quo warranto proceedings to test the validity and constitutionality of the enabling legislation. By means of these proceedings it is hoped to hasten a decision on the entire subject by the Illinois Supreme court.

Attorney Foster began his argument by declaring that if the attorney general and state's attorney were in earnest in bringing their suit, then it might be recognized as an indorsement of the force of his arguments. On the other hand, Foster said, if the suit is not brought in good faith, then it is merely an attempt "to beat" him to the Supreme court where a "straw man" of argument may be set up that the city may easily knock down."

Presents Lawyer's Affidavit.

In an effort to strengthen his suggestion of collusion between the city and attorney general, Mr. Foster submitted an affidavit sworn to by an attorney associated with his firm, which says that the charges in the two suits are identical.

The affidavit points out that the quo warranto proceedings were instituted at the suggestion of James Simpson, chairman of the citizens' transit settlement committee. The enabling legislation, the document goes on to say, was sponsored by the same committee.

The affidavit also quotes Simpson as having said that "it would be a municipal calamity for the transportation to be unnecessarily delayed." Foster then asked the court to issue a permanent injunction so that the entire matter might be carried at once to the higher court.

Attorney Fisher spoke briefly in regard to the authoritativeness of certain arguments advanced by Attorney Foster.

dence of progress in the world demand for relief and for peace. Of all proposals for the economic rehabilitation of the world I know of none which compares in necessity or importance with the successful result of that conference.

"The United States has a less direct interest in land armament reduction than any other of the large nations because our forces have been already demobilized and reduced more than all others. We have, however, a vast indirect interest in greater assurance of peace, order and the increased economic property of other nations. It is within the power of business men of the world to insist that this problem shall be met with sincerity, courage, and constructive action. It is within the power of statesmen to give to the world a great assurance for the future and a great moral victory for humanity."

Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, chairman of the American delegation, who presided, said in opening the session that while the international chamber might not be able "to prescribe a panacea for the cure of all the world's ills" its deliberations will prove instructive to the public.

In an exhaustive review of the world depression the president of the chamber, Georges Theunis, former premier of Belgium, touched in a veiled manner on the popular theory abroad that the American tariff and the American corner on the gold supply are to blame for the ills of Europe.

Blames Unrest on Gold.

"There is no doubt," he said, "that the gold situation is far from satisfactory. The fundamental cause of the unequal distribution of gold lies in the uncertain political situation and in the protectionist policies which prevent goods from taking the place of gold."

He suggested concerted action toward lowering of tariffs of all countries, saying that "commercial policy and the customs tariff in force in most of the countries of the world constitute one of the fundamental causes of our actual economic troubles."

Senator Bulkley of Ohio Suffers a Fractured Rib

Cleveland, O., May 4.—(AP)—United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley said today he suffered a fractured rib at his home here yesterday when he fell over a chair. He was at his office today. He said the fracture, on his right side, was not serious.

DOAK'S FIGURES SHOW BUSINESS ON UPGRADE

Labor Secretary Tells of Reviving Industry.

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor W. N. Doak, at a luncheon today of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, said that information gathered by his department indicates that the bottom of the business depression has been reached and an upward movement has begun.

Mr. Doak said that President Hoover's action in asking leaders of business and industry to maintain wages and employment, and his inauguration of public works, was a great aid in preventing a worse depression.

Praises Stabilizing Efforts.

"Probably never in our history has an administration made more energetic efforts than the one now in Washington to stabilize industry and labor," he continued.

"No one can tell how long this depression will last, but I am led to believe that the bottom has been reached and an upward movement already has started. This seems to be justified by the information gathered by the labor department. A comparison of the number of employés in nearly 14,000 manufacturing plants is made month by month and year by year.

Cites Employment Figures.

"March over January showed 2½ per cent increase in the number of employés and 10 per cent increase in pay rolls. These are trustworthy, stable, comparable data devoid of any speculative possibilities. Other trades show an improvement. Courage, patience and confidence in our ability will solve the economic and any other problem to confront us.

"During these trying times the calls upon philanthropic services like yours must of necessity be great, but that you in this particular association are alive to the needs of those whom you represent, and that you manifest such a high and humane interest in the well being of your people, is worthy of great praise."

ROB WOMAN IN HOME.

Two robbers entered the flat of Mrs. Blanche Giese at 4828 Hutchinson street early yesterday and robbed her of $700 worth of jewelry and clothing after binding and gagging her. They gained entrance by pretending that they were prospective tenants for a vacant flat in the building, which Mrs. Giese owns.

Nothing has so startled the community as the effect of Nurito, a physician's prescription for rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica, and lumbago. It is now to be had at the local drug stores, and is certainly a boon to humanity. Many won't believe such a thing possible, as almost instant relief in even bed-ridden cases of excruciating pain. They say it must be a narcotic. But it isn't anything of the sort, and to prove it get the regular package from the drug store. Try it as directed and if it doesn't prove almost a miracle in driving away pain with two or three doses your money will be instantly refunded. TURKS RE-ELECT KEMAL PASHA AS REPUBLIC'S HEAD

ANHARA, Turkey, May 4.—(AP)—Mustapha Kemal Pasha today was re-elected president of the republic of Turkey by the unanimous vote of the fourth national assembly, in session here. The president's second term ended today and the assembly met in extraordinary session to name a successor.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha has frequently refused to accept a life presidency, but he appears to be automatically approaching that state, as today he entered his third term of four years.

As a matter of form, Ismet Pasha will present the resignation of the entire cabinet. It is considered certain the president will rename him prime minister. The Ghazi, who is 49 years old, was elected first president of the Turkish republic Oct. 29, 1923, after a revolution had overthrown the rule of the sultan.

PREPARING DATA FOR CONFERENCE ON DISARMAMENT

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—Speeding plans for the next general disarmament conference, state department officials tonight virtually had completed preparations of extensive data covering military establishments of the United States, including naval, military and air forces.

The data was collected at the request of the league of nations and will be forwarded soon to Geneva. Similar requests were made of all nations which will participate in the forthcoming general disarmament conference, the time and meeting place of which will be set by the league council this month.

Simultaneously, it was learned that America's principal diplomatic figure in the disarmament question, Hugh S. Gibson, ambassador to Belgium, will confer with Secretary Stimson soon on the armament problem.

Mr. Gibson is coming home on a leave of absence to attend to personal business.

"GOOD telephone service is a valuable asset to any business, and we in the produce industry, transacting at least seventy-five per cent of our business over the telephone, certainly should be in a position to judge the value of efficient service such as we have received from your company."

HIDDEN VALUE IN YOUR TELEPHONE

This sentence, from a letter received recently, expresses an opinion of telephone service which is found to be quite general among users.

Here is a concern which handles seventy-five per cent of its business by telephone. These transactions would run to thousands, perhaps millions, of dollars yearly. Without the telephone other methods of handling would have to be used—methods which would be slower and more expensive. And this extra cost would have to be added to the consumers' price.

What is true of the produce business is true of every other business. Thus the telephone not only makes direct profit for those who use it but it helps to keep down the price of everything the public buys.

JAPANESE FLYER ENDS SECOND LEG OF DASH TO U. S.

BULLETIN.

NEMURO, Japan, May 5.—(Tuesday.)—(AP)—Seiji Yoshihara landed here at 11:54 a. m. today (9:54 p. m. Monday, Chicago daylight time), after a 297 mile flight from Numasaki.

NUMASAKI, Japan, May 5.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Seiji Yoshihara, Japan's foremost aviator, resumed his solo flight to the United States today, taking off at 8:45 a. m. (6:45 p. m. Monday, Chicago daylight time) on the second leg to Nemuro on the northwest edge of Hokkaido island, 297 miles away.

The 27 year old birdman flew here yesterday from Tokio, a 368 mile hop, on the first leg of his 6,268 mile air voyage to San Francisco. Upon leaving Nemuro Yoshihara plans to soar out along the Kurile islands and with two intermediate landings arrive at Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka peninsula.

The route from Kamchatka lies over the stormy and foggy Bering sea and North Pacific ocean, with many halts in the volcanic Aleutian chain and the rugged Alaskan shore.

Carries Message to Hoover.

The young Japanese, making the flight under auspices of the Hochi Shimbun, a Tokio newspaper, has expressed confidence of surmounting all difficulties to deliver Japan's message of good will to President Hoover in Washington. He is piloting a light all metal Junkers seaplane with an open cockpit and no radio.

He plans to reach Vancouver in twenty days. At Seattle he expects to exchange his sea pontoons for landing gear to continue his flight over the coastal peaks to San Francisco.

He took to the air from Tokio in advance of Thomas Ash Jr., an American, who plans a nonstop flight from Japan to America in the plane which failed to bear Harold Bromley last year. Ash is scheduled to start May 30.

DO-X Reaches Bolama.

BOLAMA, Portuguese Guinea, May 4.—(AP)—The giant German seaplane DO-X, which started for America on Nov. 5, 1930, arrived here yesterday afternoon, in the best of condition, after a flight of 950 miles from Villa Cisneros, in the Spanish province of Rio de Oro.

Test Flights for Ocean Hop.

BERLIN, May 4.—(AP)—A series of test flights, to be made under tropical flying conditions near the equator, will determine whether the giant air liner DO-X will attempt a trans-Atlantic flight from Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, to Brazil, according to information received from the DO-X commander today.

The commander, Capt. Friedrich Christiansen, sent word to the officials of the Dornier company that he had landed at Bolama at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The message said the trip was made without incident. It was the longest flight yet attempted by the DO-X, but only half the distance which would have to be flown on the trans-Atlantic hop from Bolama to Pernambuco, Brazil.

Debate Nonstop Flight.

Officials of the Dornier company said they were unable to predict whether, if the flight to Brazil is decided upon, it will be a nonstop flight or whether arrangements will be made for refueling at a tank ship stationed in midocean.

"Everything depends," they said, "on the test flights. These might even indicate that the year is already too far advanced for flying in the region of the equator."

It was pointed out that the tropical heat sometimes reduces the plane's carrying capacity at the moment of a takeoff. If it should prove that the DO-X was unable to carry sufficient fuel to cover the almost 2,000 miles to Pernambuco under any weather conditions, it was felt here that the trip would be cancelled.

OFF ON JAPAN-U. S. FLIGHT

He flew to Nemuro, on the northwest tip of Hokkaido island, 297 miles away, today. Flying alone and in an open seaplane, Yoshihara plans to soar along the Kurile islands to Petropavlovsk, Siberia, thence over the Aleutian islands in the North Pacific to Seward, Alaska, down the coast to Seattle, and San Francisco.

The airman expects to reach the United States in about 20 days, with as many stops in between.

Three Boys "Camp Out" in Barn; All Die in Fire

BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 4.—(AP)—A triple funeral will be held tomorrow for the three young Rashotte boys, who lost their lives when the barn in which they were "camping out" for the night burned early yesterday. A fourth son was with his mother in nearby Stirling when the barn burned.

Juliette Lippe Applauded During Siegfried in London

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 4.—The feature of tonight's Covent Garden opera presentation of "Siegfried," was the London debut of the American soprano, Juliette Lippe. Although she only appeared in the last act as Brunnhilde, the rôle was a fine test of her artistic worth and showed her glorious voice. But her gestures were reminiscent of Da Croze. Friedrich Schorr as Wotan and Heinrich Teshmer as Mime, completed the fine cast. Bruno Walter conducted the performance.

WOMAN NOVELIST SUES ARCHITECT FOR A MILLION

Ernest Graham Accused of Conspiracy.

Mrs. Alma Newton Anderson, novelist, began legal proceedings yesterday against Ernest R. Graham, the architect, and Thomas McGuire, head of a private detective agency, asking for damages of $1,000,000. Through her attorneys, Nathanson, Block & Sitron, Mrs. Anderson charged that Graham and McGuire conspired to ruin her "health, good name and career."

Two suits for $500,000 each were filed in the Superior court, one alleging libel and the other conspiracy. Neither Mrs. Anderson nor her attorneys would discuss the suits and a motive for the alleged conspiracy was not set forth in the actions.

Former Friends, Says Attorney.

Shortly after the filing of the suits a member of the law firm made the following statement: "Mrs. Anderson and Graham were friends until four or five years ago. Since then Mr. Graham has married. The campaign of oppression against Mrs. Anderson was begun by Graham in 1929."

McGuire said that he had "never heard of Mrs. Anderson." Under the name of Alma Newton, Mrs. Anderson has written, among other books, "The Blue String," "Shadows," "Memories," and "An Old Fashioned Romance." Last November Mrs. Anderson filed a $250,000 libel suit against Graham in New York. The suit has not been tried.

Mrs. Anderson alleges in the suits that since 1929 detectives have followed her daily and annoyed and harassed her.

Charges Shattered Nerves.

The operatives have approached her friends, Mrs. Anderson charges, and offered money to them in exchange for information which would blacken her character.

As a result of the constant shadowing, Mrs. Anderson avers, her nerves are shattered, she has lost her ability to write, and her reputation has been destroyed.

The libel suit quotes two letters bearing the alleged signature of McGuire, who is senior member of the McGuire & White Detective agency, 33 South Dearborn street. One of these letters was addressed to Mrs. B. C. Compton of New York City, said to be a friend of Mrs. Anderson. It stated that a letter written by Mrs. Compton to McGuire contained "a veiled threat and should not have been sent through the mail."

The other letter was addressed to a New York detective agency and made mention of a woman who was "a blackmailer unworthy of belief and who should be in jail." Mrs. Anderson alleges that she was the woman referred to in the letter.

Mrs. Anderson is 42 years old and a widow. She lives at the Ambassador hotel.

Graham is a member of the firm of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, architects. This firm had designed many notable buildings in Chicago, New York, and other cities.

Why We Carry 12,000 Two Trouser Suits This Spring

During the rather short span of our career, men who knew nothing about us learned that our clothes could be trusted.

They liked our London-designed fashions and our expensive-looking fabrics. And, after they'd worn them, they spread the word among their friends that Bond clothes performed like thoroughbreds—and that they cost quite a bit less!

Today, so many men know this, that even with our enormous stocks it looks as though we haven't enough.

We think this rather pleasing state of affairs is due to the fact that we make the clothes we sell—a most thrifty way of doing business for us, and for our customers.

DIABETES

New Way to Drive Out Poisons—Increases Sugar Tolerance

A NEW method which drives out the deep-seated body poisons in the blood is now producing wonderful results for diabetes sufferers. This treatment, which is called Sleepy Water, gets at the poisons which cannot be reached by laxatives and ordinary drugs. Its mild alkalines neutralize acid body wastes, which so often are at the bottom of the body gland disorders that cause diabetes, and which constantly aggravate the disease.

Actual clinical tests have shown that Sleepy Water often increases the sugar tolerance, in a very short time, to the point where blood sugar is reduced to normal.

Not only diabetes, but rheumatism, arthritis, neuritis and 25 other serious common chronic diseases are quickly relieved by Sleepy Water. Fatigue, low resistance, and sallow muddy complexions also disappear rapidly as Sleepy Water drives these dangerous acid body wastes from the system, not through the intestines, but through the kidneys.

Now you can demonstrate in your own home how Sleepy Water acts to drive out body poisons. Write or phone today and get a specially helpful and interesting book on Diabetes and its treatment and full information about the 30-minute test. Chewaukla Mineral Springs Co., Dept. OLD CITY HALL WARD LEADERS FIGHT FOR JOBS

Meet in Secret to Consider Plans.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Ward committeemen identified with the city hall machine in the recent mayoralty election gathered in secret session yesterday to discuss ways and means of prolonging their political power.

FRANK W. ZINTAK.

As the primary law now stands the terms of members of the county committee expire next April. As Morris Eller, former city collector, was the only white committeeman who carried his ward for the former mayor, the little handful still loyal to the old hall machine see little chance of continuing even in party office if they have to go before the voters at that time.

Work for Assembly Bill.

For that reason, it was reported, they met secretly at the Hotel Sherman and planned to line up votes in the legislature for house bill 880, which would double the terms of ward committeemen, extending them from two to four years. The passage of such an act would leave the incumbents in power until 1934.

That bill was introduced in the lower house at Springfield by Representative A. O. Galvin from Homer K. Galpins territory on the west side, on April 15, the week after the city hall defeat. It was referred to the committee on elections, where it has slumbered.

This lack of action has been due largely to immediate, although informal protests from both Republican and Democratic members. It was asserted that both party organizations in Cook county, which is the only county in the state having ward committeemen, want new committees elected next year.

Want New Machinery.

Republican leaders in Chicago insist that the reorganization they contend is badly needed cannot be brought about except through the creation of new county machinery. The Democrats also say that there will be important changes in their committee if an election is held. It is contended that some of the present ward committeemen did not support Cermak whole heartedly and permitted between 100,000 and 150,000 anti-Cermak votes to swell his opponent's.

It also has been pointed out that the city council is expected to remap the city before the summer vacation—possibly within a month or so—changing the boundaries of every ward in the city, eliminating some of the rotten boroughs, and giving the growing areas the representation to which they are entitled.

Would Be Denied Recognition.

If the present ward committeemen were continued in office for approximately three years more, it is argued, the rotten boroughs would continue to have undue representation while the residential sections including the big Republican wards would be denied their just recognition.

Because of the secrecy surrounding the meeting no list of the committeemen who attended the Sherman meeting was obtainable, but it was said to have been a disappointment to the promoters. Almost without exception the committee members who followed the city hall up to last month held good jobs under the former mayor, but most of them are out now and their surface loyalty has waned according to gossip.

Snag on Szymczak Vacancy.

The Democratic organization has run into a snag in the election of a successor to M. S. Szymczak as clerk of the Superior court. Szymczak has been appointed controller by Mayor Cermak and his court office is to be filled by vote of the judges of the court.

The Democratic county committee—at the instance of Szymczak and his friends, it is said—has indorsed Frank V. Zintak, ward committeeman of the Twelfth ward, for the clerkship. The majority of Superior court judges are Democratic, but it is said a number of them disapprove Zintak's selection. One has been heard to say he believes the judges should "select as well as elect."

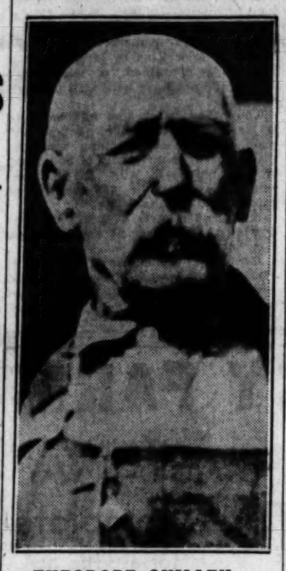
FIGHTS AT 109



THEODORE QUILLEN.

Logansport, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Theodore Quillen of this city, is the oldest man in the state. His aged family Bible shows he's 109 and the fact was attested the other day when Quillen was haled into Logansport's city court for fighting with a comparative youngster, aged 87, over the question of whether there is a hell.

The centenarian said there was, brimstone and all. The fight was declared a draw. Later City Judge Custer released both men on their promise to behave.

The court asked Quillen his recipe for old age.

"It's just 'don't complain,'" said Quillen. "Take what's coming and go ahead."

GRAND JURY GETS BANK ACCOUNTS OF POLICE HEADS

Clear Capt. Prendergast in Statement.

The special grand jury investigating alleged corruption in the police department started to work yesterday on a new batch of bank accounts of police officials, including those of Acting Commissioner Alcock and a number of captains. Officials from 50 banks appeared to hand over the accounts of the various officials named in the subpoena duces tecum issued last week by Chief Justice McGoorty.

Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles Lounsbury said that the next two or three days would be devoted to collecting the accounts of the 41 police officials. The jurors will then start a study of the accounts to determine which officials should be called on for explanations.

Clear Capt. Prendergast.

Capt. John Prendergast of the 2d district, whose bank account was obtained in the original subpoena several weeks ago, appeared before the jurors yesterday and volunteered to answer all questions. He was later given a clean bill through J. A. Farmar, foreman of the jury.

"We are more than pleased to announce that Capt. Prendergast has satisfactorily explained all items in his bank account and he has been given a clean bill so far as available records will show," said Mr. Farmar.

In his charge to the regular May grand jury, which was sworn in yesterday, Justice McGoorty called attention to the investigation of the special jury and of the police orders of Mayor Cermak.

Praises Cermak's Actions.

"The severe condemnation by Chicago's mayor of political interference with police administration is a courageous and admirable act, worthy of the highest commendation," said Judge McGoorty.

"It is not expected that attempts at such political influence will cease, with privilege so strongly intrenched. The mayor will, however, have the powerful suport of public opinion."

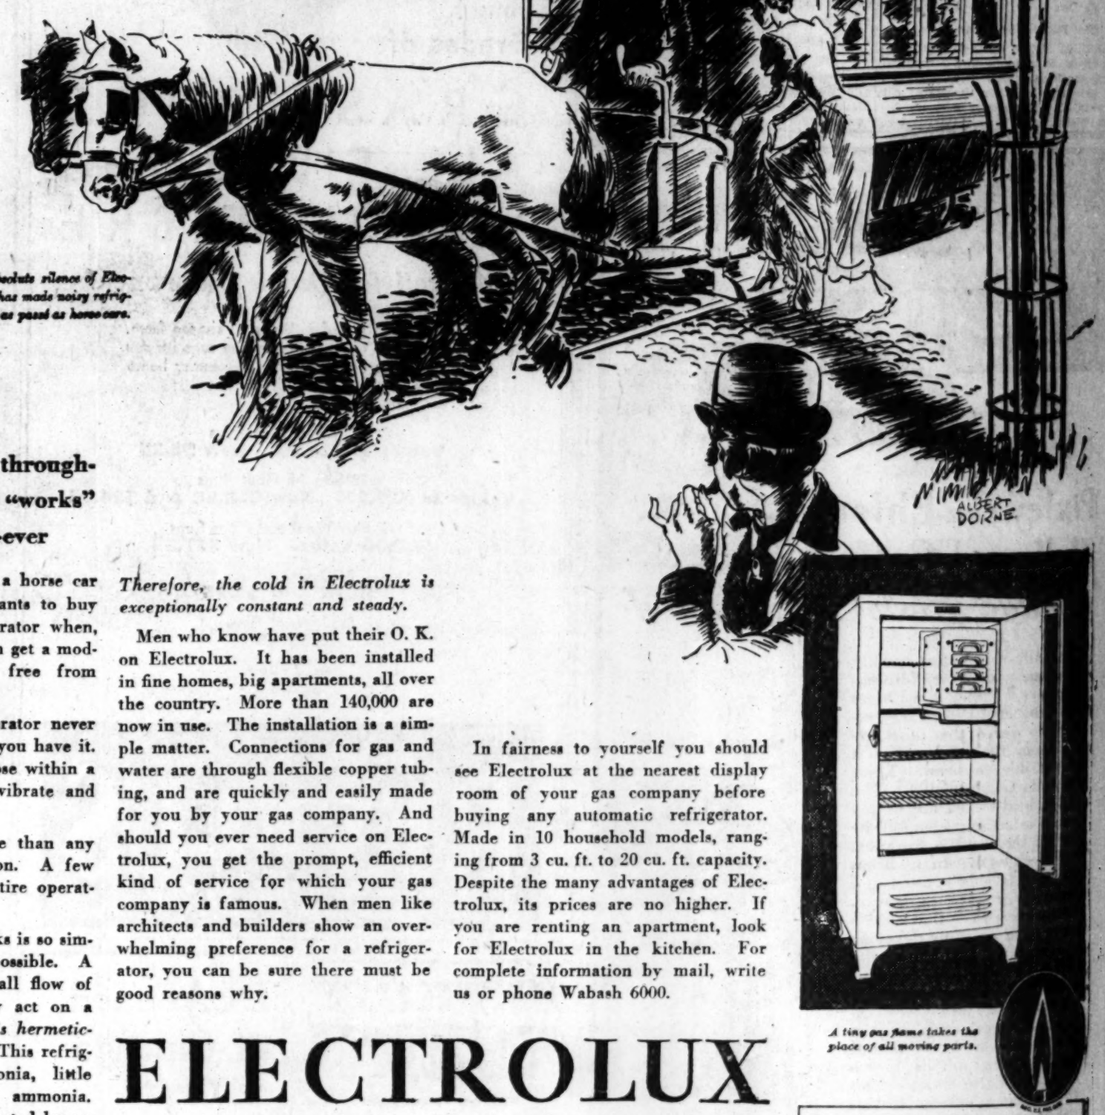
"THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH, YIELDING PLACE TO NEW"

Noise is now PASSÉ

in automatic refrigeration



The absolute silence of Electrolux has made noisy refrigerators as passé as horse cars.

Electrolux is silent throughout its life—it has no "works" to make noise—ever

WHO wants to ride in a horse car today? And who wants to buy a noisy automatic refrigerator when, for the same price, you can get a modern Electrolux, entirely free from noise and moving parts?

This remarkable refrigerator never can grow noisy as long as you have it. It has nothing to wear loose within a year or two, nothing to vibrate and annoy.

And it costs less to use than any other kind of refrigeration. A few cents a day covers the entire operating cost.

The way Electrolux works is so simple it sounds almost impossible. A tiny gas flame and a small flow of water make it go. They act on a liquid refrigerant, which is hermetically sealed in rigid steel. This refrigerant is ordinary ammonia, little stronger than household ammonia. The tiny gas flame is protected by an automatic shut-off.

The chilling action is continuous. It doesn't alternately stop and start. Therefore, the cold in Electrolux is exceptionally constant and steady.

Men who know have put their O. K. on Electrolux. It has been installed in fine homes, big apartments, all over the country. More than 140,000 are now in use. The installation is a simple matter. Connections for gas and water are through flexible copper tubing, and are quickly and easily made for you by your gas company. And should you ever need service on Electrolux, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous. When men like architects and builders show an overwhelming preference for a refrigerator, you can be sure there must be good reasons why.

In fairness to yourself you should see Electrolux at the nearest display room of your gas company before buying any automatic refrigerator. Made in 10 household models, ranging from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity. Despite the many advantages of Electrolux, its prices are no higher. If you are renting an apartment, look for Electrolux in the kitchen. For complete information by mail, write us or phone Wabash 6000.

Chevrolet
has struck a popular new note in motor-car styling

Chevrolet's front-end ensemble is a fine example of the latest trend in modern design

Many factors have contributed to the remarkably widespread popularity of the new Chevrolet Six. Among these are smooth performance, low price, matchless economy, exceptional riding ease and driving comfort. But no feature has been more strikingly evident in the enthusiastic public reception of the car than its smart new style.

Fisher Body craftsmen, with their background of fine-car designing, have made this new Chevrolet an exceptionally attractive automobile. Study it from any angle and you find it extremely pleasing. Look at it from the front and you are impressed by the modish ensemble of deep radiator, large headlamps and arched tie bar—all gleaming in rich chromium plate. Viewed from the side, the long hood, low-swung body lines, sweeping fenders and massive wire wheels strikingly suggest the car's fleetness and power. Even the rear of the new Chevrolet Six has been smartly styled and finished with exceptional attention to detail. Furthermore, the appeal of Chevrolet's beauty is made more pronounced by the fact that all models are available in a variety of color combinations.

An important factor in Chevrolet's smart appearance is the de luxe wire wheels with forty steel spokes and massive chrome-plated hub caps

Interiors, too, are unusual in every way. The rich mohair or broadcloth upholstery is carefully tailored. Seats are roomy, deeply-cushioned and invitingly soft. And the tasteful interior fittings, and accessories lend a final note of interior charm.

In fact, the new Chevrolet Six is such a thoroughly fine-looking automobile that it has become a very popular choice with every type of buyer. You find it not only the smart family car, but the smart personal car as well—a worthy companion to the expensive automobiles of the two- and three-car household.

This emblem—Body by Fisher—is a symbol of superior body craftsmanship—exclusive with Chevrolet in the low-price field

Of course, the new Chevrolet Six offers sparkling performance to match its distinctive appearance. It is very fast, smooth and an unusually restful car to drive. It is surprisingly easy to handle. It stands up through the hardest kind of service with a minimum of upkeep. And—note this particularly—although it is a big, powerful six, Chevrolet delivers its excellent performance with less cost for gas, oil and upkeep than any other car you can buy!

Fine appearance—fine performance . . . and, combined with these, unmatched economy! Remember, too, that this highly desirable combination of qualities is now available in twenty attractive models—America's most complete line of low-priced cars.

KIRKLAND TRIAL JURY PROSPECTS ASSAIL DRINKERS

Farmer Excused Because of Dry Opinions.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—The Anti-Saloon League had its moment in the Virgil Kirkland murder trial today. As the unholiness of the liquor traffic and the innate immorality of the drinking man were vouched for by tight lipped farmers called as prospective jurors the young defendant cowered in his chair.

Hitherto, in this picking of jurors, an amazing broadness of viewpoint, in a politically dry state, had been exhibited by the veniremen towards the prohibition question. They had confessed prejudices against the 20 year old Gary youth, but these prejudices were based more upon the evidence they had read concerning his alleged rape and murder of Arlene Draves than upon the fact that the death took place at a liquor party.

Sheriff Finds Drys.

But with so many men and women already summoned the sheriff was forced to hunt in obscure corners of the county. His search disclosed a number of Hoosiers who still hail Andrew Volstead as a patron saint.

The comment of Judge Grant Crumpacker, quoting from a Supreme court decision, that "A juror must have a weak mind indeed if he cannot decide a case fairly despite his opinion regarding the immorality of liquor," failed to modify the farmers in their denunciations of anything that smelled of alcohol.

Loren King, classed as a farmer, although he was careful to point out that his employment was as a night watchman on a chicken hatchery, was typical of some of those questioned today. "I couldn't give a man who drank a fair trial," he announced, grimly.

"Do you mean to say that with the same amount of evidence against two men, you'd convict the drinking man and perhaps permit the non-drinker to go free?" inquired a defense attorney in some surprise.

Judge Questions Him.

King was firm in his assertion that such was his meaning. Judge Crumpacker lifted his eyebrows and put a question of his own.

"You would more readily convict a drinking man of murder than one who didn't drink?" he asked.

"I believe I would," said King.

"I guess we'll have to excuse you," said the judge, sighing. "We're going to have a hard time getting a jury this way."

There ensued then an argument between attorneys concerning the excussing of veniremen who admit prejudices against persons who drink. The moral and immoral phases of the liquor traffic were debated with much vehemence, various ancient decisions of the Supreme court in regard to the testimony of saloon keepers being cited.

Judge Voices Reminder.

Finally the judge was moved to interpose a reminder.

"Of course, gentlemen," he remarked, "those decisions were made at a time when the liquor business was legal. You seem to assume that such a business exists today."

Even the excused juror, King, got a chuckle out of that one.

After the defense had exercised three more peremptory challenges today, ten persons remained in the jury box as possible jurors. A total of 106 men and women have been examined since the trial began last Wednesday. It is expected that the jury will be completed tomorrow or the day following.

NEW LIGHTNING ROD SWALLOWS 100,000 H. P. BOLT

Westinghouse Test Proves Success.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 4.—(AP)—An artificial lightning bolt of 132,000,000 voltampere was "swallowed" harmlessly today by a new type of lightning arrester at the Westinghouse company plant.

The big surge, equivalent to 100,000 horse power, was "extinguished" in a hollow tube barely two inches thick, about as long as an umbrella and made of a composition which a good sized cannon cracker could have broken.

Yet the tube was unharmed, automatically ready for the next stroke.

The lightning entered a short wire in the top of the tube, then corkscrewed with a super-tornado whirl through the air in the narrow, empty interior, and was caught at the bottom by another wire which passed the flash out with a cannonlike bang.

Though noisy, the surge had been robbed of most of its destructive power. This was extracted during the corkscrew whirl in the air. The fact that electric current can be caused to spin with this result was discovered about two years ago. It is called delonizing, and the new arrestor is one of the first applications of the principle.

The rod is intended for use on power lines. It works so fast that the eye may miss the flicker caused by lightning striking the wires. The artificial bolt used today was extinguished in one five-hundredth of a second.

"Now, after a lightning stroke," said J. J. Torok, engineer who invented the arrestor, "protective devices of the fuse type must be replaced. This requires constant patrolling of the lines. Because of the limitations of a single line duplicate lines must be constructed. The new lightning rod does away with this expense."

Boy Playing with Rope Dragged to Death by Mule

Taylorville, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Howard McPeak, 11 year old son of Andrew McPeak, residing six miles northwest of Morrisonville, was killed yesterday while playing in the pasture at his home when a rope around his neck became entangled with a mule and the boy was dragged across the pasture.

816 PERSONS VACCINATED.

Waupaca, Wis., May 4.—[Special.]—Eight hundred and sixteen persons, mostly school children, have been vaccinated since Friday as precaution against smallpox. The disease also has made its appearance in Sheridan, Wis.

SNAKES ESCAPE; GIRLS UNAFRAID AND CATCH THEM

One Sinks Its Fangs in Pupil's Hand.

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—Half a dozen Washington Irving High school girls demonstrated the rise of feminism and the triumph of science over superstition today when two gopher snakes, each more than six feet long, escaped from a box in the school's private zoo and went slithering around among the pupils.

The girls were biology students. They have been studying the snakes for six months and neither of the serpents had shown signs of rebellion until today, when a photographer pointed his camera at them.

Miss Jennie McDonald, 14, was holding Oscar Wilhelm and Miss Jean Hanna, 17, was holding the other snake, which has no name. The snakes decided they didn't want their pictures in the paper. They wriggled from the hands of the girls.

The teacher, the two amateur snake charmers, and other pupils present set out in pursuit of the serpents. The photographer fled, leaving his tripod behind him.

Miss Hanna got her snake under control and put it in its box, but when Miss McDonald finally was able to grab at Oscar the snake sank its fangs in her hand and wouldn't let go. She remained perfectly self-possessed while Miss Mullin and the students forced the snake to withdraw its fangs and go in its box.

Miss Hanna and another girl were scratched as they helped in the second capture of Oscar.

MRS. WHITEHEAD INVESTIGATING GIRL'S CHARGES

West Palm Beach, Fla., May 4.—(AP)—Allen S. Lund, Los Angeles attorney, today announced that on behalf of Mrs. Conkey P. Whitehead he was investigating charges against her husband brought recently by Miss Esther R. Miller of New York in a $100,000 breach of promise suit.

Lund's statement followed upon the filing of a declaration today by attorneys for Miss Miller, and an answer to the suit through council by Whitehead, wealthy Atlanta and Havana sportsman.

Lund was silent as to reports that Mrs. Whitehead, the former Miss Marion Hughes, daughter of a New York broker, intended to start divorce proceedings if she found the accusations against her husband to be true.

83 DIVORCES IN DAY GRANTED BY 2 RENO COURTS

Maintain Scheduled Rate of 6 an Hour.

Reno, Nev., May 4.—[Special.]—Eighty-three divorces were granted in the District court here today, a little less than one-third of those who filed their divorce suits last Saturday.

Three of those who received decrees had been married to new spouses before the day was over and there were rumors that several others planned to do likewise soon.

Kathrine M. Allen, who received a divorce from Edward L. Allen of New York, became the bride of Charles Furst de Maroth of New York, who told the clerk he had been divorced in Austria-Hungary by mutual consent. Mabel Spence Sawyer, who divorced Earl Sawyer, was married to Everett W. Cheney, Reno lawyer, while Mrs. Elsie M. Michaelis, who was the first to win a divorce today, promptly was married to Merton D. Keller of Los Angeles.

Six Divorces an Hour.

The judges, working on a schedule of a divorce every ten minutes each, were ahead of the schedule and could have handled nearly double that number had they been pressed. At least fifty more decrees are expected to be tomorrow's grist, and it is expected that the divorce mill will then settle down to nearly normal.

As was the case last Saturday, the register of actions was so constantly in use for entry of decrees that it was impossible to get a complete list of cases filed.

17 More Suits Filed.

While there was another rush of new cases expected today, only 17 had been filed up to 2 o'clock this afternoon.

One decree which attracted some attention today was that of Evelyn Low Burrill against Edward Livingston Burrill Jr., New York broker. Mrs. Burrill is a granddaughter of George F. Baker, banker, who died in New York on Saturday. The divorce of Katherine Stone Hoyt from Richard Farnsworth Hoyt also attracted interest. Their eldest daughter is soon to marry Felix du Pont.

No Rush in Idaho.

Boise, Idaho, May 4.—(AP)—There will be no divorces rushed through Idaho courts in ten minutes after 90 day residence is established.

A perusal of present statutes and consultation with one of the judges who will handle cases arising in Boise developed that the fastest time would be two or three days after the 90 day residence is established, and it might take 46 days afterward.

Idaho still has an "ace in the hole" for speed, however. In case the cause of divorce arises in this state and both husband and wife are present, the divorce complaint may be filed at once and the divorce granted, regardless of the residence of the divorcing parties.

CITIZENSHIP TAKEN AWAY FROM MAN WHO BROKE DRY LAW

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—A violator of the prohibition act cannot be attached to the principles of the constitution, and is not a person of good moral character, Justice Josiah A. Van Orsdel held today in rendering an opinion of the District Court of Appeals, which will take away from Robert de Francis of Washington the citizenship granted him in 1927.

The decision reversed the action of the District of Columbia Supreme court which had denied a petition by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover seeking to set aside Francis' naturalization.

"Any person," said Justice Van Orsdel, "who violates the provisions of the prohibition act violates the principles of the constitution of the United States and cannot be held to be attached to the principles of the constitution. Nor can it be said that such a person possesses good moral character."

When De Francis applied for citizenship it was shown that he had been arrested for liquor law violations but no convictions were shown.

One Slain, 2 Caught After Bank Robbery in Texas

Waco, Tex., May 4.—(AP)—John E. Cantrell, former Waco building contractor, was slain, and his son, Clyde, 19, and Ettell Emmons were captured today shortly after the $7,000 robbery of the Citizens State bank of Calvert. Cantrell was slain by City Marshal W. F. Hale of Calvert in an exchange of shots after Cantrell and Emmons had left an automobile and fled into the brush. All but a few dollars of the loot was found in the field where Cantrell was slain.

Memphis, Tenn., May 4.—(AP)—The Main street branch of the Union Planters National Bank and Trust company was robbed of $29,594 today by four bandits.

BANKER ADMITS SHORTAGE, THEN KILLS WIFE, SELF

Says He Embezzled for Loan to Friend.

Conshohocken, Pa., May 4.—(AP)—After having confessed to embezzling $45,700 to loan to a friend, Howard C. Pedrick, cashier of the First National Bank of Conshohocken, strangled his wife and ended his own life today at their home here.

The wife, Mrs. Edith McGuigan Pedrick, who was president of the Woman's club of Conshohocken and prominent in civic affairs, was found dead in bed with a silk stocking knotted tightly around her throat and a handkerchief in her mouth.

Body Found in Garage.

Pedrick's body was found in a garage in the rear of the house. He had a bullet wound over his right eye, and the motor of his automobile and that of his wife's car were running, filling the building with poisonous gas. A pistol was found on a car seat near the body.

Chief of Police Daniel Donovan said he believed Mrs. Pedrick learned of her husband's intention to end his life over the shortage at the bank and asked him to kill her also. John B. Stevenson, chief of county detectives, said he could advance no reason for the killing of Mrs. Pedrick other than that her husband did not want her to live and face the bank trouble.

Confesses to Examiner.

H. B. Davenport, a national bank examiner, said Pedrick admitted the embezzlement last Saturday after the shortage was discovered. Davenport asked Pedrick how much he had defaulted and the cashier answered promptly. The amount the cashier gave, $45,700, tallied with the shortage revealed by the audit.

Bank officials said Pedrick told them that he had taken the money to loan to a friend and had hoped to replace it before the books were examined. They said he refused to give the name of the friend.

WINNETKA HUNTS POLITE BANDIT FOR 3 ROBBERIES

The Winnetka police were searching yesterday for a young robber with good manners who entered three homes in the suburb Sunday night and escaped with money and jewelry for a total of several thousand dollars.

He first entered the home of Harold J. Bohnen, superintendent of public works of Winnetka, at 1136 Ash street, through a rear window. Mrs. Bohnen was awakened and the robber, thrusting a pistol at her, compelled her to give up her wedding ring. He then went downstairs and took $50, the location of which had been disclosed by Mrs. Bohnen. Mr. Bohnen, asleep in a room adjoining his wife's, was not disturbed by the intruder.

The next stop was at the home of Mrs. Thomas E. Wells, 835 Hill road, who is in Europe. He ransacked the house, but according to caretakers, probably left without loot, as there was no jewelry or money. Next Mr. and Mrs. C. Edwin Earle, 1 Golf road, were awakened after the man entered through a window and were politely requested to tell him where he could find articles of value. Both the Earles and Mrs. Bohnen remarked the robber's use of good English. Mr. Earle declined to list the articles stolen in his home.

CO-OPERATING WITH EUROPE.

Whatever one's opinions may be on the subject of armament limitation or reduction, as to the measure of its practicability or the pace at which we may reasonably hope to move in that direction, the President has done well to place the problem of armament expenditure promptly and emphatically before the conference of the International Chamber of Commerce. As was foretold the other day by Mr. Henning, we are to have a good deal of advice from our distinguished visitors as to how the world depression is to be relieved, and the outstanding proposals are all for relief at our expense. We are to cancel our war loans, we are to put our gold reserve at the command of some international committee in which we have one vote, we are to reduce our tariff so as to permit a more easy competition in our home market with our own industries, we are to invest where it will do the most good to Europe according to the opinion of some international agency, and we are to open our gates again so as to permit the unemployed of other countries to join our own.

We have been told frequently in recent years that we are chiefly responsible for conditions in Europe and for the restoration of world prosperity. We have heard little of the responsibility of the European governments and peoples for their own misfortunes. The persistent bellicosity of the wrangling European household, the perpetual war talk, the building up of armies and navies, the erection of trade barriers across economic lines of natural coöperation, the complication of financial and commercial policies with political and military considerations, the fostering of ancient rivalries and rancors—for all these we find no signs of penitence. Uncle Sam is the stubborn malefactor and he must reform—of course for his own good.

In the presence of this admonition the President has done well to invite our monitors to look to their own household. It will have no appreciable effect upon them, but at least it may do something toward checking the tendency of so many of our supposedly practical captains of finance and industry who are impressed with the superiority of European judgment over our own. We hope it will brace up their American self-respect. There is nothing more mischievous in our international situation than the fact that the control of our international activities is largely under the influence if not completely in the control of men in New York and the east who suffer from snobbism and a social inferiority complex with respect to Europe. Constructive coöperation with other nations is desirable and even essential to our own greatest prosperity. But it should be founded on a clear headed regard for the rights and interests of the American people. Too many of our representatives at international conferences seem to feel that in complacently accepting a status inferior to the European members they acquire one superior to other Americans.

ANOTHER STAR RACKET.

During a campaign for membership in the "World's Fair Legion" carried on several years ago the very ill advised scheme was devised to reward every contributor of $5 to the Fair fund by giving him an automobile star. Many contributors did apply for stars and they are still being handed out. About 100,000 were entitled to stars under this plan.

There is no practical use for automobile stars except to avoid the penalties attached to the violation of traffic regulations. The idea of the Fair authorities doubtless was to permit the contributor to show that he had done something for the Fair, but in fact they created a racket, another encouragement of the favoritism which in one guise or another has run riot in Chicago and is a serious demoralization of official responsibility, justice and good public conduct. The motive of the enterprise does not justify it or diminish its bad effect. The automobile star is a public nuisance in practice, a racket, and it ought to be abolished.

A PLAN TO BE REALIZED.

President Scott of Northwestern university predicts that "within the next decade or two the campus probably will be extended eastward into Lake Michigan for a quarter or a half mile, with a lagoon east of the campus and beyond the lagoon a public park, landing field, and boulevard."

The vision is as substantial as it is beautiful. We are confident it will become a reality. The present strip which contains the campus and the principal buildings of the university, lying between Sheridan road and the water line, is too narrow for the expansion which the university will accomplish. But Northwestern, like the city of Chicago, is fortunate in having the possibilities of growth eastward. By filling in the shallow waters of the lake a comparatively inexpensive addition can be made, giving room not only to the university for its purposes, but for a new resource for the people of Evanston and travelers from and to Chicago.

President Scott, the university, and the public are to be congratulated upon his foresight and it should govern planning. It is certain that eventually we shall have a drive along the lake from Chicago to Milwaukee, and at Evanston it is obviously both practicable and desirable to place it far enough out to give more room to the university and space for a public park, a lagoon for water craft, and a landing field for aeroplanes.

ST. LOUIS' CONTRIBUTION TO CHICAGO CRIME.

Kidnapers who had seized James Hackett of Blue Island released him after they had been paid a ransom of $150,000. There is every reason to believe that the crime was committed by a band with long experience in kidnaping. There is, therefore, a strong presumption that the criminals came from St. Louis, for organized kidnaping is St. Louis' contribution to contemporary crime. According to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat there have been thirteen "instances of abduction by blackmailers recorded in this vicinity in the last few months."

The thirteenth victim in St. Louis, Dr. Isaac Kelley, was released to a reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Mr. John T. Rogers. A previous victim, Adolphus Bush Orthwein, a boy of 13, was restored to his family largely through the help of another reporter, Mr. Harry T. Brundidge of the St. Louis Star. Mr. Brundidge is credited, as well, with the capture of Charles T. Abernathy, who kidnaped the boy. This is the same Mr. Brundidge who made a valuable contribution to the solution of the Lingle case.

A great deal has been heard of the extent of criminality in Chicago, but it appears that St. Louis is not precisely in a position to point the finger of scorn. Leo Brothers, it might be added, is also a St. Louis hoodlum who had successfully evaded the St. Louis police who were supposed to be searching for him to answer to a well substantiated charge of murder. Brothers was caught, but not by the St. Louis police. He would no doubt be at large today but for the interest taken in his capture by this newspaper.

Kidnaping in St. Louis is organized on an industrial basis. The industry could hardly exist without the connivance and corruption of the police force. The criminals can be caught, as has been demonstrated, but not by the St. Louis police, who have resigned the job of catching desperate criminals in favor of newspapers in their own city and Chicago. Unless the people of St. Louis are prepared to authorize the newspapers to organize a vigilance committee to maintain order, they had better scrap their present police force and organize another which will be relatively free of corruption and incompetence.

THE ELMS OF OAK PARK.

As fine a piece of urban decoration as anywhere in the cities of America is the possession of Oak Park. It is the elms along Washington boulevard. They arch the highway almost completely like the ceiling of a cathedral. They are a picture of color, of grace and dignity which any community ought to be proud of and cherish. Oak Park hardly seems aware of its treasure. Many of these splendid trees are in poor condition and there are unfortunate gaps in the beautiful arcade. The cost of care would not be heavy. Probably it is not lack of funds but indifference that is responsible for their neglect. We hope the public spirit of the community will come to the rescue of the elms before it is too late. Their deterioration is a misfortune. Their loss would be a calamity.

Editorial of the Day

A LAW THAT MUST BE OBEYED.

[Chicago Tribune Survey.]

A recent request was unusual even in the diversified experience of the Business Survey staff of THE TRIBUNE. A manufacturer of a product the price of which was greatly depressed, and in which competitive conditions are now rather severe, asked us to suggest methods by which these conditions could be overcome in his industry. He had in mind some sort of arrangement with his competitors on price and output, and he wanted us to supply him with examples of industries which had secured improvement in that way.

In these distressing times we like to be helpful. But when schemes are likely to run afoul the law we must decline to be of service in helping to work them out. And here we have in mind not only civil law—with which such a plan as our interrogator had in mind must certainly conflict—but also and particularly economic law. The futility of attempting to defy the law of supply and demand has been demonstrated so thoroughly and so many times recently that it seems incomprehensible that any one now should have any delusions about it.

English statesmen, who have, many is the time, proved that they know economic law as Oliver Wendell Holmes knows constitutional law, nevertheless made the mistake a few years back of legalizing a scheme to put up the price of rubber. They had some temporary success as long as they kept down their output for the market while the output of British Malaya dominated the market.

But they forgot that rubber stretches at least as well as other things when the price is high enough. The high price of rubber stimulated increased production by the Dutch on the one hand and the use of substitutes for rubber on the other hand. The English had to back-water on their Stevenson restriction plan. But they did not do it soon enough. Rubber is now selling at 7 cents a pound, that comparing with $1.20 a pound at the peak. Present prices are the lowest in history, and stocks of crude rubber are also record breaking.

Copper production under ordinary circumstances is confined to a small number of producers. It was possible for the copper people to advance the price in 1929 to around 20 cents a pound. It was maintained at the high price through a great part of 1930. But price stimulated output. And the high price kept consumers out of the market, and those that didn't have to buy for immediate needs, didn't. The consequence was that stocks of copper on hand increased steadily to the highest point on record. Copper had to come down, and it did, with a thud. Recently copper has shown weakness at half the price at which the copper people attempted to stabilize their product.

An even better example of the futility of defiance of the law of supply and demand is provided by the government's experience with wheat. Uncle Sam willed that the farmer should get $1.18 a bushel for his wheat, backed his determination with a good many hundred millions, and what happened? Wheat stayed up as long as the government was buying, and then it came down. The following year output increased. Uncle Sam again tried to stabilize and again got stuck with a lot of wheat he doesn't know what to do with. Uncle Sam is obliged to back-water on his stabilization plan, and the farmer finds wheat prices the lowest in thirty-five years and has huge stocks of wheat yet to be sold, assuring low prices for the next crop. Need we mention coffee and Brazil?

Improvement in a number of industries has begun, but it has not come as a result of spurious schemes designed to get the better of economics. The law of supply and demand gets itself obeyed eventually and imposes penalty for violation which bears a rough approximation to the extent of the violation.

DIET FOR BONES AND TEETH

THE trend of opinion is now towards the theory that errors in diet are responsible for pathology of the teeth and gums. If this trend continues we will be giving diets to stop the decay of teeth and the progress of pyorrhea. Work with children, in the way of prevention of tooth decay, will become largely a matter of regulating feeding. Adults will change their foods in order to ward off pyorrhea. Men will elect to diet for prevention or to pay dentists to repair. That is the plain trend of present day opinion.

While more experimentation has been done with caries there is a group of research students who have put in their time on pyorrhea. A recent report is one that comes to us from Drs. Becks and Weber. They saw so much fundamental resemblance between rickets and pyorrhea that they undertook to find out what effect certain diets had on bones at large, since rickets is a disease of cartilage in the stage of bone formation.

They fed dogs on diets that were low in lime and checked them by other dogs that were getting plenty of lime. Other dogs were fed on a diet that was poor in vitamin D and they were checked by dogs properly fed. Another group were fed on diets out of balance as between acids and alkalies.

In due season the dogs were killed and their bones examined microscopically. The examination included the jaw bones, the alveolar processes around the teeth and the teeth themselves. They included the bones which surround the ears. The conclusion was that there were several diseases of the bones that could be caused at the will of the dietitian. Also that within limits it was possible to prevent or to cure these diseases. Among them were certain diseases of bones that looked very much like rickets and scurvy, and certain bone tumors and cysts. The structures around teeth were affected much as they are in pyorrhea.

We think of bone as being granite-like in its fixedness and stability. These experiments showed it to be rather readily changed in structure as the result of prolonged change in diet. These results lend support to the doctrine that the diseases of the teeth and gums are best met by proper dieting. Other treatment may succeed in repairing a defect but will leave the basic condition uncared for and new defects will develop. Further, and more important, they indicate the best channel for prevention to follow. There are some uncomfortable conditions of hearing that may be illumined by these results. They may point the way to help against some noises, some forms of deafness, and some types of vertigo.

SPEEDING THE INEVITABLE.

J. S. J. writes: Before prohibition I used to drink a few glasses of beer after work and before dinner. Now I meet a few friends privately every day at 5 p. m. and spend an hour in social intercourse, and we drink about two or three highballs. I am 45 years old; work in an office. I do not become intoxicated, never use moonshine but only good whisky, and never drink it straight. I have been told that the way I am drinking is the worst possible way; that I am heading for the grave; that my liver will be cooked and my heart ulcerated. My health is good. What is your opinion?

REPLY.

We are all headed for the grave and taxes. Your policy is merely stepping on the gas. There is no reason for thinking you will not be here to celebrate next Fourth of July. Since you are certain of the quality of your whisky and are not disposed to listen to advice you might increase your insurance and step on her as you please. Maybe this was not exactly the advice you wanted, but I have gone as far as I could to please you.

RAISINS AND WEIGHT.

H. I. L. writes:

I have given my 14 year old daughter raisins daily in order to increase her weight, but she has not put on much weight. I give her a 15 ounce box of raisins daily.

1. Do you believe that raisins aid in increasing one's weight?
2. Do beets help to make blood and increase weight?

REPLY.

1. Not especially.
2. Somewhat.

NOT OBLIGATED TO PAY.

Chicago, April 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—After being employed five years for a company I was taken ill last fall with pulmonary tuberculosis. The doctor tells me that I cannot work for a long time, probably five years. I would be glad to know if I can collect anything from the company and, if so, how?

E. W.

They are not obliged to pay you anything during such a long continued illness, if that is what you mean to ask.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SHOULD MAKE APPLICATION.

Chicago, April 28.—[Friend of the People.]—To what department in Washington should I send for information as to the name of the vessel on which my father arrived in the United States? He knows the date, but does not remember the name of the ship.

S. M.

The writer's father should make application on Form A-2213 if he desires to file a declaration of intention, or on Form A-2214 if he desires to file a petition for naturalization. Forms may be had in the naturalization office, Room 776 Postoffice Building, Chicago. It will be useless to write to Washington.

UNAUTHORIZED PUBLICATION.

Chicago, April 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have some autograph letters of Kipling's, acquired by purchase from the recipient; some are 40 years old, some six. Can I print and circulate them here without restriction? My impression is that in England the writer controls in such a matter. Can you tell me what is the law in the U. S. A. on the point?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IT'S THE SECOND LOOT!

Big business men from all over the world are meeting in Washington to find out how to get us out of the general mess that things seem to be in now. They say one of the troubles seems to be that the world is spending over five billion dollars a year for arms and keeping over five million able bodied lads carrying the said arms around while twenty million more upstanding young men are held as reserves.

Ask any man that went through the late unpleasantness in sunny France what is the principal trouble with having a nice, good sized war every now and then and what he thinks of nations settling their troubles with cannon and small arms, and he will tell you right away that he hasn't the slightest objection to war either in the concrete or abstract, and that while he wasn't entirely satisfied when Fritz slung all sorts of old ironware at him, his great trouble, the real trouble of the war, was the second loot. If it hadn't been for the second loot the war would have been one grand and glorious picnic.

But who was it hounded him because he had a little dirt on his rifle? Who bawled him out in language not fit for a dog to listen to when he had his coat unbuttoned? Who threatened to have him stood up in front of a stone wall and shot at sunrise because his puttees looked a little sloppy? The second lieutenant.

Wars aren't so bad, if you ask the man that fights 'em. Wars give a fellow a chance to get away from the humdrum of life and see the world. They give a fellow a lot of thrills and plenty to talk about the rest of his life. The only trouble is the second loot. He is the bird that makes wars the unhappy, wretched things they are today. If there could only be some way of fixing up future wars so there wouldn't be any second loots in 'em wars would be nice, jolly affairs. Maybe each army could pick out its second lieutenants and send them on ahead and let 'em fight it out. Then the armies could go home and the war would be over. Anyhow, in this discussion of disarmament they ought to think this thing over. Write to your congressman today.

IN BLOSSOM-TIME.

In blossom-time, can any say
That life is desolate and gray?
When cherry boughs are drifted snow,
When springtime couriers, singing, go
Through orchard lanes, which for a day
Are very heaven, who could lay
Upon the gods of far-away
One word of blame for fret or woe—
In blossom-time?

What man could hate or envy know
When apple-blossoms burst and blow?
When, free at last, the kindly May Endeavors winter's debts to pay—

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 5, 1915.

PEKING.—One hundred thousand troops, by order of President Yuan Shi Kai, have been mobilized and within a day or two will be concentrated in the environs of Peking. These military preparations are being made for the defense of the capital, as an ultimatum from Japan regarding the refusal by the republic of its demands is momentarily expected.

BERLIN. — The following official communication was issued May 4: "On May 3 a German naval airship had an engagement with several British submarines in the North sea. Several bombs were dropped from the airship, one of them hitting and sinking one of the submarines. The airship was bombarded by the guns of the submarines without being hit and returned to its base safely."

LONDON.—With the capture of Zonnebeke, four miles northeast of Ypres on the main railway line between Ypres and Roulers, the chief German base, Zevecote and Westhok, in the vicinity of Zonnebeke, and the forest of Polygonous and Nonnbosschen, the Germans have opened the way for perhaps their final drive for the coast.

VIENNA.—Thirty thousand Russian soldiers were captured in the battle of West Galicia, according to an official statement.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 5, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Seven persons were burned to death and eight injured, two perhaps fatally, when fire destroyed an old frame flat building at 9316 Marquette avenue. A Lake Shore and Michigan Southern freight train blocked a crossing, detaining four companies of firemen and thus preventing a rescue of the fire victims.

CHICAGO.—Between the hours of 9 p. m. Saturday and 2 o'clock yesterday morning nearly $3,000,000 in gold and more than $1,500,000 in currency was carried along Monroe street, between Dearborn and La Salle streets, in clothes baskets, like so many bundles of laundry, and there were no more policemen in sight than are usually seen in Monroe street at that hour. It was moving time for the Chicago National bank, of which John R. Walsh is president, to its new building in Monroe, near La Salle street.

CHICAGO.—Two days after she had given $60,000 to the University of Chicago, Mrs. J. Y. Scammon, died in her chair at the family residence, Fernwood Villa, 5810 Monroe avenue, of heart disease. She was the widow of J. Young Scammon, one of the early settlers of Chicago and for a time one of the city's wealthiest men. He was the founder of the Chicago Inter Ocean. Mrs. Scammon was the daughter of Gen. William B. Sheldon and was 80 years old.

MAY 5, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The senate deadlock seems to be broken and that body at last got into executive session. The Republicans deny with moderate earnestness that they have surrendered and claim they went into the executive session simply to confirm essential nominations. Among the nominations confirmed was that of Robert Hitt of Chicago for assistant secretary of state and A. M. [Long] Jones for United States marshal of the Chicago district.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind.—Miss Lizzie Major, daughter of Alfred Major, and Dr. James G. Reid of Chicago were married at the Major home. Mr. Major is a director of the First National bank of this city and is worth $500,000.

NEW YORK.—After a seven months' sojourn in the "wilds" of this great and enterprising republic Mlle. Bernhardt and members of her dramatic company sailed for France. "The Divine Sarah" declared that she was glad, and again sorry, at leaving America, where she had made many warm friends.

LONDON.—Herr Most, publisher of the Freiheit, was indicted for having published a congratulatory article on the assassination of the czar and his case was set for trial on May 6 or 7. Postponement to the next session of court was refused.

THE WAY OUT.

Chicago, May 2.—My solution for the absolute relief of present unemployment and its resulting grief is to eliminate all grade crossings in the United States within the next three or four years, which would (1) take up the slack of unemployment and (2) enable the banks to utilize their present surplus of funds.

Railroad investments represent 20 billion dollars at the present time and it is my belief that an additional sum of 9 billion dollars would be the cost of elimination of grade crossings throughout the nation. The government would have no difficulty in securing this 9 billions from the banks, with an average interest rate of not to exceed 3 per cent, the railroads to be assessed one-third of the cost, to be spread over sixty years with interest at the rate of say 2 per cent. The cost to the railroads would be offset very largely by decreased cost of operation and damage claims. Not a dollar would leave the United States and the benefit would be felt in all lines of industry and at all points.

With seven million people out of employment and fifteen of the southern states facing bankruptcy, there is little hope of restoring confidence in any other way. By the time the work is completed our excess of building will have been reduced to a minimum. While 9 billions is a huge sum, it is merely a fraction of the 100 billion loss by investors in the last two years, much of which would be restored by the program herein suggested. The highways must eventually be depressed, or the railroads elevated where necessary, and there is no better time than the present.

J. J. F.

MESTROVIC'S INDIANS.

Chicago, April 30.—I am one of the thousands who are wondering when our south park commissioners are going to have the slingshot and baseball placed in the hands of the magnificent bronzed Indian statues that guard the Congress street entrance to Grant park.

After waiting patiently all this time for said weapons to appear, I yesterday plucked up courage enough to inquire of one of the intelligent appearing park policemen if he could give me any information on the subject, but he could not. He opined, however, that I was wrong in the choice of weapons, and gave as his idea that the Indian on the north side should be armed with a long bow and the other with a custard pie, or maybe lemon cream.

CHARLES D. MOORE.

THE ARCHITECTURE OF THE FAIR.

Chicago, May 1.—It is to be hoped the legislature will not pass any laws permitting the World's Fair monstrosities, the administration and transportation buildings, to be kept permanently. As illustrations of the new art they are justified as World's Fair buildings, if only to show how much better are the old forms of architecture; but to keep them permanently would be like keeping Tattersall's or the old postoffice building on the lake front.

JOHN FOX.

A LITTERED CORNER.

Chicago, April 30.—At 69th and Halsted streets the corners are continually strewed with old papers; a gust of wind blows them all over the neighborhood. This should and could be remedied.

CLEAN CITY.

OPINIONS.

Chicago, April 27.—A few days ago a gentleman in the column objected to the baseball broadcast every afternoon from all the stations. I heartily agree with him. One station, or perhaps two, should be sufficient.

Now a compliment or two for the stories appearing in THE TRIBUNE daily. I liked "The 900 Block," "Snow," "The Sixth Journey," and several others whose names escape me. I do not like the story appearing now, or any other mystery. There's sufficient of it in the newspapers. "The Royal Command" was another one I didn't like.

Couldn't you devote more space to the stories? I know many of us would appreciate a few more hundred words.

I should also like to voice my disapproval of daylight saving. It makes the days [and nights] pass too quickly, and when it gets hot one can't go to bed until the rooms cool off. That's about midnight on the new time and one must get up early just the same, when it would be cool and refreshing to sleep that extra hour, thus supplying energy to combat the heat.

MRS. M. C. R.

NEEDLESS NEEDLES.

Chicago, April 29.—I have just finished convincing a young man that I would not buy a package of needles for 25c from him. It was hard to get rid of him, because as soon as I said "No" he started out, "But I have a wife and two babies at home and can't get work. We have to have something to live on—"

It seems very strange that he couldn't get work four years ago; because when I first started to work for my present employer more than four years ago, this same young man came in with the same story, in the same pleading voice, to excite sympathy for his misfortune. Only it used to be four children; now it's two. But maybe two of them died.

This fellow is getting more per week than I am, yet he begs as if his life depended on my quarter. I have bought more needles from him already than I can use in ten years, and just now I'm flatter in money than a pancake, as the saying goes. I doubt if he even has a wife. Can't anything at all be done to get rid of these pests?

A STENOGRAPHER.

BEWARE.

Chicago, April 28.—Up around the near north side are a bunch of touring bandits. They have a Lincoln car. In it are two men and two females [I cannot call them women]. The females hail any young fellow that happens along. If he stops to listen to them he is hauled into the car, stripped of cash and valuables and dumped at the next corner, and the operation is repeated time after time. I hope you will publish this letter to warn any young fellow to be on his guard.

E. CESURS.

ALMOST TREASONABLE.

Lapeer, Mich., April 27.—I like your paper very much, save your editorials on the liquor question. Your editorials are almost treasonable in essence and lend encouragement to racketeers and criminals. You would have fewer murders and a better police force in your city if you encouraged enforcement.

SPAIN RAISES ITS MEXICAN MISSION TO EMBASSY RANK

Makes Friendship Gesture to Latin Americans.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, May 4.—The Spanish republic tonight made its first gesture toward Latin America by raising the mission to Mexico to the rank of embassy and appointing one of the leading figures of the revolution to the post.

He is Julio Alvarez del Vayo, leading Spanish journalist, who did much in the conspiracy that ousted King Alfonso. Del Vayo is 40 years of age and a correspondent of note, having represented a newspaper of Buenos Aires in most European capitals. He is also a partner in a publishing house which has brought out many works on Hispanic unity.

Although he has written much on Russia, he is a Socialist and not a communist, as his enemies have long rumored him to be. As such he is expected to win the sympathy of the radical element in Mexico, a thing which the king's emissaries never managed.

Name New Envoy to U. S.

The appointment of Salvador de Madariaga as ambassador to Washington was formally announced today. It was expected, but amusement is expressed over the fact that he, who has an English wife, was sent to America, while Ramon Perez Ayala, who has an American wife, was sent to England. De Madariaga is a noted writer, who in the past has made caustic criticisms of American policies and activities.

The country's entire electoral system was remade tonight in such a way as not only to sweep out of existence the old corruption and grant proportional representation, long denied in Spain, but also to make absolutely sure of the triumph of the republican cause.

The old system of the election of one candidate, each arbitrarily selected for the constituency, has been replaced by a proportional system. One candidate is to be elected by each 50,000 inhabitants.

Madrid Classed Separately.

Madrid and Barcelona will be classed separately. Madrid thus gets sixteen or seventeen deputies, where it had only eight before, and a number of "rotten boroughs," which were in the hands of the monarchist bodies, are done away with.

The reform, as it is seen in the eyes of all but the die hard monarchists, is likely to mean the triumph not only of the republicans but of the left wing republicans. The Socialists, whose ministers put through the plan, think victory is possible for them, as the reapportionment gives a higher number of seats to cities, which is where their strength lies.

PORTUGAL FACES NEW REVOLT; CITY IN AFRICA SEIZED

LISBON, May 4.—(AP)—The Portuguese battleship Vasco da Gama, 56 years old, was expected to sail from Funchal, Maderia, tonight, to put down another revolt, this time at Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, on the western shore of Africa. Bolama is the port at which the giant German air liner DO-X landed yesterday on its intended flight to Brazil.

It appears the revolt has been going on for two weeks. The first definite news of it was brought to Lisbon today by Col. Leite Magalhaes, governor of the colony, who, with his colleagues in the administration of portuguese Guinea, landed from the cargo boat Maria Amelia. Col. Magalhaes said Bolama now was in the hands of one Jose Soares, also known as Malateata.

Col. Magalhaes said he and his companions were seized at midnight on April 17 and hustled aboard the steamer Maria Amelia. The rebels decided, he said, that he and his colleagues should be sent to Funchal, then the headquarters of the rebel movement in Madeira. That movement since has been put down by the Portuguese expeditionary force. Before the Maria Amelia could reach Madeira, however, she was intercepted by the Vasco da Gama.

Hurricane Sweeps Yucatan; 3 Dead; Damage Is Heavy

MERIDA, Yucatan, May 4.—(AP)—Three persons are known to have been killed and much property damaged by a hurricane that swept the Yucatan peninsula yesterday. Two passengers and a member of the crew of a small sailing vessel perished when the ship foundered during the storm off Celestan. The wind partially wrecked a theater building in the city of Campeche and the towers of the cathedral were badly damaged.

GOVERNOR HEARS "HUNGER" BODY ON 13 DEMANDS

Special Session Asked to Aid Unemployed.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 4.—(AP)—Indiana's "hunger marchers" late today presented to Gov. Leslie a list of 13 demands, including a special session of the legislature to provide relief for the unemployed. The governor listened attentively to the arguments of three representatives, thanked them for calling, but made no further comment.

The demonstration assumed an ominous aspect when about three hundred whites and Negroes who had been told to meet in Military park, a few blocks from the statehouse, marched to the east side of the capitol. Scores of police were rushed to the scene and a small detail of National Guardsmen were held in readiness within the statehouse.

Lease Capitol for Park.

L. O. Casey, secretary to Gov. Leslie, sent for one of the leaders and informed him that it was the governor's wish that the demonstration be held in the park instead of on the statehouse grounds. The police permitted the speakers to tell the crowd that the meeting would be resumed in the park.

Delegations arrived here in automobiles yesterday from Hammond, Gary, South Bend, Fort Wayne, Muncie, Marion, Anderson, Bicknell, Terre Haute, Clinton and Elwood. In a demonstration on Indiana avenue, the Negro section, this morning, Theodore Luesse, communist organizer, Loza Rebraca, Gary, and Napoleon Johnson, Terre Haute, were arrested.

The demands presented to Gov. Leslie by Donald Burke, communist organizer of Gary, asked that the special session provide for payment of $25 a month cash relief to all unemployed; payment of all bills for gas, electric light, fuel, water, clothing, medical service and rent of unemployed by counties; free milk for babies and free books, lunches and clothing for school children.

The demands also asked that there be no evictions for unemployed, no discrimination against Negroes or foreign born, and exemption from taxes and mortgage payments for unemployed.

SOVIET TRACTOR PRODUCTION IS NEAR COLLAPSE

Seen as First Breakdown of 5 Year Plan.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, April 16.—[By Mail.]—Concrete evidence of a breakdown of the 5 year plan, insofar as production of tractors for agricultural work is concerned, has been obtained here.

During the month of February only 532 completed tractors were produced by all the factories making them in Russia, whereas the Stalingrad plant alone, which is theoretically supposed to be operating on full time basis, should have turned out 1,500 in that month. The five year plan provides that the state factories throughout the land this year should produce 150,000 tractors.

One reason for the paralysis was explained by an American engineer employed in the Kharkov factory.

In Too Big a Hurry.

"The Russians allow no time for the 'shakedown' of a plant," he said. "As soon as the factory was completed they expected it to start right out, producing at its top capacity. They did not take into consideration that an overwhelming majority of the workers were untrained, nor did they stop to figure that certain essential parts of the machines were not available in the necessary quantity. Magnetos, for instance, they must still import.

"Then, certain parts of the machine installation have not been completely set up, and the repair shop and the magazine for extra parts is not in readiness."

I have seen photographs of a vast fleet of finished tractors in the yards beside the Stalingrad plant, exposed to rain and snow, because the railways were unable to carry them off and distribute them. Flat cars were lacking and the machines were thus left to rust and ruin.

Officials Are Pessimistic.

The failure in production has created a pessimistic note, even in Russian circles, where certain highly placed officials are beginning to realize that there is more in creating an industry than the mere physical construction of factories and installation of machinery.

Hitherto the "Vesinar," or supreme council of state economy, has given out production figures, but for two months now the statistics have been withheld and inquiries for facts are met with evasive answers, that the committee has been reorganized and that the department handling this work is not yet functioning.

Meanwhile efforts are being made by the soviet government to reorganize its railways before a paralysis of transportation collapses all progress on the five year plan.

Arrangements have been made to import 150 expert American railwaymen to help in resuscitating the railways and to outline plans for rehabilitation of the lines, locomotives, and rolling stock.

Gill Is Adviser.

Charles A. Gill, a high official of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has already arrived here to act as special technical adviser to the authorities. A Russian committee is ready with its plans for modernizing the lines, having recently returned from an inspection of railways in the United States, England, and western Europe.

"We want to speed up everything," one Russian expert said. "We want to operate all trains faster. That will enable us to obtain a greater yield from engines and cars. It will eliminate delay and congestion. That is the crux of the problem—speed.

"Now, one way we can get more speed is by avoiding stops. One means to avoid stops is to place troughs between the rails, with a scoop from the locomotive tender, enabling it to replenish its water supply for the steam boiler without the train coming to a stop. We saw this arrangement in practice on many lines in America and some in England, although none in western Europe."

Gill Gives an Answer.

Mr. Gill took several long puffs on his cigar before replying to these observations. Finally he said:

"Gentlemen, the matter of speed affects every factor in the operation of a railway. You must build your tracks on heavier ballast, lay heavier rails, install suitable signaling apparatus, provide heavier locomotives and stronger cars, improve the quality of your fuel, and train a more expert personnel to operate trains at high rates of speed.

"Why, gentlemen, there is not a single train operated in Russia at a speed fast enough to force the water from a trough between the rails up through the feed pipe into the tender."

SENATE OPENS COURT ACTION IN EFFORT TO UNSEAT POWER HEAD

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—The senate today carried into court its effort to oust George Otis Smith as chairman of the power commission.

Faced with the refusal of President Hoover to permit reconsideration of his appointee, who once was given senate approval, special counsel for the senate asked the District of Columbia Supreme court to rule that Smith solds his office by usurpation and to oust him.

John W. Davis, 1924 Democratic nominee for President, and Alexander J. Groesbeck of Michigan, filed the suit. Smith, who has retained former Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania as counsel, has 20 days in which to answer.

The petition asked the court to require Smith to show by what warrant he holds office. It recited in detail the conflict between President Hoover and the senate over the appointment.

25 RUNAWAY MONKEYS STIR UP COLUMBUS, O.

Columbus, O., May 4.—(AP)—Fourteen of 25 monkeys that escaped late today from a zoo truck were clambering about downtown buildings, trees, or poles tonight, to the discomfiture of police, firemen, and citizens.

Official and unofficial monkey chasers rounded up 11 of the simians soon after they picked a lock in their cage door and scattered to visit downtown restaurants, offices, and stores while en route to the zoo from winter quarters.

Benton Harbor, Mich., May 4.—[Special.]—The twin cities of the fruit belt, Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, were in gala dress today for the opening of the ninth annual southwestern Michigan blossom festival's seven day entertainment.

"Queen" Jane Filstrup and her court of thirty-three Michigan blossom beauties arrived home from a statewide tour this noon and were guests of the Benton Harbor Kiwanis club at luncheon at the Hotel Vincent.

Girls Visit Chicago.

Some Big Names in Golf.

Some of the biggest names in golf will take part in the Blossom week open golf tournament Thursday and Friday at Berrien Hills and the Twin City Aviation club.

A four bout card is staged Tuesday night by the Twin City Athletic company, either at Filstrup field or the Naval Armory. Bob O'Sigmac, Michigan middle weight champion, meets Pete La Crosse, Fort Wayne, Ind. Other talent is local.

The week's athletic program includes two days of golfing, Thursday and Friday; an all star amateur boxing program Thursday night; swimming and boat racing Saturday afternoon after the parade.

Johnny Weismuller will be here as official starter of the Saturday afternoon swimming marathon at 4 o'clock, in the St. Joseph river, after the gigantic Blossom parade. The fifty entries include:

McKelvey, Loyola academy, Chicago; Howard Higley, Michigan State college; William Holm, Engelwood, Ill., Y. M. C. A.; Lane Jessopp, Lansing High school; Ray Frisbee, Hannan Y. M. C. A., Detroit. Queen Jane and her maids of honor ride in a fast decorated cruiser to view the marthon.

H. H. Crow is grand marshal of Saturday's parade. Twin city traffic will be handled by St. Joseph and Benton Harbor police and a special state police squad of twelve men with assistance of Boy Scout units. No parking on the parade route will be allowed.

The American Legion is putting up bleachers between the two cities near the judges reviewing stands.

QUEEN OF BLOSSOMS AND HER COURT TO VISIT CITY TODAY

Chicago today will welcome Jane Filstrup, queen of the festival of blossoms now in progress in the twin towns of St. Joseph and Benton Harbor across the lake. Queen Jane and her court of beauties will bring invitations to all Chicago in general and Mayor Cermak in particular to attend the festivities of this week, and will disseminate the spirit of the gay spring fête of southwestern Michigan in song and speech.

Their principal appearance of the day will be made at the Outdoor Life exposition at the Coliseum. They will visit The Tribune Tower for a glimpse of the various departments and a view of the city from the Tower observatory. There will be a luncheon at the Hotel Sherman, radio performances over WMAQ at noon and over the National Broadcasting chain at 8:15 tonight. Their visit to the office of Mayor Cermak is scheduled for 1:15 o'clock.

The group returns to St. Joseph tomorrow for the main events of the blossom festival—the coronation of Queen Jane in the evening at the Shadowland gardens on the lake shore in St. Joseph. The big floral parade that climaxes the annual celebration is scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

CHINA ABOLISHES SPECIAL RIGHTS FOR FOREIGNERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 4.—The Nationalist government today promulgated regulations providing for Chinese jurisdiction over legal cases involving foreigners residing in China, and issued a mandate making these regulations effective next Jan. 1. The mandate provided, however, for special courts to be established in certain areas, including Shanghai, Tientsin, Mukden, and Canton, where civil and criminal cases involving foreigners will be tried.

The government's action followed a report this morning that negotiations with the British minister, Sir Miles Lampson, for abolition of extraterritoriality had broken down due to the Chinese government's refusal to agree to Sir Miles' demand that China exclude foreigners residing in Shanghai, Tientsin, Hankow, and Nanking from the jurisdiction of Chinese courts following the abolition of extraterritoriality.

Amounts to Abrogation.

The Chinese government's action amounts to unilateral abrogation of the extraterritoriality treaties with foreign powers, although this abrogation will not go into force until next year. This gives time for further negotiations with the United States, Great Britain, and the other powers regarding arrangements for jurisdiction over the large foreign populations of Shanghai and other ports.

The Nationalist government today issued the texts of telegrams between Nanking and Canton since Chen Chi-tang's coup d'etat at the latter city last week, showing that the trouble arose over President Chiang Kai-shek's motive in pushing the adoption of a provisional constitution, which the Cantonese believe is for the purpose of consolidating his position as dictator. Nanking has denied these allegations.

FEAR FOR FOREIGNERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, May 4.—Foreign consuls throughout China today were worried for fear that communists may seize upon Foreign Minister C. T. Wang's action today in practically abolishing extraterritoriality, thus putting foreigners in the interior in a critical situation.

The foreign authorities today increased the number of protecting warships at various ports. A number of foreign ships have been anchored at Nanking, Hankow, and on the upper Yangtze river. The American gunboat Mindinao has gone to reinforce the Helena at Canton. The British already have two warships there. France and Japan have other ships available at Hongkong.

The Canton rebels today adopted a resolution, according to foreign information reaching Peiping, declaring that unless President Chiang Kai-shek is relieved from his position and punished and the government permitted to function freely, they will not be able to follow the Nationalist cause.

Rebels Form Army.

Another report said that an army is being formed at Canton with Chen Chi-tang, leader of the coup d'etat, as generalissimo. The army was said to include all the southwest provinces—Kwangtung, Kwangsi, Yunnan, Kweichow, Hunan, and Hupeh.

The Nationalist government's commissioners of finance and public safety are reported to have fled Canton, leaving the rebels in complete control. The insurgents are collecting and retaining all local and other taxes, with the exception of the customs and salt tax, and are accepting only silver coins.

At a public meeting representatives of Canton and Kwangtung province formally approved of the manifesto demanding that President Chiang be instantly removed from office and punished. An official telegram was circulated enumerating Chiang's alleged crimes and also asserting that Shan Li-tzu, holding an official position in Nanking, is a communist through whom the communists along the Yangtze are now obtaining advance information concerning military and other movements.

The telegram also charged that Finance Minister Soong has amassed riches and has made no official report in six years, yet Chiang has turned a deaf ear when repeatedly urged to force an accounting.

CIGARETS AND CARDS STILL HEAVY SELLERS IN SPITE OF SLUMP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Internal revenue receipts from the sale of cigarets and playing cards continued at virtually the 1930 levels during the first nine months of the current fiscal year, the treasury disclosed today. Receipts from sales of cigars dropped materially, while collections from manufactured tobacco and snuff were about four per cent lower than 1930.

Receipts from sales of produce on the futures market at Chicago and other large cities declined 50 per cent. Collections at Chicago, the largest grain futures market, dropped off slightly more than 50 per cent, amounting to $901,845 for the first nine months of this fiscal year, compared with $1,816,659 last year.

During the first nine months of this fiscal year the total internal revenue receipts from the sale of cigarets was $264,667,376, not quite half a million dollars less than the $265,104,168 collected for the first nine months of 1930.

Receipts from the manufacture of playing cards were $3,807,563, just over $100,000 less than for the similar 1930 period. Collections on playing cards in Ohio were $2,077,776, while receipts of $307,076 were received in Illinois.

RACE FOR FRENCH PRESIDENCY GETS WELL UNDER WAY

New Chief Will Be Named Next Week.

PARIS, May 4.—(AP)—Interest in the forthcoming presidential election, now only eight days away, overshadowed all other questions this evening in the lobbies of the French chamber of deputies and senate, on the eve of their reconvening after the Easter holidays.

To the exclusion of such important problems as the threatened debate on the proposed Austro-German customs union and interpellation on the naval disagreement with Italy, the names of the possible candidates for president were receiving the greatest attention during informal discussions.

Possibilities Are Listed.

Among those whose chances were discussed as likely to succeed President Doumergue were Paul Doumer, presiding officer of the senate; Senator Albert Lebrun, backed by former President Poincare; Senator Leon Berard, minister of justice and therefore second officer in Premier Laval's cabinet, and, always in the offing but not yet an avowed candidate, Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, negotiator of the Locarno and war outlawry pacts and twelve times premier.

Other candidates with supporters included former Premier Paul Painleve, many times minister, and unsuccessful candidate against President Doumergue at the last election in 1924; President [Speaker] Bouisson of the chamber of deputies, popular with all party men, though himself a Socialist.

Andre Maginot, minister of war, seriously wounded in action in the war, is assured of considerable support among the moderate elements in both houses. Jean Hennessey, former minister of agriculture and ambassador to Switzerland, is another possibility. He is, incidentally, proprietor of a widely known distillery of brandy.

KIWANIS HONORS 13 VETERANS OF HAYMARKET RIOT

Thirteen veterans of the Haymarket riot were guests at a dinner given by the West Side Kiwanis club at the Midwest Athletic club, Madison street and Hamlin avenue, last night. It was the first gathering of the veterans outside of their own circle.

Frank Tyrrell, president of the Kiwanis club, and son of Capt. Tyrrell presided. Speakers were Judge Kickham Scanlan of the Appellate court, Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court, City Comptroller M. S. Szymczak, State's Attorney John A. Swanson, and Police Commissioner John Alcock.

ESTONIA-LATVIA TRADE PACT NEAR AIMED AT RUSSIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, May 4.—Jan Tennison, Estonian foreign minister, arrived in Riga today to confer with Karl Ulmanis, Latvian premier, on a proposed customs union. The ministers will also discuss the desperate plight of industries, particularly the timber industry, in their respective countries, which is declared to be partly due to dumping by soviet Russia.

Three thousand carloads of soviet timber have arrived in Riga and are being loaded on 20 ships destined for European ports. An additional 10,000 carloads are expected in May or June.

The timber industry in Finland, Estonia, and Latvia is passing through a crisis which began two years ago. Exports from these countries have been curtailed. Soviet exports are expected to reach a record figure since enormous areas of forest have been felled with the aid of forced labor during the last winter.

Little Entente Studies Accord.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 4.—(AP)—Foreign ministers of the little entente at a meeting here today stated that they had accepted the view of Dr. Edouard Benes of Czecho-Slovakia that all questions regarding the proposed Austro-German customs accord must find the little entente firmly united in their attitude.

Countries represented at the conference were Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, and Rumania. The conference is being conducted in strict secrecy and no mention was made of what the entente's "attitude" should be.

Suspect Hostile Attitude.

It was recalled, however, that Dr. Benes recently made an uncompromising attack on the proposed Austro-German pact and that, therefore, any unity that included Czecho-Slovakia could only be one of hostility. Well informed circles persist in believing that Jugo-Slavia feels a certain friendliness toward the proposed pact, which is not shared by her two colleagues.

Rumania Refuses Berlin Pact.

BERLIN, May 4.—The German delegation sent to Bucharest last Friday to negotiate a trade agreement with Rumania, was this afternoon instructed to return home immediately, since the Rumanian government today informed Berlin that it did not wish to negotiate with the Germans at the present time.

Germany is deeply perturbed by this "insult" in which the press sees evidence of "French and Czecho-Slovakian intrigues to prevent a friendly trade agreement between Germany and Rumania." The Berlin Tageblatt speaks bitterly of the struggle of Berlin diplomats for prestige which has induced "France to do everything in its power to prevent a German-Rumanian agreement before the league of nations' council meeting this month, hoping thus to complicate the discussion of the Austro-German customs union."

Berlin bemoans these intrigues as showing what is termed as a lack of willingness by France and members of the little entente to coöperate in a practical solution of Europe's difficulties.

Critic Wonders Why Writers Wear Mantles

And if So, Whose Went to Eden Phillpotts.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

EDEN PHILLPOTTS is one of the outstanding novelists of England. A decade or so ago every one was talking about him as the logical inheritor of the mantle of Thomas Hardy. By the way, I wonder why literary men have "mantles" to be inherited and business men don't. You seldom hear of a manufacturer of collar buttons passing on his mantle to his successor, or the son of a factor in the tent and awning industry falling heir to his father's "mantle." Once in a while a political mantle gets donned by somebody who is treading in another's footsteps, but a policeman never passes his "mantle" on to any one else. Maybe that's because his lot, as Mr. Gilbert so succinctly puts it, is "not a happy one." But the lots of those who do the most mantle shedding for future generations are not usually happy ones.

EDEN PHILLPOTTS.

It all started in the days of ancient Hebrew history, as recorded in the Bible, when Elisha "took up also the mantle of Elijah that fell from him and went back and stood by the bank of Jordan." A physical cloak has come, through the years of interpretation, to signify a spiritual one. That's plain enough, but why should some human activities have mantles and others not? It puzzles me. Maybe one has to be a leader to have a mantle to pass on. But artistic mantles don't actually exist often until many years after the death of the artist. A leader of an artistic group often is dead for a generation before his influence is recognized. If inheriting a "mantle" means anything at all, it should mean the passing on of a living garment, as it were—one which, like the eternal fire of art or divinity, has been handed from one generation to another.

Eden Phillpotts' inheritance of the mantle of Hardy works out on the theory of the hand of the departing one giving the torch to the hand of the arriving one. For although Phillpotts is sixty-nine years old, when he started writing about Dartmoor he was only 35. Hardy then was 56 and the appearance on the literary horizon of a man 21 years his junior, who chose the same milieu for his novels and wrote them in something of the same manner, must have given Mr. Hardy a sense of having acquired a disciple.

Mr. Phillpotts never reached the heights that his master reached in his novels, but he did his job of picturing Dartmoor well enough to be ranked among the major English novelists.

As a side line, Mr. Phillpotts always had a fine Italian hand for a mystery. He combined just the proper bit of literary skill with a sense of a good tricking of the fancy with death and destruction. A great many people thought that he wrote a mystery story better than he wrote a novel. Out of a clear sky one year not so many ago—ten, perhaps, I should say—there appeared a mystery story by "Harrington Hext." Mr. Hext was suspected of being H. G. Wells, Arnold Bennett, and assorted other English novelists, for, although Mr. Hext was unknown, there were whispers that he was a famous English novelist on a literary spree. By this time everybody, of course, knows that Harrington Hext is Mr. Phillpotts, but they didn't until Mr. Phillpotts had written enough mysteries in the manners of enough famous novelists to confuse the most skilled scouts.

"Found Drowned" [Macmillan], published today, perhaps might better have borne the author's pseudonym than his real name, for it is much more like the swell mystery stories which Mr. Phillpotts has written than like his very, very serious pictures of local life in Dartmoor. It is, so far as a book about a murder can be, a gay book. It starts out with what looks like a suicide and ends with a general jubilation that the gentleman with "pizen" in his insides got what was due him. The hero is a retired doctor, who writes in the first person and who has a pretty hand at ferreting out things. He seems a little more the pet of the deus ex machina of the old tales than the superbrilliant modern sleuth, but there is a certain relief in having coincidence wiggle its long arm now and again. I don't mean to say that the amateur "detecatiff" doesn't do pretty professional putting of two and two together, but that he did have a good deal of luck, look at his sleuthing how you will.

I'm not a detective story addict, and I don't read the output of the mystery masters, so my judgment about "Found Drowned" as a mystery hasn't any gold medal authority back of it. As a piece of literature, however, I'd say that "Found Drowned" is a good story, told with skill, with that "it" which keeps you at it once you've started it and without the too facile quality that makes you skip whole hunks of description. You read it because it intrigues you. But it would not, if I were Mr. Phillpotts, go into the omnibus of my work by which I hoped to live in the history of English literature.

GASOLINE ALLEY—A BARGAIN IS A BARGAIN

ENVOY DEDICATES TRIBUNE'S READING ROOM IN PANAMA

BY GERALD MARTIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, May 4.—In the presence of probably the largest gathering of Chicagoans ever brought together south of the Rio Grande, American Minister Roy Tasco Davis opened THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE reading room in Panama's historic Hotel Central this afternoon.

Gov. Harry Burgess of the Panama canal, Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, commanding the Panama canal department of the army; Rear Admiral Noble E. Irwin, commandant of the 15th naval district; Dr. J. J. Vajarino, Panama foreign secretary; Don Francisco Arias, premier and minister of justice, and other cabinet members and officials were among the invited guests.

More than 200 Canal Zone residents formerly of Chicago signed THE TRIBUNE'S visitors' book following the signatures of Minister Davis, who opened the inaugural ceremonies, Gov. and Mrs. Burgess, Admiral and Mrs. Irwin, Gov. Juan Antonio Jiminez, cabinet members and members of the diplomatic corps.

Minister Davis, who was introduced by THE TRIBUNE'S Panama correspondent, eulogized THE TRIBUNE, saying:

"It is the first paper to obtain the news always." He then made reference to the coming Century of Progress exposition at Chicago, saying that eventually Chicago would be the world's greatest city. His remarks were greeted with applause.

Representatives of press associations and every American paper represented here, as well as local publishers and editors, coöperated in the ceremonies.

Following the formal opening of the reading room the guests were led to the grand ballroom of the hotel for dancing.

The ceremonies today coincided with the 27th anniversary of the United States' taking over of the French canal concession and equipment.

This day always is honored by the Society of Incas, old time canal men who came here on or before that historic date. President Oscar Boyd of this society and other officers were present at THE TRIBUNE reading room opening and signed the book.

Also present was Richard M. Davies, who was born in Chicago more than fifty years ago. He is president of the Society of Chagres, old timers who have been here since 1908 and men who wore the Roosevelt medal.

THE TRIBUNE reading room occupies one of the largest public rooms of the Hotel Central. It looks out upon a large patio and lobby, and its walls are adorned with photographs dear to the hearts of men from Illinois. In the center, facing the entrance, is a large photograph of The Tribune Tower, and near by are pictures of Col. R. R. McCormick and Capt. J. M. Patterson.

There are dozens of pictures of Chicago, a map of the second city, and an air line map of the United States showing services to South American cities.

Good morning!

Now there was a brace of tough eggs from ["DON'T SAY 'CHICAGO'!" thunders Mayor Cermak]—a big city many thousand miles from Chicago—and they thought they saw a way to make a cleanup in the village of Bunsen, Idaho. So, posing as capitalists with money to invest, they descended on the town.

They were greeted by a band and the outstretched mitts of Bunsen's leading citizens. They were told the town was theirs. The ranch of the town banker—with fishing and hunting adjacent—was placed at their disposal and sweet Sue Vancey, daughter of the banker, looked on them with admiring eyes while at the same time turning the look of a love grown cold on Brad Farley, who adored her.

Brad's business was catching wild horses and selling them, at which occupation he made many a pretty penny. But, after a sight of the "capitalists" Brad ceased to satisfy Sue, who said to him:

"Why don't YOU make something of YOURself . . . !"

Well, the arrivals from the metropolis so far, far away from Chicago had a queer look to Brad, who also was sure he detected a skunk odor about 'em. His pal experienced the same scruff-raising sensations in the presence of Kedge Darvas, et al. Time and circumstance proved the shrewd plainsmen prophets with honor in their own country. There are more ways than one of exterminating vermin. What happened to the Darvas gang makes exciting and unusual beholding.

"Gun Smoke" is an entertaining and out of the ordinary gang picture, with punch, humor and a prairie background. The popular players act well the rôles assigned them, and the action speeds right along to a most satisfactory finish.

WHISPER: [I don't KNOW, but I THINK that the two eagle-eyed gentlemen who sat just in front of me at the first showing of "Gun Smoke" were Cermak adjutants. They kept their ears well cocked, consulted together often, and one of them had gold buttons on his sleeves.]

Anniversary Stamp Will Depict Red Cross Nurse

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—The symbolic figure of a Red Cross nurse will appear on 2 cent stamps on May 21, marking the fiftieth anniversary of that organization.

Postmaster General Brown today announced the first day's sale would be limited to two historic places, Dansville, N. Y., where Clara Barton was born, and this city, where she organized the National Red Cross in 1881.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Social and economic readjustment similar to what has taken place in Russia will take place in England within the next decade and in America sometime thereafter. At least that prophecy was made yesterday before Episcopal clergy of Chicago by Canon T. A. E. Davey of the famous Liverpool cathedral. Canon Davey who has been in America since January as a special lecturer at Berkeley Divinity school, New Haven, Conn., has been the guest of the Rev. Dr. Duncan H. Browne, rector of St. James Episcopal church.

Canon Davey, who was a special representative of the Archbishop of Canterbury during the general strike of 1926 in England, declared that prewar theories regarded preposterous then, have been incorporated in practical politics. The English churchman asserted the strike had spiritual and moral elements. The antagonism of the ecclesiastical leaders was changed to complete approval, Canon Davey declared, when the bishops met the Lancashire strikers and studied their position.

"The strike showed that the working people of England had risen solidly to stand together as a unit for what they believed to be right," Canon Davey said.

One function of the church during the strike, he added, was to prevent clashes between police and strikers as well as to avert other disorders. Large numbers of police were sent into the hotter strike areas, he said, and no love was lost between the elements.

"Football games between strikers and police were arranged by the clergymen of the church," Canon Davey said. "That gave the strikers a chance to kick the policemen freely and not get into trouble for it. Had this kicking been off the field there would have been trouble aplenty."

The Church of England is committed to the social and industrial readjustments now under way, the canon declared. He then stated that "What has gone on in Russia will go on in England within the next five or ten years, and in America soon after that." He explained, however, that as the religious forces in England had been alert and had "thought things through," the movement will not take the atheistic turn as in Russia.

Time to Absorb Violet Rays Here; Relaxation Is Sign

Small boys who spend sunny afternoons fishing off the Municipal pier, business men who are planning their vacation and those whose chief effort is that of sunning themselves in Grant park these days, are not victims of spring fever. They are just beginning to absorb the first ultra-violet rays of the season.

The first of the five months of the year, when Chicagoans can be penetrated by ultra-violet rays of the sun, is here. So says Dr. Fred O. Tonney, head of the bureau of laboratories and research of the city department of health. The first effects of absorbing the needed rays is that persons relax, causing what is known as spring fever, Dr. Tonney said. Later they will become vigorous and energetic. He urged mothers to sun their children as much as possible.

Becauseof the pall of smoke which hangs over Chicago, only 40 per cent of the full amount of ultra violet in summer sunshine can fight its way through the atmosphere to the man on the street in Chicago.

"Thirty years ago Chicago had polluted air, water, and milk," Dr. Tonney said. "We've purified our water and milk but persons do not realize that smoke is as serious a health menace as impure milk. We have some control over the smoke, but a central steam heating plant or gas heat affords the only smokeless city."

Hoover Lauds French Help to Washington

Memorial Is Dedicated to Admiral De Grasse.

PARIS, May 4.—(AP)—A message from President Hoover emphasizing the lofty place that Admiral Count De Grasse holds in American annals made the dedicationtoday of a monument to his memory an event of significance in Franco-American history.

WALTER EDGE.

The memorial to "Francis Joseph Paul Admiral Count De Grasse," French naval commander in the American revolution, was unveiled at the Trocadero palace, and after an address by American ambassador Walter Evans Edge, was formally presented to the government of France.

Ambassador Edge read the following statement from President Hoover:

"The scroll of French history is so long, and inscribed with so many illustrious names, that a Frenchman might be permitted a moment of uncertainty in establishing the place of the Comte de Grasse. For an American, however, no such uncertainty can exist. The circumstances of 1781 in which Admiral De Grasse anchored his flagship, the Ville de Paris, at the gate of Chesapeake bay, were too momentous for us to forget.

"The energy and independence of his character, moreover, are preserved for us in the letters of Gen. Washington: 'The resolutions that you have taken in our circumstances,' wrote the commander in chief of the Continental army, soon after the arrival from the West Indies of the French fleet, 'prove that a great mind knows how to make personal sacrifices to secure an important general good.'

"And when that important general good had been secured, Washington was the first to acknowledge how large a share of the honor pertained to De Grasse.

The monument is the gift of A. Kingsley Macomber of Morristown, N. J., and was designed by Paul Londowsky, French sculptor.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THIS is the play that Mayor Cermak should have honored with his first night censorial attention. It deals with New York's females of pleasure, rather than Chicago gangsters, and so cannot be taken as a blemish upon our civic escutcheon; but if His Honor had attended last night's opening performance, and upon departing had signified his official verdict with the gesture of thumbs down, I should have felt that some good can come out of the dubious function of a stage censorship.

"The Greeks Had a Word for It" is an almost incredible piece of florid nonsense, dealing with a trio of gabby wantons who have graduated from the chorus of Ziegfeld's "Follies" and thus have a franchise to prey vulturously upon the moneyed morons of Manhattan. It presents this phase of life with hectic exaggeration, with irritating verbiage, with a lamentable lack of plausibility or taste. It is a sex soaked farce without a sense of humor; it is a duller and dirtier "Sisters of the Chorus."

The three harpies, for whom the Americans have many words, some of which are used in the dialogue, sit around through three acts, in a café, a bachelor apartment, and at home; and yap and yap and yap. One of them has a grouch of such a bilious and chronic character that it should have disqualified her in the practice of her profession. Another is the average platinum blond dumbbell. The third is an exhibitionist who likes to undress in public and a double crosser who is always gypping her girl friends.

The interminable yapping is mostly in a quarrelsome vein. The grouch and the double crosser are forever snarling at each other, while the dull sister tries to serve as peacemaker. That, in a sense, is the plot. Men enter into the story, of course, but so fatuously that the carnal aspects of the play are too ludicrous to be sensational.

I didn't believe a word of this play. It struck me as being a reprehensible attempt by a lady dramatist to be as flagrant as the law and customs of the land permit. Since she is a writer with enough literary experience to know better, I am not inclined to forgive her. She has deliberately written a tough, unamusing show and, although I usually accept the stage with a tolerance of its vagaries, I see no reason why I should not get tough in reporting my reactions to this performance.

I say, therefore, that "The Greeks" etc., is a low grade, unlaundered specimen of spinach, and I say—well, you know the answer to spinach.

Episcopal Church May Add Pledge to Weddings

New York, May 4.—(AP)—The Grace church rule requiring persons married there to pledge themselves to some Christian church has been recommended for incorporation into a canon to govern the whole Episcopal church.

Dr. W. Russell Bowie, rector, who made the announcement, said "the main problem" before the church today is not whether to remarry divorced people, but the question of "marrying people in the first place under such influences as will help them never to want to be divorced."

For more than a year Grace church has made it a condition that only those persons may be married there "who believe sufficiently in the religious significance of their marriage to say they will seek thereafter to associate themselves with some Christian church."

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

Two Chicagoans Win Pulitzer Literary Prizes

Mrs. M. A. Barnes and Prof. Schmitt Victors.

NEW YORK, May 4.—[Special.]—Two of the five 1931 Pulitzer prize awards for literary excellence, according to an announcement made at Columbia university today, have been given to Chicagoans.

They are Mrs. Margaret Ayer Barnes, whose "Years of Grace" is given recognition as the best novel of the year, and Prof. Bernadotte E. Schmitt of the University of Chicago, author of "The Coming of the War," which is officially declared the best book of the period dealing with the history of the United States.

Other awards included one to Susan G. Glaspell for the best play of the year, "Alison's House"; one to Henry James for the best American biography, "Charles W. Eliot," and one to Robert Frost for the best volume of verse, his "Collected Poems."

All of these prizes were $1,000 each, except that to Prof. Schmitt, which is $2,000. The board of trustees at Columbia also announced ten other awards. Those are for achievements in journalism. Winners have been notified and nearly all of them have accepted.

Mrs. Barnes, who resides at 1133 North Dearborn street, Chicago, is the wife of Attorney Cecil Barnes, a sister of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and the mother of three sons. In the last five years she has written a book of short stories, "Prevailing Winds," and has collaborated in the writing of three plays. She dramatized Mrs. Edith Wharton's "Age of Innocence" and was co-author with Edward Sheldon of "Jenny" and "Dishonored Lady."

Her literary career began after an automobile accident in France in 1926. Recently she asserted that her first writing was done while she was convalescing and "with paper on a plaster cast chest."

Mrs. Barnes was born in Chicago in 1883, was graduated from Bryn Mawr college in 1907 and was married in 1910. She is a member of the Society of Midland Authors, the Dramatists' Guild, the Authors League of America, the Fortnightly and the Friday clubs.

The prize book of Prof. Schmitt, published last fall, covered the results of ten years of exhaustive study into the responsibility for the world war. His attitude tended to lay the blame on the central powers, in opposition to another group of American historians, headed by Prof. Sidney Fay of Harvard university, which indicted the allied nations as having forced the conflict.

Some of the controversial points in the study he settled in personal interviews with the former German kaiser at Doorn, with Lord Grey of Falloden, British foreign secretary at the start of the war, with Raymond Poincaré, war president of France, and with Count Berchtold, Austria's foreign minister at the war's outbreak. This work has already won an invitation for Prof. Schmitt to lecture next year at the postgraduate institute of international studies at Geneva. He has accepted.

Prof. Schmitt, who is 44 years old, is acting chairman of the department of history at the University of Chicago. He is a graduate of the University of Tennessee and was a Rhodes scholar at Oxford. During the war he served as a lieutenant of artillery in the American army. The prize book is his third work on modern European history. Before going to the University of Chicago he was teacher and lecturer at the University of Wisconsin and Western Reserve university.

A. B. MacDonald of the Kansas City Star was given the $1,000 Pulitzer prize for the best piece of reportorial work during the year. Prizes of $500 were given H. R. Knickerbocker of the Philadelphia Public Ledger and the New York Evening Post for the best example of foreign correspondence, to Charles S. Ryckman of the Fremont, Neb., Tribune for the year's best editorial and to Edmund Duffy of the Baltimore Sun for the best cartoon. A gold medal was granted the Atlanta, Ga., Constitution for meritorious public service in exposing municipal graft.

Americans in Paris.

PARIS, May 4.—The following Americans registered today at the Paris bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE: Mrs. W. P. Kent, Fred S. Tinthoff, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Rundall, Charlotte H. Welch, May Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Diederich, Mr. and Mrs. Diedling, Alexander Zeller, and Edgar Bloomster of Chicago.

Three Thrills in This Display of New Paintings

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

IN the opinion of one well known Chicago artist of the younger group, any exhibition which includes one good picture out of which the visitors can get a kick, is an important exhibition. If that is the true definition of an important exhibit, then the present eleventh semi-annual members' show in the Chicago Galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue, is extremely important, for it embraces at least three pictures that are absolutely guaranteed to supply those who see them with kicks.

The most brilliant hunting picture of the year is seen in "Off to the Hunt," by Frederick Tellander, and every one with blood running warm in his veins will experience a veritable thrill when his eyes first fall on it.

Oscar Gross supplies kick No. two with a perfectly simple but extremely fine head of Mr. J. S. Dickerson, one of the best pieces of straight portraiture we have found in any exhibit. Charles P. Kilgore supplements the above efforts with kick No. three neatly placed to a goal spelled largely with romance in capital letters, "Market Day," showing an orange wall of warm depth and a group of colorful peasants.

The exhibition includes many more than these three paintings, however, which are worth while. Joseph Allworthy has a fine study in "A Crust of Bread." Roy Collins shows a gorgeous composition in "Still Life." Stark Davis offers "Macaw," a brilliant canvas. Sudduth Goff has a stunning portrait of Miss Medora Pelouze. Elisabeth K. Peyraud offers a beautiful painting of a woman in "Interlude." "The Morning Sun," by Pauline Palmer is richly decorative. "Red and Blue," by Elisabeth Boynton Millard, is excellently done. "Clothes," by Grant Wood, is different, intense, realistic, and clever. "April in Cagnes," by Anna Lee Stacey, is lovely. "California Springtime," by Orrin A. White, is unforgetable.

The exhibit will continue to June 5 and the division of sculpture is as admirable as the painting, though smaller. The exhibition is among those whose neglect is a distinct loss to the one who has not seen it.

Muff Chic Complement to Formal Fashions

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Summer muffs are the most charming paradox that capricious lady, the Paris mode, has thought of for a long time, but they are here and being sponsored by no less a personality than the great Lanvin herself, who makes flowerlike chiffon muffs all covered with chiffon ruches or taffeta petals to match the ruched or petaled hems of evening gowns. Apart from their purely decorative function these muffs may do duty as evening sacs. They will hold quite a number of things, but their principal mission in life seems to be to give the lady something pretty to do with her hands; they may be worn slipped over one arm like a sort of elbow puff sleeve when they are not in action.

A trailing muff is a feature of the Ardanse race ensemble, sketched today. The frock is of chiffon that has a wide border of coral roses with white leaves printed on a black ground. The skirt fits smoothly to below the hip line and there becomes full circular. The bodice has a high plaint front décolleté and a Greek draped back décolleté. The sleeves split to above the elbows and trailing to below the knees are typical of Ardanse. The frock is softly draped at the natural waist and tied in a bow on the left side.

The muff of plain black chiffon is trimmed with two trailing panels of the printed flower border, which are really a scarf, passed through two slits in the front of the muff, that may be worn round the neck if chilly.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

FOR BIGGER DAHLIAS.

Individual gardeners in 1930 in Chicago and its suburbs found weather conditions somewhat of a hindrance to gardening, yet few of those who had planted dahlias failed to strive for the largest dahlia blossom in his own or her own community.

Large flowers are the result of no peculiar secret of gardening, according to Fred C. McNabb of the national garden bureau. He claims they are the result of a systematic disbudding of the laterals at the leaf pairs, leaving just one bud that is nearest the main stalk.

To keep well, the cut dahlias need more special treatment, consisting of scalding one or two inches of the cut end of the stem by holding it in hot or boiling water for 25 to 30 seconds and then placing the blossom in a deep vessel of water over night.

Propagation can be either by seed or by tuber, with both methods used by some flower gardeners to make sure of having good results. Seedlings are new hybrids, from which all new varieties are obtained. The varieties are kept intact and continued through the planting of the tubers. To plant the tuber, the following process is recommended:

"Plant after the soil begins to warm up in the spring, setting the stake first and then placing the tuber in the soil down about 5 or 6 inches, with the eye end within one or two inches of the stake, but with the tuber horizontal. As the plants reach a height of 7 or 8 inches the tops should be pinched out to induce branching near the ground."

Seeds may be planted in flats or boxes in a light soil containing considerable humus. Cover the seed one-eighth inch with leaf mold, keeping moist at all times and with a glass covering on the box to assist in holding moisture until the seeds germinate. As the sun shines, tip the glass up to allow a circulation of air, putting the glass down again when the sunlight is gone. Transplant after the first or second rough leaves appear, three inches apart in flats and later to the garden.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

One day our shorthand teacher was dictating to us, but instead of taking it, my girl friend and I were writing notes about the boy friends.

The next day I found that I had handed my notes in by mistake, and the teacher dictated them to the class.

I was too embarrassed to write and I felt that every one's eyes were upon me. R. W.

$90,000 Sought for Grant Park Series of Summer Concerts

A campaign to raise $90,000 within the next few weeks to finance band concerts in Grant Park during the summer was launched yesterday at a luncheon in the Palmer house. The campaign will be conducted by the Chicago Concert Band association.

Arthur Cutten, George W. Dixon, and Charles C. Younggreen were named by Herbert Witherspoon, chairman of the campaign executive committee, as new patrons of the association. Mr. Dixon will act as treasurer and Mr. Younggreen as chairman of the general organization committee soliciting funds.

They said he'd NEVER Dance again

FRED STONE was finished. Cracked up in his plane, his body broken, doctors, friends and family feared he'd be crippled for life. But this comedian's grit and courage pulled him through. How he did it, told in the May American Magazine, is one of the most inspiring stories ever written. It was a long pull to health and to his new comic dance on discarded crutches—but he achieved success!

Mid-Channel Is Dangerous Age for Most Women

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"This woman of 45," a corespondent writes in her letter, "is married; apparently has been very happy and contented for years, and has children she has reared beautifully. But recently she discovers she has actually fallen in love—the kind of love she has never experienced before, and the man is a few years her junior, a bachelor, and friend of the family for years.

"The woman has read and read, trying to analyze herself and her emotions. She has studied Freud and Ellis and a number of others." She is beginning to believe that she is one of those women the psycho-analysts describe as having missed the great emotion in marriage, etc., etc."

Isn't it the old story of a little philosophy being a dangerous thing? A little psycho-analysis or any kind of study with one's self and emotions as the center of thought for a length of time, will breed strange obsessions. The good old family doctor probably would dismiss the woman's problem as the emotional disturbance concurrent with that period known as the "dangerous age."

What a woman of that type needs is to avoid sitting housed with books on subjects that permit her to read martyrdom into her life, and to get out in the wide open spaces where the breezes blow stiff and strong. There's nothing like the good, healthy ozone to straighten out problems for you. A good hike a day would keep away the neurologist, psycho-analyst, and so on.

Along about middle life both men and women are apt to be afflicted with the most disturbing thoughts, and if a possible "amour" is handy, the situation is doubly complicated. Most people wonder when they get along to that age if they haven't missed something big, vital, in their lives. The wise ones just go on plugging away at their regular domestic duties and let temptation ride, thereby earning a much more comfortable later life than if they stopped to pause and listen to "the voice." Maybe understanding that it is not a unique experience, at all, but quite a prevalent one, might assist the particular woman herein specified to hurdle the forties with the grace and dignity becoming her age.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Embittered.

"Dear Miss Blake: I broke off with my steady. Since then my attitude toward men has been bitter. Am I foolish? RENEE."

It would be unfair to harbor a feeling of bitterness toward all men because you have been disappointed in one.

Eradicate Those Wrinkles with Daily Massage

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday I was talking about the wrinkled brow that's being worn on too many otherwise nice faces. Today I've got some more to say on the subject.

It's funny the way these brow lines run. On some folk they do their running cross-country fashion—that is, in parallel lines. On others, the scowling, frowning, or brow wrinkling concentrates on that vulnerable spot between the eyes. Once those two vertical lines get embedded it's the mischief of a job to get them out.

The popular alibi is to lay these particular wrinkles to eye strain. Eye strain is no reliable alibi. If there is eye strain it should be relieved pronto with recourse to glasses or whatever method is prescribed by a reputable eye man. More often than eye strain it's the tendency we have to do a bit of frowning when we think hard. Or think we're thinking hard. Because if we did think hard we just wouldn't invite those aging creases. Anyway, the brow wrinkling doesn't give a single lift to the problem we're trying to figure out.

To prevent wrinkles is the perfect cure, as has been said of other things. But if they are there already a new facial habit has to be adopted for use with serious mental processes. There's no use using creams and wrinkle lotions if we keep on furrowing the brow as we think. But there is this about local measures of treatment. If you get to massaging that brow morning and night you will be more conscious about the lines and gradually come to see the wisdom of thinking without wrinkling.

I don't know any better brow massage movement than the one in which you grease the palms well, place them immediately together in the center of the forehead, and work them out and up with a fairly firm palm pressure. You might, when you're doing this, include the eyelids along with the wrinkle eradicating work. Give yourself not less than five minutes, morning and night. And finish off with a good astringent. If the lines are deep-set you'll need a strong astringent.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

F. R.: PERSPIRING FEET respond to astringent treatment. The feet may be soaked each night for half an hour in a one per cent solution of formalin in water. Stockings must be changed several times during the day, and the shoes daily. The idle pair of shoes should be dusted with boracic acid powder.

N. C.: COLD HANDS OR FEET indicate poor circulation. You may improve your circulation by the cold shower habit. Take a cold shower each morning and follow up with a brisk rub with a rough towel. A brisk walk of three or four miles daily will quicken the circulation.

Concert for Hospital Will Draw Society

BY THALIA

THE company at the benefit musical to be given at the Bendix gallery this evening will, apparently, be similar to the attendance at one of the Assemblies, an exceptionally brilliant night at the opera, or one of the other height of the season festivities, and will be more formal in character than is to be expected of a spring affair.

The benefit is given by the Woman's Aid society of the Passavant Memorial hospital, and Mme. Claire Dux is to give the program. She really is giving it, too, for the good of the cause, which is the fund for free beds for the hospital.

There are to be scores of gay dinner parties before the program, which is to begin at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Francis J. Johnson, who is chairman of the benefit workers, and Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, who has been active in the preparation work, are to have 26 guests for dinner at the Casino, and Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick is having a dozen dinner guests. The Charles Garfield Kings' dinner guests include the Joseph M. Cudahys, Mr. and Mrs. Watson Arnour, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Borland, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, and Mrs. Richardson Dunham.

The James M. Hopkinses and Mrs. John A. Spoor are to have a joint dinner party at the Hopkins' penthouse apartment, and Mr. and Mrs. James McVeagh will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Byron L. Harvey, Mrs. Ellen Kerr, and Lawrence M. Viles. Dining with the Frank Hibbards will be the Lastance Armours, the Huntington Henrys, John C. Pitcher, the Walter Wells, Charles Edward Brown, Mrs. George R. Nichols, and Mrs. C. Morse Ely.

Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum, who has been ill and unable to help very actively with the plans, is up again and she and Dr. Baum are to have a small dinner party at their residence.

Several Chicago Girls Are Invited to Princeton Party.

Several Chicago belles were among the 700 or so young women invited to attend the annual house party week-end at Princeton. The program of gayeties included series of dances of the upper class clubs on Friday and Saturday evenings, the presentation of Molnar's "The Play's the Thing" by the Princeton Theater Intime, Princeton-Amherst baseball game, a Yale-Princeton rugby game, a Princeton-Columbia track meet, and a Princeton vs. Army polo game.

Caroline Smith, the Solomon A. Smiths' daughter, and Lelia Withers of Winnetka were among the guests of members of Charter club; Barbara Graf, Arbor Inn; Jeanette Bard of Cap and Gown; Winifred Wheeler and Betty Offield of the Cottage club; Margaret Cook of Evanston of the Court club; Katrina McCormick of Quadrangle club, and Lucy Jacobs of the Tower club.

The committees making the arrangements for the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids annual supper dance to take place on Saturday evening at the Bal Tabarin yesterday at Virginia Vilas' for a last discussion of plans for the party.

The sewing circle of the woman's auxiliary of Grant hospital, of which Mrs. Henry Bartholomay is chairman, is to give a card party tomorrow afternoon at the nurses' home next to the hospital. The proceeds will go to the hospital.

About Portraits, Mystery Story Fans, Decorations.

In Tower Town Topics, the alert and good looking monthly magazine circulated on the near north side, we read that Eleanor Holden, Mrs. Fairbank Carpenter, and Mrs. Merrill Hubbard are having their portraits painted by Edgar Britton . . . and that Messrs. A. D. Lasker, Howard Cunningham, and Philip Wrigley are among the town's mystery story fans. This month's issue includes some stunning photographs of "Number 1301 on Astor street"—one of the exterior of the building, two of the lobby, which has grayish white walls, black terrazzo floors, white velvet curtains, black furniture, a yellow leather bench, and a modern mural decoration by Frederic C. Bartlett; another of a view of Mr. Bartlett's apartment in the building, and one of a window in the Frank Hibbard apartment, showing the rough sand finished wall and the painted wall decoration.

GUIDE BOOSTS FOR PRINCE OF WALES AS HONEST FISHERMAN

While he clipt off jerky sentences reminiscent of the time he was the guide for seven days to the heir to the British throne, Jack McKirty, veteran Scotch-Canadian guide as was his father before him, fingered on his watch chain a sterling silver match case carved with three curled feathers and the letter G.—the monogram of George, prince of Wales.

"Pretty nice to keep, eh? Well, I think a lot of this because the prince gave it to me."

Jack was at the open air show in the Coliseum which has been transformed into a mecca for vacation fans. He told of showing Wales how to angle for speckled trout up in the Nipigon wilds.

"He wasn't so much of a rapids fisherman but he worked hard at it. The biggest fish he caught was two and three-fourths pounds because he was more used to lake waters," the guide confided. "One day I caught a five pounder near the camp. I asked him if he didn't want me to mount it so he could take it home. He thought that fine. I started having it done, but he came around and said: 'I don't believe you'd better go ahead with that.' I didn't ask why but I was pretty curious as to why he changed his mind. Then he offered the reason.

"'If I'd take a big fish like that home, I'd feel tempted to say that I was the one who caught it,' the prince told me. 'I'll have to come back here sometime and catch my own big fish.'"

CHEAP CUTS OF MEAT IMPROVED BY USING SUGAR

Sugar Blends Deliciously with Meat Juices and Seasonings

One of the most inexpensive meat stews to make is the famous Mexican dish—Chili Con Carne. The recipe, which is very simple, follows:

Slice fine, two onions and cook slowly in four tablespoons of fat in a covered kettle until soft—not brown. Then add one and one-half pounds round steak or cheaper beef cut in small cubes and cook until the meat starts to fry. Stir in one to three tablespoons Chili powder, mixed in a little water, one teaspoon salt and two teaspoons sugar. Next add one quart hot water and one-half cup tomato puree or juice. Simmer until meat is very tender and stew is of a thick consistency. Serve with potatoes, rice, corn or hominy and a salad. This meal topped with a sweet dessert is most satisfying and properly balanced.

Sugar can be similarly used when you stew, braise or pot-roast cheap cuts of beef or lamb; and a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt noticeably improves the flavor of vegetables. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Hamilton Club Chorus Presents Fine Program

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THE Hamilton club chorus provided one of the surprises of the season during its concert at Orchestra hall last night. Admitted that it has some of the best known and most talented singers of the city in its personnel, at the same time it came near to setting a standard toward which all male choruses ought to tend and to which only the best ever succeed in attaining. This is more than being merely a collection of good singers.

One is inclined to put at least part of the responsibility upon its conductor, Harry S. Walsh. The organization numbers about eighty, and would seem to be about equally divided and therefore balanced in the four ranges that make up the male chorus. But Mr. Walsh has both blended the four ranges into a complete ensemble and also has given them an individuality and a warmth that convert eighty singers into a musical organism of great ability.

One hardly needed to hear the first phrase of the Bach chorale, "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee," still less Grieg's adorable little hymn, "Ave Maris Stella," to recognize that here was singing quite out of the ordinary. It has not only vocal texture but the quality that interprets music instead of being merely content with its own tonal glories. When the program moved on to the Scottish tune, "The Hundred Pipers," the auditors with one accord insisted upon a repetition, and well they may have. This piece was positively operatic in its performance.

All the songs were brief and to the point, and all were sung with this same exquisite finished energy. The soloists were Edward Davies, baritone, and B. Fred Wise, tenor, excellent artists both. But in this case they were to a considerable extent overshadowed by the organization they assisted.

Elizabeth Arden's newest treatment
THE ARDENA BATH

Away with those extra pounds you are dragging around—the bunchy hip-cushions, that threaten the success of your newest frock! And the fatty padding that is settling between your shoulder blades—the "thickish" look of your upper arm—the too heavy bust—they shall be banished, too.

Miss Arden's important new treatment is attacking these undesirable accumulations of fat tissue with extraordinary success. A course of treatments will permanently eliminate as much as twenty pounds if need be. Or your weight will be re-distributed, for the beauty of this treatment is it can be concentrated on your "fatty spots" without affecting the rest of your figure.

But the Ardena Bath is far more than a reducing treatment. It seems to reach down to the very roots of your nerves and free them of tenseness and fatigue. If you are feeling the little aches and pains that come from accumulated poisons, it is a positive sign that you are in need of this treatment.

A body massage afterwards maintains your feeling of well-being. And when you step on the scales you find you are appreciably lighter.

The Ardena Bath Treatments are so much in demand that appointments should be made at least two days in advance if possible. And you should arrange first for an interview with Miss Arden's Director of Exercise, since all of Miss Arden's scientific body treatments are specially prescribed for each individual. For an appointment, please telephone Superior 6952.

Parents Are Advised Health of Children Is Most Important

Hot Springs, Ark., May 4.—(AP)—The American Philos notion that people must at times be ill—must be changed if the next generation is to receive its proper heritage of health. So said Dr. Willis A. Sutton of Atlanta, president of the National Education association. He spoke to the national congress of parents and teachers tonight.

"We have idealized sickness," Dr. Sutton said. "We must change the notion that sickness is a necessity. Youth must be inspired by virtues of health and taught that health is a great adventure and the accumulation of ages. The child is its guardian and must be taught to realize it.

"If the child is taught proper health habits, he then becomes his own policeman and when this is realized he will not need the other type of policemen to guard against his use of alcohol and cigarets and other bad habits."

He said many educators were beginning to feel the overdevelopment of organized athletics was injuring students, the school system and the whole community, which in its enjoyment of rivalry "clearly overemphasizes the minor part the director plays in the physical and health education of all the children in the school."

Kleenex prevents self-infection

KEEP soiled handkerchiefs away from your face! Keep germs away from your nose and mouth!

What Kleenex is

You use each tissue just once, then destroy. Each tissue that touches your face is exquisitely clean. During colds, there's no possibility of self-infection from germ-filled handkerchiefs.

Kleenex is valuable in other ways. Use these absorbent tissues for removing face creams. It saves towels from stains. Use it in the nursery. Use it for dusting and polishing.

Kleenex comes in 25-cent, 50-cent and $1.00 packages, at drug, dry goods and department stores.

Bacteriological Tests Show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The organisms included are those associated with colds.
2. That organisms associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

SYNOPSIS.

Iris de Bertincourt lives in a remote section of Paris with her fifteen year old daughter, Clare. She and Maj. Alan Charnwood are desperately in love, but there are barriers to their immediate marriage. They are spending the last evening they will have together in several months, as Maj. Charnwood plans to leave the next day for Africa. Clare is acting in a school play and is to be brought home by friends.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of enormous charm but utterly lacking in moral sense. Iris and he are cousins and the possible heirs of their Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmauron. Iris plans to divorce her husband and marry Alan when he returns, but she is keeping her plans secret, as she wishes to avoid the interference of her tyrannical aunt, who has until recently ruled her life.

Iris receives a message that her aunt is on her way to see her. Alan leaves. The comtesse tells Iris that her husband's character has wholly changed and that he is desirous of reassuming his duties as a husband and father. Just after the comtesse leaves Iris hears a motor stop in front of the house and hears Clare's friends bidding her good night, but when she opens the door Clare is nowhere to be seen.

Maj. Charnwood is just ready to leave his hotel when Iris calls him. He hurries to her home. The friends who drove Clare home tell Iris they left Clare at her door. Alan accompanies Iris to notify the police, then they wait all night; but day breaks and Clare is still away. An inspector assigned to the case calls. He finds a photograph of a handsome Latin youth in Clare's desk. Iris calls her aunt, and Alan leaves to call on Helen Roderick, the American woman in whose office Iris has been employed. Miss Roderick refers to Clare's father as though she knows him well. She says she has known Marcel for several months and that he's not as black as he's painted. She hasn't told Iris, as she didn't want to risk losing her friendship. When Alan returns to Iris' home he finds it closed.

Mathilde stopped, panting, one rough hand pressed against her tight bodice.

"What has happened, Mathilde?" Charnwood demanded urgently. "The house is shut up?"

She nodded, recovering breath. "Yes, monsieur. As soon as madame la comtesse arrived and learned of our misfortune she would not hear of madame's remaining here alone, but insisted on taking her back with her. It was all very sudden. I had barely time to pack a bag for madame. The car is coming back presently for the trunks."

So, then, the truth was of the simplest. Yet, recalling all Iris had said last night on the subject of her formidable relative, he felt annoyed and rebuffed.

"Did madame wish to go?" he inquired, frowning.

Mathilde's eyes met his with understanding.

"Ah, monsieur," she answered noncommittally, "madame was in no state to argue, and her aunt is a lady unaccustomed to refusals. But she is a good woman, la comtesse," she added, with the inoffensive freedom of speech characteristic of the French domestic. "She will care for madame as though she were her own daughter, and truly that is what madame needs! If Mlle. Clare is not quickly found it is my opinion she will go out of her head with grief!"

Mathilde was right. What had occurred was probably best, since convention forbade his remaining by Iris' side. He must stifle his feelings and put a good face on the situation.

"Then I suppose nothing has developed since this morning? About mademoiselle, I mean."

"Nothing, monsieur," she sighed with deep depression.

They had turned into the garden where, drawing a key from her battered purse, Mathilde made haste to unlock the door. Inside the darkened hall she spoke again.

Charnwood was studying her closely. Her sallow face, heavily lined with care, showed to what extent she took Iris' trouble to heart.

"You have been with madame a long time?" he inquired.

"Five years, monsieur. Ever since she came into this house."

He held back a moment, then prompted by the conviction that here was a woman to be trusted, gave voice to the thought in his mind.

"It has been suggested that Mlle. Clare may have eloped with some one. Had that solution occurred to you?"

Her sunken eyes flashed with scorn.

"Eloped? Mademoiselle? That, monsieur, I can swear is out of the question! Ah," she went on shrewdly, "monsieur is thinking of the photograph. Well, I am certain it means nothing whatever. Mind you, the poor child is no longer a baby. She is beginning to have thoughts in her head, but they are innocent thoughts. She is a big, tall girl, but in actual fact young for her years. I know what I am saying, monsieur."

He was impressed by her unshakable belief, feeling her instinct about Clare's character to be a sound one; but did this help matters?

"One thing more. Do you know of any person who might bear madame a grudge? Wish to injure her?"

Again she made a positive denial.

"Then what . . . ?"

"Ah, monsieur, there are bad people about, black devils in human form prowling the streets to snatch their prey! Let me tell you something. In my brother's neighborhood in Montrouge a young girl disappeared on her way to the establishment where she was employed. An honest girl she was, just made her first communion, and trained as a fine laundress. That was two years ago, monsieur, and to this day her parents have no knowledge of her whereabouts!"

She finished abruptly and without pausing to note the effect of her disclosure hastened towards the rear of the house, calling over her shoulder that she would give monsieur her mistress' present address.

Charnwood joined her in the red tiled kitchen, and while she extracted a scrap of paper from the interior of a teapot, stood glancing round at the blue checked curtains and rows of shining copper.

"I am to remain here to forward madame's letters and keep the place in readiness for madame's return," Mathilde informed him. "God grant I shan't have long to wait! But if the worst is true—if mademoiselle is never found—this house will go into the agent's hands. Madame will never be able to live in it again."

When he had left her Charnwood took a careful survey of the walled enclosure. A narrow line of flat stones formed a path to the back entrance, but as he had assured himself last night that there was no way out behind the house, he did not now waste time on it. True, Clare might conceivably have slipped into the space at the back, but she could not have found an opportunity to escape. At no time had Iris left the premises, except when she ran to the corner of the rue Guillaume d'Orange, and even then she had kept in sight of her garden. No, once more he was driven to the conclusion that the girl could have made an exit only through the gate itself.

The latter was of wrought iron, about four feet in height. When it moved inward the hinges creaked, and on closing the catch made a little metallic ping. These were the sounds which Iris' ear was trained to recognize, and the second one she had heard barely a quarter of a minute before opening the front door.

According to Mme. Weber, Clare was last seen standing just within the unlatched gate, waving good-by. Whatever had occurred, therefore, must have taken place during the next few seconds. It now seemed to Charnwood that the one theory to fit the circumstances was that when the ping sounded the young girl was already outside, hurrying rapidly away.

The quiet dispatch of the affair was its most appalling feature. No struggle, no outcry—one could almost believe magic had been at work! Was it possible that a strong, active girl could be throttled and reduced to impassivity as quickly as that? The more one thought of it the less likely did the idea of brute force appear. Yet the rejection of it left only a single alternative, namely that Clare had departed of her own volition. Was Helen Roderick right after all?

However, an instantaneous attack was not altogether out of the question. What if a person previously concealed had crept cautiously up from behind, the sound of his approach masked by the retreating motor? With accurate timing it could have been managed. Was there any spot where a human being might have hidden?

A glance showed him there was. Between the big clump of laurels and the side wall was a space just wide enough to contain a crouching body, while the dense foliage provided a screen adequate enough in the darkness. Thrusting aside the stubborn mass, he examined the earth beneath. His eye could detect no marks in the compact soil, but that proved nothing. He was not an expert.

Alert fancy conjured up an apelike form hurling itself upon the unsuspecting Clare, a hairy hand clapped over her mouth, long, powerful arms snatching her up bodily to dash with her into the passage before she could free herself to scream. By the time the gate banged shut the pair could have got well away.

Outdoor Play Apparatus Is Fine for Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

With spring here and summer and autumn beyond, there is ahead a long stretch of time during which children's play is chiefly outdoors.

When the outdoor life begins it means a different kind of play and a different kind of plaything. To be sure, some of the toys that have been used indoors are for all the year round amusement—dolls and doll carriages, dump trucks, airplanes, etc.

But the outdoor provides space and freedom for the bigger activities. And for these bigger activities children need a different type of playthings. They need their scooters and skates and velocipedes and bikes and balls. But, also, they need material of another kind for still another type of "big muscle activity." This material we class as apparatus and it includes such things as slides, bars, swings, sand piles, and outdoor blocks. The use of various kinds of such apparatus is not only fun, but is fine for children's all around physical and mental development.

About this time of the year requests come in from many people who want to make a playground of their backyard for their own family, or of a larger piece of ground for younger or older groups. They ask what to have and how to buy or build it.

It is not possible to answer each of these requests in detailed letters, but there are certain leaflets or inexpensive books which give exact directions for making playgrounds and equipment for children of various ages. I shall be glad to give the names of these booklets and where they may be obtained on receipt of a stamped, self addressed envelope.

Chicago Gives Well to Adult Charities, Says Tag Day Chief

Satisfaction over the response of the public to the appeal of tag day for the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Charities yesterday was expressed last night by Mrs. A. H. Brumback, president.

"We will be unable to determine for three days the total receipts, but from all indications there were not so many small donations contributed this year as last. We don't expect as much as last year because it has been an especially hard year financially, but we are grateful for what was given us."

Mrs. Brumback said the total receipts will be made known as soon as employés at the First National bank had completed the counting of the contents of gift containers. The proceeds will be divided among forty deserving charities and institutions caring for aged, infirm and unfortunate men and women.

Food Talk.

I heard a housewife remark the other day that the only dessert she ever made out of strawberries was shortcake and the plain sugared fruit. I asked her if her family disliked strawberry ice cream, strawberry pie, and strawberry Bavarian?

"No, my family is really fond of all of them but I object to the work it requires to prepare them," she said.

I agree it is a lot of bother to make ice cream. Nevertheless, I make it. In my opinion there is no finer frozen dessert. The kind that is made of ripe fine flavored fruit and thin sweet cream results in a flavor and color among the rarest in food.

Strawberry pie is another exquisite dessert. There are many varieties, but the best is one in which the berries are cooked very little or not at all. Here is one that is easily made. Bake a tender crisp crust from plain pastry. Then prepare the berries. Wash them first, then hull. Washing before hulling saves considerable flavor. Then slice or slightly crush and add sugar to suit the taste. Crush fruit only a short time before putting in the pie. Fill the shell with berries just before serving and top with sweetened whipped cream. The cream may be garnished with a few choice berries or a half cup of sweetened sliced berries may be folded into it to give a pink tint and strawberry flavor.

Another good method of making a strawberry pie is to prepare a sirup of about a pint of strawberries, sweeten, then thicken this with gelatin or arrowroot. Put whole sweetened strawberries into a shell already half full of a good cream filling. Pour the cooled gelatin or arrowroot liquid over the berries, being sure to coat the entire surface. When cool the gelatin or arrowroot thickened sirup forms an attractive glaze over the berries.

PIQUANTE SAUCE.

2 tbsp. butter or other fat	2 cloves
2 onions	1 clove garlic
2 carrots	2 tbsp flour
2 shallots or small onions	1 cup beef or veal stock
Thyme	½ cup vinegar
1 tbsp. minced parsley	Salt and pepper

Melt the fat, slice into it onions, carrots and shallots. Add a little thyme, minced parsley, cloves and clove of garlic. Let this mixture cook until the carrot is soft, then add flour. Let it cook for 5 minutes more and add beef or veal stock and vinegar. Skim and strain through a sieve. Add salt and pepper when boiling.

MUTTON SANDWICH.

Spread thin slices of white or whole wheat bread with well creamed butter [preferably sweet butter]. Spread over with currant jelly and a sprinkling of finely chopped capers. Lay on a lettuce leaf, then cover with a slice of cold roast or braised mutton. Sprinkle lightly with salt, add the top slice of buttered bread and press together. Trim the sandwich and cut in the preferred shape—squares, fingers, or triangles.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Happy Days Are Here Again

Attorney Exonerated in Corly Death.

Six year old Robert Bill, 2038 West 23d street, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by a truck while playing in the street in front of his home. William Jeske, 2324 North Kedzie avenue, the driver, is being held by Marquette police.

This death and three others raised the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 392. The other victims:

Hans Ricken, 4 years old, 1644 Orchard street. Died at St. Joseph's hospital of injuries received Sunday when he was struck by an automobile in front of his home. The driver was Hans Bremer, 3306 North Claremont avenue.

John Spale, 78 years old, 1213 South 6th avenue, Cicero. Died at the Berwyn hospital of injuries incurred Feb. 8 when he was struck by an automobile driven by Clarence Wallin, 1908 South Wesley avenue, Berwyn.

Frank Davin, 40 years old, Cary, Ill. Died at the Barrington hospital of injuries received Sunday night when the car in which he was riding crashed into a tree in Barrington.

A coroner's jury yesterday absolved Alvin H. Culver, 105 Broadway, Wilmette, a Chicago attorney, of blame in the death on Saturday in Evanston, of Chester Corey, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank. Witnesses testified that although Culver's car ran over Corey's body, Corey had been knocked down by another automobile which failed to stop. The jury recommended that the driver of the other car be apprehended and held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter.

Miss Blanche Baker, 35 years old, of Spring Valley, Ill., was killed yesterday when she was thrown through the windshield of a car following a head-on collision on a highway near Morris, Ill.

SECOND BABY OF FORT DEARBORN IS BURIED AT 95

Funeral services for Mrs. Georgia Lahman, said to be the second white child born at Fort Dearborn, were held yesterday at ther home in Wiota, Ia. She died on Saturday. She was 95 years old. Burial was at Wiota.

"Auntie" Lahman had not returned to Chicago since she left it as a pioneer town 75 years ago. She had, however, made plans to return during the Century of Progress as a guest of the World's Fair committee, to view the replica of Fort Dearborn.

Though a tiny woman weighing less than 100 pounds, "Auntie" Lahman boarded teachers, ministers, and others coming to Wiota until two years ago. She was famous for her culinary art and her stories of early Chicago.

Mrs. Lahman was the daughter of Capt. Joseph Baxley who commanded Fort Dearborn. She was born on Sept. 15, 1836. After her father's death she moved with her mother and sister, Mrs. J. W. Brooks of Salt Lake City, to Ogle county, Illinois, later going to Panora, Ia. She married Van Lahman in 1856.

In addition to her sister, she is survived by a nephew, Maj. Gen. Charles Salzman, chief of the U. S. signal corps, Washington, six grandchildren, and seven great grandchildren.

Urbana, Ill., May 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Agnes Chase, mother of Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, who was inaugurated president of the University of Illinois last Friday, died of heart disease at her son's home today.

She had been ill for eleven days, but rallied enough to allow the academic ceremony of last Friday, at which her son was honored by representatives of 250 colleges, to proceed. Mrs. Chase followed the program through a special radio hookup. She then grew worse and died at 5 a. m. today.

A second son, Arthur S. Chase of Glenn Springs, S. C., survives her.

Simple services for Mrs. Chase will be held tomorrow morning. Her body will then be sent to her former home of Georgetown, Mass., for services Thursday afternoon. Burial will be in the family ground at Groveland, five miles away, the home of her husband, Charles Merrill Chase, whom she survived several years.

INDICT PASTORS ON CHARGE THEY FLOGGED DRINKER

Sheriff Says He'll Pay Fines, if Imposed.

Mena, Ark., May 4.—(AP)—Two ministers were under indictment here today for flogging a man they accused of disregarding their warning to keep sober while the Red Cross fed his family last winter.

Sheriff John E. Joplin said if they were convicted and fined he would raise the money to pay the fines.

"I think it was a Christian act," he said.

The ministers, the Rev. Sid Wise and the Rev. P. R. Larimore, of the Apostolic faith, have not been arrested. Mr. Wise, who is said by the sheriff to have whipped Bud Ralls last month, is in New Mexico holding a revival meeting. Before leaving here, however, he told officers if he were indicted he would return to face the charge. Mr. Larimore was permitted to remain at liberty on his own recognizance.

Trial Set for October.

The ministers admitted the flogging, Sheriff Joplin said, and he added their act appeared to have the approval of residents of the community.

Mr. Wise was said by the sheriff to have warned Ralls if he went home intoxicated again the minister would whip him.

One Friday in April Mr. Wise accompanied Ralls to Mena to get supplies for his family. The following Sunday the sheriff said he was informed Ralls went home intoxicated and abused his family, whereupon Mr. Wise and Mr. Larimore administered the whipping.

Wields Big Switch.

"Wise did the whipping with a big switch while Larimore looked on and saw it was well done," the sheriff said.

Ralls did not file charges against the men, but reports to the prosecuting attorney led him to take the case before the grand jury.

"I understand Ralls has stayed sober since," Sheriff Joplin said.

'PENNSY' SUNDAY BASEBALL LOSES BY ONLY 3 VOTES

Harrisburg, Pa., May 4.—[Special.]—The drive for Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania received a setback tonight when the Schwartz bill, designed to legalize the game on Sunday afternoons, contrary to the provisions of the "blue laws" of 1794, was defeated in the house. The vote was 102 to 101, three votes short of the necessary constitutional majority of 105.

Although defeated, adherents of the measure refused to give up hope and declared the fight would go on in the present session of the legislature.

The battle over modification of the 137 year old law found the house galleries jammed in anticipation of tonight's debate and vote. Scores of seats were placed behind the legislators' desks to accommodate friends, and all aisles were crowded.

ASKS PRISON FOR OLD CRIME SO HE CAN GET FOOD

Alfred S. Purssell, 52 years old, a wanderer, went into the Central district police station last night and asked that he be locked up on a charge of committing a technical crime thirty-four years ago.

"I was sent to the penitentiary in 1896 for burglary," he said. "I came out on parole in 1897. After that I never reported back to the parole agents.

"I fought in the Spanish war—went to Cuba. In 1917 I went to France and fought there. I was wounded. The wounds are bothering me and I can't find a job. Can't you send me back to the penitentiary for violating parole, so I can have a place to sleep and something to eat?"

The police kept him overnight, but there was no record of Purssell at the bureau of identification. Unless the state parole office can find some authority today to hold him his request to have his freedom taken away will be refused.

DEMOCRATS CALL TAMMANY QUIZ ONE-MAN AFFAIR

Virtually Bolt "Private" Hearing by Seabury.

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—The city-wide Tammany investigation saw its first fireworks today. The explosions came from several directions and the Democratic members of the legislative committee virtually bolted the inquiry itself.

Senators John J. McNaboe and John J. Dunnigan, Democratic ex-officio members of the committee, let fire at Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter, Republican committee chairman. And Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier came in with his own share of attack on the way the investigation now is being conducted.

Charge Violation of Faith.

Both Senators McNaboe and Dunnigan charged that Senator Hofstadter had broken faith with his own committee and declared that by issuing a subpoena for Commissioner of Accounts Higgins he was attempting to make it a one man investigation. They declared that they would withhold cooperation from the activities of Samuel Seabury, counsel.

Senator McNaboe accused Senator Hofstadter of violating an arrangement and betraying a confidence made by him with the committee. The senator further asserted that "this is not a one-man committee," and that the $500,000 allotted for the investigation is for "constructive legislative work and not for a Republican campaign fund."

Not in State's Jurisdiction.

In his statement Senator Dunnigan said that the adoption of a resolution which provided for private hearings where one member of the committee could take testimony privately and where the witness was to be examined is outside the jurisdiction of the state of New York. The senator asserted that there is no justification for even the suggestion of private hearings.

The Democrats are prepared, it is said, to appeal to the courts if the reported plan of Senator Hofstadter and Mr. Seabury is carried out. This plan would allow Mr. Hofstadter to sit in the private hearings as the only member of a subcommittee of the committee.

FIND MAN CLAIMING RARE DISEASE HAS 2 SETS OF KIDNEYS

Cleveland, O., May 4.—(AP)—An extra set of kidneys has been discovered in the body of Ralph Thurber, shell shocked world war veteran, at the City hospital, where he gained admission after he told attendants he was suffering from distomiasis, a tropical disease uncommon in this country.

Hospital physicians said today that the X-ray located a normal pair of kidneys on his right side and another on his left. Double kidneys, the physicians said, are rare, there having been only six previous cases on record here.

On entering the hospital Thurber told the attachés he had been a missionary in Corea and had contracted the disease there. It was found later he had not been a missionary and that he had a criminal record. Hospital attachés are now uncertain whether he had distomiasis.

CHICAGO TO WELCOME FRENCH FIGHTERS THURSDAY

LINER ARRIVES TOMORROW AT NEW YORK DOCK

Dardell, Sirutis to Join Party.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The liner France, carrying the French amateur boxers to America for their bouts in Chicago May 12, will dock at quarantine, New York, tomorrow morning, according to advice received yesterday by wireless. The French champions will arrive at Union station, Chicago, Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

The France was delayed at sea and cannot reach New York before late tonight. Consequently, it was decided to reduce speed so that the boxers might arrive tomorrow morning and thus facilitate the plans for the New York reception committee.

Pick Up Intercity Champions.

The French team and members of the party probably will be taken off the France by the Macom, official New York welcoming boat, at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and then paraded through lower New York. Following luncheon at the Hotel Pennsylvania, the group, which then will include Phil Dardell and Yustin Sirutis, New York intercity Golden Gloves champions, will leave at 3 o'clock on the Broadway Limited.

Representatives of the French government, the Chicago Golden Gloves team, and city officials will greet the boarders Thursday at Union station. The athletes will be escorted to the city hall, where Mayor Anton J. Cermak will welcome them officially.

All of the 21,000 reserved seats for the international bouts May 12 at Soldiers' field have been sold except a thousand $1 tickets. However, if the weather permits, 100,000 general admission tickets will be put on sale at 3 o'clock the afternoon of the fights. These tickets are priced at 50 cents each.

Good Seats for Half-Dollar.

General admission includes all of the permanent seats in Soldiers' field. The first 50,000 will have excellent locations on the east and west sides of the concrete stands, many of them being as close as 140 feet from the ring, with the added advantage of elevation.

The reserved tickets will be mailed today. Each has stamped on it a double location. On the back is the number of the seat at Soldiers' field, while the face of the ticket calls for a seat at the Chicago Stadium, where the bouts will be held in event of cold or rainy weather.

Chicago's international team continued preparation yesterday at the Illinois Athletic club. Eleven of the 14 boys—champions and alternates—are on hand, and the entire group will be assembled before the end of the week.

Boxing was eliminated from the afternoon session yesterday. The coaches sent the boys on the road in the morning and then after lunch had them working out in the gymnasium. Several rounds of shadow boxing and skipping the rope sent the boys to the showers and the rubbing table well advanced on the road to condition. Six days of boxing, starting this afternoon, are on the program.

Plan to Handle Traffic.

Representatives of the cab companies, surface lines, rapid transit company, south park police and city police met yesterday in the offices of the Stadium. Preliminary plans were made for handling the crowd May 12. These will be perfected within a few days and traffic regulations for that night will be printed in THE TRIBUNE.

More than 20 ticket booths, several with two sellers in each of them, will be used May 12 so there will be no delay in handling general admission requests.

With assurance that the show will be sold out if it is necessary to hold the international fights in the Chicago stadium, fans yesterday were hoping for warm weather the night of the twelfth. This is the only hope thousands have that they will see the French amateur champions in action against America's best Golden Gloves boxers.

YOU CAN STILL SEE THE BIGGEST SHOW IN BOXING

If you haven't a ticket to the International Golden Gloves bouts between America and France at Soldiers' field on May 12 you still have a chance. Mail your orders with certified checks to Ticket Manager, Golden Gloves tournament, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. The price is $2. All $2 and $3 seats are sold.

There will be 100,000 general admission seats placed on sale the day of the bouts at 50 cents each. You can avoid congestion at the gates by ordering a reserved seat today.

LEWIS THROWN, THEN BITES FOE; SHORN OF TITLE

MONTREAL, May 4.—(AP)—Henri Deglane, 220 pound wrestler, was declared champion of the world by the Montreal athletic commission tonight after taking a fall from Ed (Strangler) Lewis of Los Angeles and then being fouled. Lewis was disqualified for biting Deglane's wrist.

For 32 minutes the men battled on comparatively even terms. Throughout this period Lewis forced the pace and at the 32 minute mark secured three headlocks that left Deglane apparently groggy. The situation was reversed in a twinkling when Deglane threw Lewis with a flying mare and held the Strangler's shoulders to the mat.

Sandow Ushered Out.

Referee Tremblay signified the fall. Sandow protested the fall was a rolling one and that Deglane had failed to hold Lewis down for the necessary three seconds. Sandow refused to leave the ring. Finally Dr. Gaston Demers, chairman of the athletic commission, entered the ring, pointed out to Sandow that he had no license, and instructed a squad of policemen to take him to the dressing room.

During the intermission the commission considered Sandow's protest and threw it out. After a short interval the match was resumed.

Lewis Gets Fall on Foul.

They wrestled for nine minutes. Then Lewis, to escape a hold of Deglane's, grasped the ropes. Deglane tried to pull Lewis back and attempted a headlock. There was a confused tangle and Deglane was found underneath Lewis with his shoulders pinned to the mat. Referee Tremblay awarded Lewis the fall, and he scrambled up, a broad grin covering his face, and went to his corner.

Deglane rose to his feet, holding his right arm. The referee examined the wrist and conferred with two members of the commission. It was then announced that Lewis had bitten Deglane when the Frenchman tried to get a headlock and that as a result Lewis had been disqualified and Deglane had been declared the winner.

Deglane's wrist was examined by five doctors associated with the local athletic commission, who were unanimous in agreeing that Deglane had been severely bitten.

Helen Moody May Defend Wimbledon Tennis Title

LONDON, England, May 4.—(AP)—Maj. D. R. Larcombe, secretary of the All-England Tennis club, today received a letter from Mrs. Helen Wills Moody of Berkeley, Cal., indicating she may come to England for the Wimbledon tennis championships to defend the title she has held since 1927. Mrs. Moody previously had announced her intention of playing only in tournaments in the United States this year.

French Boxers Meet Some Wild Waves; Lose Decision

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD S. S. FRANCE, May 4.—The French team of Golden Gloves fighters almost unanimously imitated Fainting Philip Scott, the human horizontal line, today when the good ship France encountered a bad stretch where the sea was apparently under repair.

Dr. Charles Sebenq visited his patients' in their staterooms, but found nothing wrong which a few hours ashore could not cure. Anyway, smoother going developed around noon time, and the boxers began to falter out into the air, somewhat greenish, but convalescing rapidly. By lunch time eight of the ten were able to make the dining room and confront nourishment. However, little Andre Perrier, flyweight, remained disinterested in victuals and spent much of the time clutching the rail and staring glassy-eyed into the sea.

Keeps Medicine Locked Up.

Dr Sebenq carries a large supply of his own medicines, including something supposed to relieve sea sickness, but he refrained from administering any of the same on the ground that it takes about four days to recover from the effects of the medicine, whereas the ship docks within a couple of days, anyway.

Young Mr. Elyaschewsky of Paris seems to be the most sophisticated and prosperous of the boys. His father emigrated from Minsk, Russia, 30 years ago. Settling in Paris he started a wooden leg factory in time for the war trade. Young Elyas, as the name is now spelled, is studying a business course at Sorbonne university with a view of becoming a wooden leg magnate himself in time. Elyas says that the war was a great stimulant to the wooden leg business.

"But," he said, "for a good, steady business, there is nothing so reliable as the automobile." Elyas speaks some English and has a sentimental interest in Cleveland, O., as he has a motorcycle which was manufactured there and which he calls his favorite charger.

An Evil Plot Miscarries.

An evil plot miscarried this morning during the rough weather period, when certain characters, who shall be nameless, gathered outside the window of M. Fernand Cuny, the coach, and loudly discussed topics calculated to be obnoxious to a person of delicate appetite.

"My favorite drink when I am seasick," one voice said, "is cold coffee mixed with stale beer."

"No, give me rye whisky and cold tea," another voice said, and so forth for a half hour until it developed that M. Cuny had been up and gone about his work for a couple of hours.

Aside from an early squeamishness due to bouncing on the corduroy sea, the entire fight club will arrive at New York in good shape and apparently close to desired weights.

The young men are sleeping in airy first class staterooms slightly forward, and all within a few steps of the roomy gymnasium which includes several head of Coolidge broncos, or electric rocking horses. Until today the whole troupe worked there every morning, principally at calisthenics, followed by rubdowns and doctor's inspection. But weather upset the whole routine and nobody trained today.

C. D. G. A. NAMES HONOR ROLL FOR COMING SEASON

The Chicago District Golf association last night announced its 1931 honor roll. The list consists of ten players whose records prompted the handicap committee to consider them standouts among local golfers.

Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge, and Chick Evans of Edgewater were placed at the top, and they will play from scratch in the coming season's invitational tournaments.

The other seven are: Charles J Becka of Calumet, Ira L. Couch of Glen View, George Dawson of Glen Oak, Rudy Knepper of Onwentsia, Richard Martin of Briargate, Gus Novotny of Edgewood Valley, and Robert A. Gardner of Onwentsia. Their handicaps will be announced in a few days.

Lehman won the Western Amateur championship last season and the Western conference title several years ago while attending Purdue. Jack Westland wears the Chicago district crown for the second time and in addition has been French Amateur champion. Chick Evans took the Western Amateur title eight times, the National Amateur twice and the National Open once.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 4.—The White Sox are still subject to the shakes, or whatever it is that causes errors. Hal McKain, an expert in the art of rescuing, also continues to believe that starting a game involves some particular hazard. Both the shakes and Hal's complex were functioning perfectly today so the Chicagoans had to accept the short end of the series opener with the Tigers. The score was 9 to 3.

The chief disturbance was another big inning such as smothered the Sox and broke their winning streak the day previous. This time it happened in the second when five runs, four of them unearned, slipped over the plate and completely erased a two run lead the Chicagoans had constructed in the first inning.

Once in arrears the Sox were unable to come back, the principal reason being that Waite Hoyt, the Brooklyn mortician, would permit no liberties. After the opening inning he surrendered only six hits, most of them widely scattered. He also profited by scintillating support in the last eight innings.

Appling Makes Two Errors.

Responsibility for letting the Tigers break loose in the second rested with Luke Appling and Bob Fothergill. For no apparent reason, fat Bob dropped a fly ball. Had he caught it the inning would have netted only one run. A moment later Appling perpetrated a wild peg whereupon somebody hit for extra bases. Luke also kicked a grounder later in the struggle but it proved harmless. He now owns six errors in his last three games and the Sox as a team have been guilty of 13 in the same engagements.

Blue's single past the ponderous Alexander started the Sox on the road to a pair of runs in the first inning. Simons lined to center but Fothergill singled to left and Stone booted the ball. This permitted Blue to dash to third and Fothergill to second. A pop up to Alexander shattered Cissell's ambitions. Watwood did better. He banged a single into center, Blue and Fothergill crossing the plate. H. Walker's return throw was so robust that it cleared the catcher's head allowing Watwood to go to second. He died there when Appling lined to Alexander.

Tigers Score Five.

The provoking antics by which the Sox presented the Tigers with five runs in the second began with Stone's single after one was out, McManus walked and Watwood managed to make a successful dash for Owen's wicked liner. Hayworth got a doubtful single through Appling and Stone scored. Then the Chicagoans began their charitable work. Fothergill did another swan dive on Hoyt's fly but lost the ball, McManus counting.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

SLAPPING OUR CUBS.

THOSE champion St. Louis Cards slapped our Cubs for three straight defeats in a row. That feat further injured local pride, for the Cards so far have proved the one team that Hornsby's outfit just can't beat, unless you consider one victory in six attempts as accomplishing something.

Falling back on the timeworn consolation that the season is yet young, one must admit, however, that games won and lost in April and May count just as much in the percentage column as those won or lost in August and September. But somehow they do not seem so important.

The Wake never has seen this pennant struggle other than as a keen contest with Cub chances nearly on an equality with at least two others. From an outsider's viewpoint, the Cards are logical favorites.

The Cubs are just the kind of team that could win the flag, if all the veterans keep their form. If any of the aging arms and legs went bad, or even several pairs of them, such a team might "break"—not quit—and finish in what fans would call a poor position.

To our notion, however, we'd just as soon be in third position at this stage as in first place—except for the ignominy of having St. Louis place us there. That is because, as mentioned before, all rivals "bear down" harder against the leaders, especially if the leaders already are champions of the preceding year. Of course, the leaders can do some "bearing down" themselves, but not against every one all the time. Evidently they did just that thing against the Cubs.

BASS FRACTURES MACK'S JAW BY KNOCKOUT BLOW

Philadelphia, Pa., May 4.—(AP)—Benny Bass, junior lightweight champion, scored a knockout over Eddie Mack, Denver, Colo., in the third round of the ten round windup tonight at the Arena. Bass, whose title was not at stake, weighed 131 pounds, Mack 134½.

As Mack struggled on the canvas after Bass had nailed him with a left and then a right to the chin, ringside fans shouted, "His jaw is broken." Mack was counted out by the referee and Dr. A. Baron, club physician, called into the ring. After an examination he said the Denver boxer had received a compound fracture of the lower jaw on the right side.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Dear old Cincinnati Reds of 1931 They came to town yesterday bearing gifts and comfort. What balm for hides lacerated in St. Louis. What ambrosia for parched Adam's apples. What elixir to invigorate wilting souls. The Cubs beat the Reds, 13 to 1, and St. Louis, for the nonce, is forgotten.

Our Cubs arrived home from the Mississippi wars early yesterday morning, and even though they knew the Reds were waiting their pleasure, they were low in spirit, very low, until they saw the ridiculous gift bearers going through their batting practice, a routine which is a mere mockery incidentally.

Pat Malone was the first to become lion hearted upon viewing the perfectly futile drill of the Reds. Breathless, he ran to Manager Hornsby and told the boss that the thumb soreness which had kept him out of the Cardinal series, at his own suggestion, had disappeared completely.

Malone Does Well.

And sure enough the sore thumb had healed during the night ride from St. Louis. Pat pitched a fine game—had a four hit shutout up till the ninth, when Durocher made a single and scored on Pinch Batter Crabtree's triple, the only extra base hit Pat allowed.

If one hadn't seen the Cubs perform the three previous days against the league champions, it would be the easiest thing in the world to emit nine rahs and a tiger for the whole team. Didn't Lester Bell make his first homer of the year? Didn't Hack Wilson knock his second homer of the season and his first at Wrigley field? Didn't Kiki Cuyler make three hits, two runs, and steal a base? Didn't Rogers Hornsby made three hits in a row?

Poor Riggs Stephenson, long the old reliable of the Cub outfit, was the only one of the regulars who got no salve for his St. Louis wounds. Stevie batted .000 in the St. Louis series and he remained consistent yesterday. He batted .000, but got two bases on balls in five trips to the plate and scored a run. In fact, everybody in the starting lineup scored at least one run except Hartnett, who hit a double and a single, and every starter got at least one hit except Stevie and Charley Grimm.

The fact that the Cubs were leading 13 to 0 at the end of the seventh caused Manager Hornsby to relent and give the fans their first look at Bill Jurges, the sensational but heretofore idle young infielder who per-

SENATORS MAKE IT 21 OUT OF 26 FROM YANKS, 7-3

Ruth Plays First Base and Hits Two Singles.

New York, May 4.—(AP)—The Washington Senators again cast their spell over the New York Yankees, winning today's game, 7 to 3. The victory was the Senators' 21st triumph in the last 26 games played with the Yanks.

One big inning, the sixth, in which five runs crossed the plate, put the game away for the Senators. The Yankees got to Sam Jones for 11 hits, but they were well spaced.

Babe Ruth, playing first base to keep his injured leg as free as possible from strain, hit two singles in four times at bat. Lou Gehrig was shifted to right field, the Babe's usual position. Score:

Sox Errors Give Tigers 9-3 Victory

Johnson's grounder went to Appling who pegged wild to Cissell, Hayworth scoring. Then H. Walker tripled Hoyt and Johnson across.

McKain was captured by the charity bug in the fourth and the upshot was two more runs for the home crowd. McManus pried open the round with a triple down into the right field corner. This seemed to annoy McKain to such extent that he passed both Owen and Hayworth, filling the bags. Hoyt obliged by popping out and Johnson bounced into a forced out at second, but McManus scored on the play. Then H. Walker scratched a slow hopping hit to Jeffries and this gave Owen opportunity to [illegible] home from third.

After ignoring a number of [illegible] scoring chances in the preceding innings the Chicagoans finally [illegible] up a run for themselves in the [illegible] Singles by Appling and Jeffries [illegible] Tate's infield out did this. The [illegible] was given back to the Tigers in the home half. Owen singled, [illegible] second on an out and to third on [illegible] McKain pegged wild trying to [illegible] him off the middle bag. He [illegible] a dinky hit propelled past Appling [illegible] Hoyt's bat.

Before concluding their day's [illegible] chief, the Detroiters finished [illegible] for another run in the seventh. [illegible] one gone Alexander, the league's [illegible] batter, who has been denied the [illegible] ure of all except one safe hit [illegible] last three days, was handed a [illegible] solation base on balls. Simons [illegible] drove a liner to the corner of [illegible] bleacher in right and it was [illegible] a couple feet of going over. By the [illegible] time Watwood could hurl it into [illegible] the infield, Alexander was home. [illegible] Stone on third where he died.

Vic Frasier and Tom Bridges, [illegible] the rookie class, will pitch the [illegible] end of the series tomorrow.

COME ON COMES ON IN STRETCH; WINS AT AURORA

Defeats Celtic Prince in Batavia Purse.

[RACE RESULTS ON FOLLOWING PAGE.]

"Come on, Come On! Come On." And Come On came on.

This isn't a tongue twister, nor is it a Chinese puzzle. It is merely a report of what was heard at the Aurora race track yesterday while the Batavia purse, the feature race at a mile and 70 yards, reached a climax during the run in the stretch.

For a horse called Come On, quite a sensation at New Orleans last winter, was coming on, charging down on the outside like a fast express train, getting to the early leader, Celtic Prince, at every stride. And he had been stoutly backed by most of those in the Ladies' Day crowd of 12,000.

He wound up by whipping Celtic Prince soundly a sixteenth of a mile from the finish line, and he went on to win by two and one half lengths. When Come On whipped Celtic Prince he did a good job of it. Play Fellow's Dream rushed on up and beat Celtic Prince out of second money.

Come On has been doing the same thing to Celtic Prince and a lot of other top notch selling platers since last winter. In the betting he paid $9.74. He ran his mile and 70 yards in 1:44 2-5, not a fast race, but plenty fast enough to trim those who trailed him.

Princeton, from the stable of Mrs. Ray Pollard of Texas, isn't what he used to be or he wouldn't have let the $2,200 selling plater, La Belotte, give him a sound thumping at five and a half furlongs, the dash which came second on yesterday's program.

As usual, Princeton was the favorite, but his connections were not confident, for his price drifted up from 4 to 5 to 8 to 5. He showed his old flash of early speed, and then ran out at the head of the stretch. What a sad story for those who held tickets on Princeton. How easy it is for some good horses to run out at the head of the stretch. Never heard of Princeton running out before.

Jockey L. Fage, who rode La Belotte, is a plucky kid. He went down in a mean looking spill in the third race on Saturday. He appeared at the track yesterday with his head in a bandage. The doctor advised him not to ride. But he wanted some action, so he climbed into the saddle. Surely the fall didn't take away his nerve. He stormed right through a bunch of horses to grab the rail after Princeton had run out. Fage was a bellhop in a San Diego hotel before he started galloping horses around the race tracks.

Tom Nash, the son of Pat Nash, who has branched out into racing in his own name, uncovered a nice looking colt in Iskum, in the Aurora 2-year-old race. Young Nash might have been sending him out a bit sheepy when he let him run to be claimed for $2,500.

Baby Bane, a winner on the west coast this spring, shot out into a lead four lengths on the turn. It looked like the race was all over except for the shouting and the collecting.

But it wasn't over, by any means. A bay streak started charging down the middle of the track. It was Iskum, and he wore down Baby Bane a sixteenth from home to win as his rider, R. Heigle, pleased. The Pacific coast flash was helpless before his final rush. Baby Bane had been the short priced favorite and Iskum was the second choice, paying $7.44 to win. It wasn't the speed he showed, but the way he ran in the stretch, that made Iskum look like a good colt.

Thousands See Wild Life at Outdoor Show

Presenting a menagerie of wild animals, including timber wolves and beavers, and vacation attractions of many parts of the United States, the annual Outdoor Life exposition played host yesterday to thousands of outdoor fans who inspected the dozens of exhibits in the Coliseum between noon and 10:30 in the evening. The exposition will continue through Saturday night.

Practically every item in which the camper, canoeist, fisherman, boat enthusiast or hunter is interested is on exposition at this show. Speed boats, outboard motors and a new non-electrical starting device for them, camp lighting systems, outdoor clothing and dozens of other equipment items have been assembled in booths against a balsam and spruce tree background.

Log Rolling Exhibitions.

Among the outstanding entertainment features of the exposition are log rolling contests featuring Agnes Hare, 17 year old girl from Washburn, Wis., and wood carving exhibitions by Charles Vollrath of Chalk river, Ontario. A large tank has been constructed at the north end of the Coliseum for the log rolling contests which are held afternoons and evenings.

The state of Michigan has installed a wild life exhibit, part of which is virtually a rogue's gallery for the sportsmen because the animal cages contain most of the game destroying "villains" which are found in that state. Heading the list of these wild animal rogues assembled by the department of conservation is a giant timber wolf. Keeping him company are a live bobcat, red fox, raccoon, and other forest inhabitants from the Wolverine state. Albino trout, rarely seen by a fishermen in a stream, also are a part of the big Michigan display.

Show Miniature Playgrounds.

Dozens of vacation lands in Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Canada, and the west are in the show with elaborate booths featuring numerous mounted specimens of wild animals and fish from their territories. As part of the Minnesota exhibit visitors can see a miniature of a forest, lake, and stream playgrounds built by state foresters, including even a miniature fire tower and growing trees 18 inches high.

A small village of Indians, with tepees and workshop demonstrating how buckskin is made, and a pen of sleepy porcupines from the north woods have been installed among the vacation exhibits to further lend an outdor atmosphere to the show.

DERBY CANDIDATES

The Latest Flash on the 3-Year-Olds Which Will Battle for Kentucky's Famous Turf Prize on May 16.

—BY FRENCH LANE—

UP.

Trainer, W. M. Buck.

This colt was shipped all the way from California to Kentucky to fight for the Derby prize. Out west he was a big shot, having won the Agua Caliente Derby.

When he lined up with other leading western Derby contenders a few days ago at Churchill Downs he didn't seem to know which way to run. He finished last, some 20 lengths behind Pittsburgher, the winner. He was at equal weights with Pittsburgher and the other nine who led him home.

You can't give a colt that runs that kind of a race so near Derby day a chance to win the Derby. He's 200 to 1 in the future betting and ought to be 2,000 to 1. One of our best handicapper friends who likes to shoot at the long shots just sent in a note that he wouldn't accept a ticket on Up as a Christmas present.

Early in the spring of 1930, when Equipoise, Siskin, Vander Pool, and other good juveniles of that time were making their reputations, Up was running right along with them. Then he was bought by California people and did nobly at Agua Caliente when he won the Derby.

But his first race at Churchill Downs indicates that he didn't beat much in the Agua Caliente Derby. He won't win the Kentucky Derby unless a lot of good 3 year olds are hit by a lightning bolt and fall down.

STEELE PAIRED WITH CLINKSTOCK ON FRONTON CARD

Ray Steel of California has been paired with Jim Clinkstock, tall Indian from Oklahoma, in one of the five matches comprising Promoter Doc Krone's heavyweight card at the Rainbo Fronton May 14.

The main event will be a rematch between George Zaharias and Frank Bronowicz. Bronowicz defeated big George in a 30 minute decision battle recently at the Chicago Stadium. Frank has won ten matches here since last December without losing one.

Steele stayed with Jim Londos for an hour and 23 minutes in Madison Square Garden last week before he was thrown. Clinkstock will have a weight advantage of 40 pounds and Zaharias will carry the same edge over Bronowicz.

Baer to Battle Risko at Cleveland Tonight

Cleveland, O., May 4.—(AP)—Max Baer, Los Angeles heavyweight, tonight ruled a slight favorite to win his ten round bout here tomorrow night against Johnny Risko, the durable Clevelander. The Californian expects to weigh 203 pounds against Risko's 192.

Trout Anglers Wade Northern Streams as 1931 Season Opens

BY BOB BECKER.

Argonne National Forest, Three Lakes, Wis., May 4.—A small, open decked putt-putt car, running on a narrow gauge logging railroad, has wound its way through the timber and past gleaming, untenanted lakes to drop us near the head waters of the Brule river. Here northeast of Butternut lake, in the virgin timber, the trout season opened cold and stormy for both fish and anglers.

As usually happens around May 1, the weatherman plays a prominent, if not a welcome part in the opening day jubilee although the fishermen would prefer to have this gentleman take a back seat and let the brook trout occupy the spotlight. Two years ago we recall fishing in a blizzard the first week in May in order to stow a nice mess of trout in our creel.

Rain Turns to Snow.

By way of making the program a little more diverting this season the weatherman started out with a rainstorm that drove us to take shelter under canoes, turned the rain into hail, and followed twelve hours later with a pretty good imitation of a snowstorm. Inasmuch as the dyed-in-the-wool trout fisherman will not give up as long as he is able to stand or sit in a canoe the members of our fishing party displayed a lot of red, numbed fingers, blue noses and almost frozen toes around the roaring fire which greeted us when we came trailing into camp after a morning's sport on the stream.

The ride into this virgin timber camp was a fitting stage set for the day's sport, Jack Mylrea provided the motorized section car and driver for our trip of twenty miles through the woods. Muffled in a sheep skin coat we sat on the top deck of the little car as it bounced over the narrow gauge through the wilderness which Uncle Sam now is turning into a national forest.

Pass Grouse and Deer.

Our wheezy, coughing "special" flushed grouse near the right of way, slipped past fairly open cut-over country where the ground was white with frost, angled northward near several small lakes, startled five deer which were feeding close to the iron trail, and finally entered the virgin timber where towering hemlocks, thick-trunked hard maples and big bass-woods and elms combined to form a wilderness background for camp and the fishing.

But camp was deserted [except for Jack and the cook] when we arrived. All had turned out at 4 o'clock to march in holiday attire [including gay colored lumberjack coats and waders] to the trout stream. There we joined this trout rodeo and the first red spotted fontinalis to plop into our creel was secured with the aid of a colony of beavers. The animals left some of their cuttings in the stream. We snagged a ten incher from among the small poplar logs which originally served to furnish the beavers with a meal.

CHICAGO FANS PLAN TO HONOR JOE M'CARTHY

Joe McCarthy, former manager of the Cubs, will return to Chicago with his New York Yankees and will be honored at Comiskey park Friday when the Yankees open a four game series with the White Sox.

Before the game, flowers and gifts will be presented to McCarthy. In the evening, a dinner will be held at the Midland club. Peter J. Angsten, chairman of the McCarthy day celebration committee, last night said several hundred will attend the banquet.

CLEVELAND MAY NOT HOLD HEAVY TITLE BATTLE

Cleveland, O., May 4.—(AP)—Possibility that the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling boxing match for the world heavyweight championship may not be held here was hinted today by City Manager Daniel E. Morgan.

During discussions in the city council finance committee on a proposal to waive the usual 6 per cent of the gate demanded by the boxing commission in favor of a flat guarantee of $5,000, a councilman protested that the city's cut should be 10 per cent of the revenues, or, in lieu of that, a $20,000 guarantee for use of the new municipal stadium, plus the 6 per cent cut.

Manager Morgan called attention to the fact that no contract has been signed as yet, despite the announcement of the bout for the night of July 3.

Stadium Seeks to Match Thompson and YoungCorbett

An effort is being made by the Chicago Stadium to match Young Jack Thompson, welterweight champion, with Young Corbett, coast fighter, in a title match later this month or early in June. Present negotiations, however, have been hampered by a counter bid from Los Angeles promoters and by the insistence of Bucky Lawless that he be given the title chance.

Lawless, in the city training for his bout with Thompson Friday night, claims he is entitled to the title chance, particularly if he defeats the welter king at the Stadium Friday. He is willing to meet Corbett in an elimination contest on the coast, but in the event that he should win such a bout he wishes to meet Thompson for the title in the Stadium.

Thompson, in the meantime, is not overly anxious to risk his title against either of these men. His good showing against Jimmy McLarnin last fall and McLarnin's subsequent inactivity has decided Jack that he would rather risk the crown against Jimmy.

Efforts on the part of Nate Lewis to do business with McLarnin failed yesterday when Pop Foster, his manager, declared he would not make any promises or consider any other bout until after the Billy Petrolle fight, scheduled for New York later this month.

Lawless stepped through four rounds at Mullens' gym again yesterday, boxing against middleweights.

The other half of Friday's program will bring together King Levinsky and Emmett Rocco, the Pennsylvania Italian heavyweight. Levinsky has been showing to advantage in his daily workouts at Howard's Arcade, but Rocco, who will arrive today, is expected to be too cagey for the impetuous fisherman.

Lewis was advised yesterday that Max Schmeling, the world heavyweight champion, who will appear on the card in a four round exhibition, would arrive here Friday morning. It was expected that Schmeling would come earlier in the week, but he is booked for an exhibition at Flint, Mich., on Thursday night.

Cubs Defeat Reds, 13 to 1; Hit 2 Homers

formed so brilliantly in spring training up till the opening of the season. The first play after Bill got in the game was a grounder which gave the youthful star a chance to display his rifle arm.

The same teams this afternoon will play the second of their four game series and Manager Hornsby announced he plans to employ Lester Sweetland. Frey, ever effective against the Cubs, is the probable choice of Manager Dan Howley.

Bell Knocks Homer.

For a time it seemed that the 6,000 customers might be surprised by a flash of class on the part of the Reds. At the end of the third inning the score was 0 to 0 and at the end of the fourth it was 1 to 0 in favor of the Cubs, the Cub end having been produced when Bell knocked the ball over the left field wall after two were out.

But in the fifth the contest started to fall apart. The Cubs made four runs in the fifth, three in the sixth and five in the seventh. They did not score in the eighth and it was the only inning in which the Cubs didn't make at least one hit.

The four runs in the fifth were scored after two were out. They were made on a double by Malone, singles by Hornsby and Wilson, a walk to Stephenson, a single by Hartnett, and an error by Ford, the error being one of the four committed by the Reds. What proved to be the winning run was the one scored by Malone, who came in on the second of Hornsby's row of singles.

The Reds made only two hits off Malone in the first five innings and both of these were knocked by Cliff Heathcote, for many years a Cub favorite, who played right field. Roettger and Sukeforth made singles in the sixth to bring the total to four, a tabulation which prevailed until the aforementioned Durocher single and Crabtree triple were propelled in the ninth.

During the afternoon unhappy Mr. Howley employed four pitchers, Carroll, Johnson, Wysong and Eckert, all said to be fine fellows and good to their folks.

PITCHER GREENFIELD SIGNED.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 4.—(AP)—Kent Greenfield, pitcher, recently given his unconditional release by the Louisville club of the American association, has been signed by Indianapolis, Manager Johnny Corridan announced here today.

PURPLE DEFEATS IOWA, 7-0; FYFE ALLOWS 2 HITS

Buck Fyfe, Northwestern's veteran pitcher, held Iowa to two scratch hits while his mates pounded out a 7 to 0 victory at Roycemore field in Evanston yesterday. The Hawks went hitless until the sixth when Mowry beat out a grounder to Oliphant. Reedquist made the other safe blow when he beat out a roller to short in the seventh.

The Wildcats got to Bush, Iowa starting pitcher, in the first inning when Schuett banged out a home run to left center. The Purple scored again in the second and third and sewed up the game in the fourth when four hits, two walks and a hit batsman accounted for four runs. Bush was relieved in this inning with one out and Stempal finished the game by holding the Purple sluggers powerless in the remaining innings.

Northwestern today will play Hosei university of Japan at Evanston. The Purple will resume its conference competition with two games with Minnesota at Minneapolis Friday and Saturday.

Mastro to Box Sparks at Louisville May 13

Earl Mastro, Chicago featherweight, will make his first ring start since last December when he meets Ward Sparks of Detroit in the main event of the boxing show at Louisville, Ky., on May 13.

Baltimore, Md., May 4.—(AP)—Several hundred horsemen and racing fans watched Equipoise, a favorite for the $50,000 Preakness at Pimlico Saturday and the Kentucky Derby at Louisville May 16, work a mile and a quarter in 2:11 today. Afterward his trainer passed the word the colt would start without fail in the Preakness.

Freddie Hopkins, the trainer, said the workout proved that last year's leading money winner had recovered fully from the attack of the kidney ailment blamed for his poor showing in his latest start at Havre de Grace.

The son of Pennant-Swinging will be given a public trial at a mile and an eighth between races Wednesday at Pimlico to demonstrate, Hopkins explained, that he was in good shape.

FACTORY MEN CITE GAINS IN EMPLOYMENT

Say Reduction Has Been Exaggerated.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The employment recession, which started about a year ago, not only has reached and passed the bottom stage, but now gives definite prospects of continued and permanent mend. Furthermore, there has been much exaggeration of the unemployment situation in the last few months and much unwarranted criticism of manufacturers on the score of reducing forces.

These facts are brought out by the National Association of Manufacturers as the result of a survey of industrial conditions throughout the country. A questionnaire was sent out to the 748 members of the association, representing large and small factories in twenty-three basic industries and employing nearly 500,000 persons.

Estimators Err, Is Claim.

"The figures show that the industries of the country—or at least a sufficiently large number to serve as a fairly true barometer—have made reductions of employés in numbers fr less than the general public has been led to believe," according to J. Lewis Benton, general secretary. "Some estimators, including government sources, have placed the unemployed as high as six and seven million. And the public has been given to understand that all of these have been dropped from the manufacturing industries alone. This is obviously incorrect.

"The government estimates the number of persons in all manufacturing as 10,000,000. Had six or seven million been dropped from the factories alone it would have meant a reduction of 60 to 70 per cent, and the factories would have been operating with only 30 to 40 per cent of their forces. This number would have been insufficient to supply even the reduced demand of the consuming public for necessities alone.

Hopeful Summer Aspect.

"These 748 companies in the spring of 1930 were employing 484,776 persons; in the spring of this year they are employing 404,638, a decrease of 80,134, or only 16.53 per cent. Moreover, 330 of these companies employed during the winter 28,694 more persons than needed to meet the demand. These figures give substantial proof that the leaders of industries, both large and small, have been doing their utmost to hold their employé personnel through the bad times and into better times that they are confident are certain to rebound. They also controvert many of the statements that they have cut off employés with reckless abandon.

"The summer has an even more hopeful aspect. Seventy-eight companies report that they will make additions to their pay rolls, these increases running from 5 to as high as 100 per cent. 603 companies report that they will make no further reductions of their working forces; while only 67 companies report that they may be compelled to make further retrenchment."

YEAR'S LARGEST SALES

Improvement in the mail order and chain store field is reflected in the monthly report of Montgomery Ward & Co. Sales for April totaled $20,558,449, the largest thus far this year. The fact that this total fell 13.53 per cent below the $23,776,430 of April, 1930, should be viewed in the light of lower commodity prices. Sales for the four months this year totaled $70,024,718, compared with $81,146,499 for the corresponding period last year, a decline of 13.70 per cent.

The Jewel Tea company reported sales at $1,088,498 for the four weeks ended April 18, compared with $1,257,767 for the parallel weeks in 1930, a decline of 13.46 per cent. Sales for the first 16 weeks of this year totaled $4,354,488, compared with $4,951,619 last year, a decline of 12.06 per cent.

The Kroger Grocery and Baking company reported sales of $20,812,012, a decrease of less than 1 per cent from the $20,933,158 from a year ago; while sales for the first 16 weeks of this year totaled $79,919,177, a decline of 2.85 per cent, but with 5,057 stores operated compared with 5,385 a year ago.

The National Bellas Hess company reported April sales at $3,307,361, compared with $3,549,813 a year ago, a decline of 6.83 per cent; while sales for the four months this year totaled $11,613,225, compared with $12,076,035 last year, a decrease of 3.83 per cent.

Business in Chicago is good

Wheat Prices Advance for the Sixth Straight Day

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

For the sixth straight day wheat prices were on the upgrade, and the advance yesterday was in the face of reports of scattered rain and snow in the Canadian northwest, where drought has prevailed for some time past and has caused a great deal of apprehension on the part of the trade both here and abroad.

The market was called upon to absorb some selling by Winnipeg, which had a holiday, but after a brief period of hesitancy prices turned upward, and the close was within a fraction of the top, with net gains of ⅛@¾c, with July, 64⅛@64¼c; September, 62¾@63¾c, and December, 67¼c. Old May was ⅛c higher at 81⅞@82c, while new May was 83¾c, the latter being ½c lower.

At the high point yesterday July showed 5¼c and September 4⅞c above the low of last week and the upturn has occurred despite the weakness in the stock market in New York and estimates of the fourth largest winter wheat crop on record. The speculative interest in the market on Monday was not large, and it responded quickly to any good buying or selling, fluctuating rather rapidly at times on relatively small orders.

Shorts Best Buyers.

Short covering was regarded as the main factor for Monday's advance, although there was a fair run of commission house buying at times. There was selling of July and buying of September by spreaders, which narrowed the spread around ¼c. Liverpool showed strength and closed ⅝@1⅛d higher. Only 400,000 bu Canadian was reported as having been sold during the day. There was some hard winter sold at Hamburg on the basis of 75c c. i. f.

With the exception of complaints of rank growth, there was nothing in the reports from the winter wheat belt to cause the believers in lower prices any uneasiness, but the rain and snow received in the Canadian northwest was regarded as too light to be of material benefit, and numerous reports of high winds and soil drifting were received from parts of the prairie provinces. The forecast suggested showers over night.

A decrease of 807,000 bu was shown in the visible supply, making the total 195,691,000 bu, against 132,858,000 bu last year. North American exports for the week showed an unexpected increase and aggregated 7,519,000 bu, due to liberal clearances from Montreal.

Corn Closes Higher.

Nearby deliveries of corn were under pressure early and prices averaged lower, while the December developed independent strength. Buying of the latter against sales of September credited to a local professional had some effect on the market and put the December to a smaller discount. Closing trades were ⅛@1¼c higher, with May, 56½c; July, 58⅜@58½c; September, 58¾@58⅝c, and December, 51⅝@51⅞c.

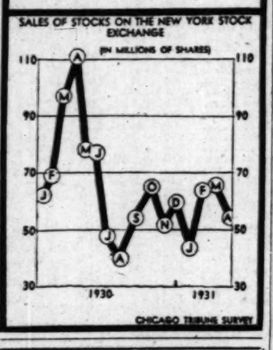
Owing to cool weather, planting of the new corn crop is making rather slow progress, although field work was reported as under way in Illinois. Country offerings were decidedly small, with nothing claimed as having been booked to arrive, while shipping sales were only 33,000 bu. Nat C. Murray estimated the acreage at 4.9 per cent larger than last year, which is about in line with the March returns giving farmers' intentions to plant.

Oats Show Strength.

Oats showed considerable strength, with cash houses on the buying side, and the close was ⅛@¾c higher, with May, 27c; July, 27¾c; September, 28⅛@28¾c, and December, 30⅜c. Basis in the sample market was steady to ½c higher, with No. 2 white 3@3½c over the May, the greatest premium in a number of months.

There was no material pressure on rye except for a brief period early, and with reports that some of the northwest acreage might be cut for hay or pastured, owing to unsatisfactory prices, sufficient buying developed to make the close 1@1⅜c higher, with May, 33½c; July, 36⅝c, and September, 38¼c. There was some inquiry for Canadian rye from abroad, but no sales were reported.

STOCK SALES IN THE PAST MONTH HAVE HELD WITHIN A NARROW RANGE



MARKET SLUMP CUTS INHERITANCE TAXES ON G. F. BAKER ESTATE

New York, May 4. — (AP) — Because George F. Baker died during the business depression, the federal government and the states in which he owned property stand to "lose" a fortune.

The amounts they will collect in inheritance taxes will be huge, but nowhere near as large as if he had passed away during the boom period of 1929.

Nobody knows—probably the dean of the nation's bankers didn't even know himself—how large his fortune is or was, so it was impossible today to estimate the amount of the taxes his estate will pay.

Guesses as to the wealth of the "third richest man in the country" ranged from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 and even higher. The federal government and New York state, in which Mr. Baker held the larger part of his fortune, take the fair market value on the day of death in levying taxes on securities.

At the height of the bull market Mr. Baker's 22,000 shares in the First National bank reached a paper valuation of $190,000,000. They are now quoted around $75,000,000. That shrinkage alone means a "loss" to New York state of something over $16,000,000. In this state the larger the estate the larger the tax rate. New York takes 16 per cent of the amount by which an estate exceeds $10,000,000.

Shortly after midday today the bid price for stock of First National bank had advanced to $3,390, an increase of $115 from the opening.

Like the First National stock, Mr. Baker's 37,000 shares of U. S. Steel common, his 63,000 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph, and the $48,000,000 in railroad stocks credited last winter to him and his son, George F. Baker Jr., have fluctuated. U. S. Steel, for instance, sold around 261 at one time in 1929. Last Saturday it closed at 115¼.

Cites Reasons for Lack of Profit on Railway Travel

BY SCRUTATOR.

A critic of railway passenger traffic management whose remarks Railway Age regards as sufficiently important to publish them at length makes some pointed observations.

"The simple truth," says this writer, who signs his name "J. M. Campbell," "is that passenger business in this country is in a mess. If all the facts were known, it would probably be found that it is being conducted at a loss or, at best, at a profit so small that it is not worth considering. . . .

"What is wrong? A good many things. Lack of imagination is one. Lack of audacity—a willingness to experiment with new methods—is another. Almost universal acceptance of the belief that 'nothing can be done about it' is a third."

Has Doubts About Rates.

Mr. Campbell expresses doubt as to whether the sacrosanct 3.6 cents per mile is the "right" rate. He goes further.

"Is there," he says, "such a thing as a 'right' rate—that is, a rate which should apply everywhere, at all times of day, week, month and year?"

He points out that other industries selling service, telephone companies and utilities, have no single uniform rate applying in all communities and at all times. Telephone tolls vary, depending upon the hour of the call. Gas and electric light companies offer reductions to large users and their rates differ according to the purpose for which the energy is used.

Allusion is made to the costly duplication of passenger train service on the lines between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Omaha, St. Louis and Kansas City and New York and Buffalo, the fruit of competition run wild.

Food for Thought.

Here is indeed food for constructive thought. Each evening about the same time trains leave Chicago for Minneapolis over a number of lines. None of them are filled. They all provide about the same kind of service. The same thing occurs at other times during the day and on other runs. Throughout the country sleeping cars average an occupancy of ten persons.

When one railroad puts on a weekend excursion train the others follow suit. There may be enough additional business to be obtained thereby to make one excursion run profitable, but distributed over a number of such trains whatever profits there may be are largely dissipated.

The railroads complain that they are not making money. Electrification of terminals, they say, is out of the question, earnings being what they are. There is a disposition to demand higher freight rates. Such increases only drive more business to competitive carriers or destroy it outright.

General American Tank Car Earns $1.47 a Share

General American Tank Car corporation reports net earnings for the three months ended March 31 of $1,204,000, which was equivalent to $1.47 a share on the $18,833 shares of stock outstanding. This compares with net profit of $1,703,917, or $2.17 a share on 786,500 shares in the first quarter of 1930. President Lester N. Selig stated that the present rate of operations indicates that second quarter earnings will show an increase over the first quarter.

New New, May 4.—The "big news" in Wall street today was that some of the big shots of the bear faction who have been pounding the stock market so remorselessly for the last two months had folded their tents and hied them away for another vacation. One of the biggest of the lot was said to have ordered all of his short contracts covered "at the market" and to have ordered his friends to lose no time in doing likewise.

Whatever the basis of these interesting reports, the selling pressure which has borne down on the list so long and so viciously was noticeably lacking. The result was that prices improved all along the line. The closing table reflecting gains of 1 to 3 points or more for all groups, with the exception of the coppers. Short covering on a vigorous scale was apparent in some issues and brokers reported evidence of a steady

EXPECT BERLIN TO RATIFY BIG UTILITY DEAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—Berlin city authorities are expected to extend final approval this week on the sale of the $120,000,000 Berlin City Electric company to an international banking group, including Harris, Forbes & Co. [Harris Trust and Savings bank at Chicago], J. Henry Schroeder Banking corporation, and several other American houses. The offer has been accepted tentatively. The city has until May 9 to ratify the deal.

Formal announcement of the progress of the negotiations divulged that Otis & Co., which had been mentioned previously as a participant, is not a member of the American group. With Harris, Forbes & Co. and J. Henry Schroeder Banking corporation are associated the International Power Securities corporation, organized and sponsored by Aldred & Co., United States and Overseas corporation, formed by Harris, Forbes & Co. and associated interests and a subsidiary of the Public Utility Holding corporation of America; Standard Investing corportation and W. A. Harriman Securities corporation, both affiliates of Brown Brothers; Harriman & Co., American, British and Continental corporation, and others.

If the offer is accepted, the assets acquired by the group will be transferred to a new company known as the Berlin Power and Light corporation. These assets are at present owned by the City of Berlin.

INDICT J. M. HOYT IN FAILURE OF PRINCE & WHITELY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—James M. Hoyt, 75 per cent owner of the suspended stock exchange firm of Prince & Whitely, which failed with liabilities of $20,000,000 last fall, was indicted by the federal grand jury this afternoon on fourteen counts alleging mail fraud, based on the firm's answer to a stock exchange questionnaire dated June 20, 1930.

The indictment charges that the questionnaire mailed to the stock exchange listed as collateral owned by Prince & Whitely stock which was owned as a matter of fact by customers of the brokerage firm. On each of the fourteen counts Mr. Hoyt can be sentenced to five years in Atlanta penitentiary and fined $10,000 if he is found guilty.

There are nine partners in the firm, but none except Mr. Hoyt was indicted. The indictment specifically charges that Mr. Hoyt, from Jan. 1 to Oct. 29, 1930, unlawfully, wilfully, and with intent to defraud, devised schemes by which the stock exchange and customers of Prince & Whitely were deceived in regard to the financial condition of that firm.

$34,400 Worth of Life Insurance for the Cost of Only $10,000!

If you are planning the purchase of life insurance, don't fail to investigate the new Continental Family Income Policy. It's an outstanding value even in this year of big values . . . a policy that may give your wife as much as $34,400 although you pay for only $10,000!

Here's how it works. Suppose you buy a $10,000 Continental Family Income Policy (which costs no more than ordinary life insurance) and die at the end of six months. Your wife will receive a cash "clean-up" fund of $1,000 and $100 a month thereafter for nineteen and one-half years. Twenty years from the date of the policy she will also receive its full face amount, making a total of $34,400 paid her on only $10,000 worth of life insurance!

Of course, the longer you live the less money your wife receives, yet she will need it less and is always sure of the $10,000 for which you pay. This remarkable policy also includes a $100 a month disability clause and has a constantly increasing cash value, making it by far the greatest life insurance bargain obtainable today. 'Phone your agent or broker at once for further information!

STOCK DULLNESS DUE TO LETUP OF BEAR PRESSURE

Chicago Market Turns Out Minor Gains.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Dullness, the like of which has not been seen in several months, settled over the security markets yesterday and that section of the financial community which is sometimes described as "constructive" interpreted the development as an indication that the long bear drive is drawing to a close.

The evidence offered to support such a contention was the fact that there was a definite thinning out of professional selling, which enabled the more popular stocks to edge upward for minor price gains. Impartial observers hedged their opinions by pointing out the difficulties which beset the short range forecaster. They were content to take a hopeful view of the future and let the present tell its own story.

Trading at Low Ebb.

Not since Nov. 3 last was the trading so quiet on the Chicago exchange as it was yesterday. The total turnover amounted to 70,000 shares. In the absence of selling pressure, the automotive and utility stocks in which a ready market is maintained did slightly better, but the buying was negligible and the final accounting showed that the net gains in each case were slight. The whole significance of the improvement was found in the contrast with last week's results.

Announcement was made after the close of the market of the action of directors of the Hart-Carter company who voted to reduce the dividend rate on the company's preference stock to $1 annually. A quarterly payment of 25 cents was declared. The preference stock is cumulative to the extend of $2 annually. A. J. Hartley said that the company's current position now is practically the same as that shown in the last annual statement which showed a ratio of 16 to 1 of current assets to current liabilities. Since that time a cash distribution of $70,000 has been made to preference stockholders.

Estimates on Operations.

Little market response could be traced to the Grigsby-Grunow company statement on February-March operation and the Borg-Warner estimate on May business. Neither stock did anything out of the ordinary.

President B. J. Grigsby said that the radio and refrigerator company had an operating profit during the two months, but that these profits were absorbed by inventory losses and other charges. The operating profits in the two months were made despite the fact that sales for the first four months of the year were 50 per cent below the corresponding period last year. This was possibly largely because of the economies effected in the last year, Mr. Grigsby stated.

The Borg Warner corporation statement said that present schedules indicate that May operations will show another gain.

13 FOOD MAKERS ORGANIZE SECOND SHIPPING POOL

Formation of Chicago's second group of food manufacturers in a shipping pool to handle car lots of merchandise prepared here, was announced yesterday by E. J. Miller, secretary of the Coöperative Pool Car Shippers of Chicago. There are 13 companies associated in this new enterprise, including several in competitive lines of food manufacturing. The venture has been operating a week. It is patterned after one formed several months ago by the Big Ten Pool Car Shippers' association, also dealing in food products manufactured in Chicago.

The companies retain their individuality in sales enterprise, but are able to ship carlots instead of less than carlot amounts through pooling of distribution. In the past week, according to Mr. Miller, shipments by the new association have been as far as Los Angeles and into the states of Washington, Florida, and Massachusetts.

The 13 companies are the College Inn Food Products company, the Eigelberner Food Products company, Foell Packing company, Glaser-Crandell company, Purity Packing company, Illinois Meat company, Sterling Packing company, King-Fuller-Crandell company, McKenney Importing corporation, E. K. Pond company, Scully Syrup company, United Fig and Date company, and the Williamson Candy company.

CURB MARKET GAINS STRENGTH IN DULL SESSION

New York, May 4.—(AP)—The curb market gained strength slowly today in the dullest session since Jan. 19. Although net advances were moderate they were general in the active shares. Utilities profited by slow covering and there was a better tone to the specialties. Oils, with the exception of Vacuum, which broke 1½ to a new low, were steady to firm.

Electric Power and Light warrants rallied a couple of points and there were gains of better than a point in United Light "A" and "B" issues. Bond and Share, turning over actively, closed ⅞ higher, virtually at the top, and there was a major fractional rise in St. Regis paper. Brazilian Traction provided a contrast to the trend by yielding a point.

To the surprise of the rank and file, the market took the news of the passing of George F. Baker, dean of American financiers and long a power in the street, with great calm. Most of the stocks in which Mr. Baker and his bank were known to be strongly interested, such as United States Steel common, American Telephone, National Biscuit, American Can, Montgomery Ward, and New York Central, closed the day showing substantial advances over their Saturday ratings. Lackawanna was off fractionally and Erie just about held its own.

Affairs in Shape.

It was rumored that banking interests had "stood by" in the early dealings to prevent any wide break on the score of the financier's death, but brokers declared that this precaution—if it was taken—was hardly necessary in view of the general feeling that a man of his business stature had undoubtedly left his affairs in such a shape as would occasion a minimum of disturbance. Any fears that may have been entertained, therefore, of a liquidation of his tremendous security holdings—among the greatest of the country, it was said, were obviously groundless.

Stock of the U. S. Steel corporation and American Can, in which Mr. Baker was reported to be most largely interested, eased off a bit at the opening, but quickly rallied and continued strong on to the close of the session. American Can finished at 110, up nearly 2 points on the day, and U. S. Steel bettered its week-end rating by an even point, closing at 116¾.

Shorts in Auburn were once more taken over the hot sands as the price went skyrocketing for more than 16 points to close at 217¾. The swift upturn of this volatile probably stimulated covering in other sections of the list. Other motors were mildly better, both General Motors and Chrysler moving ahead almost a point. Nash also attracted a profitable following as it usually does when there is any motive power to the market at all.

Poor Earnings Report.

Weakness in the copper shares was perhaps due as much as anything else to the poor Anaconda earnings report for the year. The sharp decline in the price of the metal also had its effect. Anaconda and Kennecott each lost about a point, the last-named registering a new bottom for the year.

Westinghouse Manufacturing, which has been one of the leading bear targets ever since the decline got under way back in early March, was given a rest today and showed its appreciation by perking up for nearly two points.

Pool activity was credited with a spurt of some 2 points in Kroger Grocery.

Oil shares did better as a group, Standard of California, Houston, and some of the others moving ahead for from 1 to 2 points.

Allied Chemical, so unmercifully drubbed last week, rebounded for about 4 points. The utilities were strong and so were some of the rails.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—New public financing in the United States in the first four months this year, excluding domestic and Canadian municipals, aggregated $1,380,959,000, according to preliminary compilations announced today by Otto P. Schwarzschild, manager of National Statistical Service, New York City. This total compares with $2,300,799,000 for the same period of 1930.

Of the total new offerings bond and note issues aggregated $1,329,088,000, or more than 96 per cent of the total, while stock issues amounted to only $51,871,000. Domestic public utility financing totaled $703,159,000, accounting for more than 51 per cent of total offerings. Domestic railroad issues ranked second with $307,677,000, or over 22 per cent of the total. These two groups thus accounted for approximately three-quarters of the total new offerings during the first four months. There were no new offerings of foreign government issues and only three stock issues were offered in April for a total of $11,650,000.

Marmon Motor Company Has $2,915,707 Net Loss

The Marmon Motor Car company and subsidiaries today reported a net loss of $2,915,707 for the year ended Feb. 28, 1931. This is after depreciation and interest but before special reserves amounting to $775,000. Special reserves include provision for items which may arise from reduced usage of special dies and tools based upon estimate of future sales. In the year ended Feb. 28, 1930, net profit was $832,859, equal after 7 per cent preferred dividend requirements to $2.59 a share on 260,000 shares of common stock.

CATTLE—Bulk of sales yesterday, $6.75@ 9.35
One month ago.....8.75@11.00
One year ago.....8.75@ 9.35
Top yesterday, $9.85; average, $8.75.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 14,000.

The hog market slipped back to last week's low spot when supplies exceeded trade requirements yesterday. All of last Friday's gain was erased, the top and general average coming down 25c at $7.35 and $6.75, respectively. The top stands only 10c above the low point of the year, while the average is only 5c above the low spot in February.

Receipts at 44,000 were second largest since March 23 and compared with 29,947 a week ago. Light weights slumped 25@40c near the close, while most butchers showed 10@25c decline. About 6,000 were left at the close.

Hogs averaging 170@210 lbs. were bid $7.20 for today's delivery, while 210@260 lb. mediums carried bids of $6.75. However, there were no sellers at these prices. May light hogs were bid $7.25. June light were offered at $8.00 and bid $7.50, while July bids were at $7.50 and September offers at $8.25 in the light hog class. Mediums for next September were offered at $8.00 and bid $7.75. Heavy grades were offered at $7.90 for September and bid $7.70.

Yesterday's offerings of cattle were just equal to trade requirements, resulting in a fairly active session at steady prices, with all interests on the market for fair numbers. Both yearlings and heavy steers reached the top, $9.75, which equals the previous week's peak. Bulk of steers sold at $7.25@8.75. Top heavy steers ranging downwards to $6.00. Cows and heifers sold at mostly steady prices. Calves were unchanged. A few sales of stockers and feeders were reported about in line with last week.

Lambs Recover Loss.

The lamb market recovered most of last week's losses when prices went up 25@35c yesterday, the top at $9.85 being only 15c under the highest point of last week. Mates to the $9.25 lambs late last week were sold yesterday at $9.60. The shorn lambs at $8.60, compared with $8.25 last Friday. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged. Sheep receipts at leading markets dropped off abruptly, the total at Chicago yesterday at 15,000 being smallest for Monday since March 2.

Shrewd Investors BUY in times of Depression
Low bond prices and liberal yields are a characteristic of depression. Wise investors take advantage of such opportunities. Those who wait have to pay more and receive less return on their money.
New England Gas and Electric Association Gold Debentures Bonds, due 1947, '48, and '50, combine safety of principal with liberal yield.
